STRONG ON PARKS

Sunday seemed to be visitors' day at Lake Gothenburg, as many were here from neighboring towns enjoying the cool water. The two bath houses were painted last week. The roofs were painted green and the sides white. They were painted white inside and are now clean and attractive. The new tourists park has been doing full duty the past week, and few are now seen at Lafayette Park. A wire fence was put up along the road and a good well put down. This adds another to Gothenburg's already fine list of beautiful parks.

There has been talk of a pier and diving board from the ladies' bath house.

There really ought to be a traffic cop at the lake as the cars stopping at the bath houses almost completely conglomerate the road. Who volunteers?

Some lobster was the first to deface the new bath house. It has been cleaned up and painted out. There is a state law covering this and nobody will be lenient with the culprit if found out.—Gothenburg Independent.

STOLE A FORD

During Tuesday night and Wednesday morning Constable W. T. Elliott rounded up the gang who made away with Bert Everts' Ford car on Thursday night of last week. The three men who were arrested and are now in jail at North Platte, are Floyd Carter, Layton Loughrey and Clark Everts.

The man Loughrey, who was held in jail here while Sheriff Salisbury took the other two to North Platte, made a written confession and stated that the three of them stole the car on Thursday night of last week, run it to a field several miles east of Brady, left it until the next night and then went back and took what parts they needed to repair two other old cars.

During the search for the various parts of the stolen car Constable Elliott informs us he stumbled on to a moonshine still at Carl Murray's place north of town, which Sheriff Salisbury took with him to the Platte Wednesday forenoon. The same evening the sheriff phoned Constable Ellott to arrest Murray, but up to Thursday evening he could not be located.

Constable Elliott took Layton Loughrey to North Platte this morning and on his return stated that Loughrey had plead guilty, and that Carter and Everts had plead not guilty. All three were held under $1500 bonds each.—Brady Vindicator.

NOT IN ORDER

A recent issue of a North Platte paper contained a very important news item, it being a vote of thanks signed by a number of farmers living south of North Platte and thanks to the North Platte Chamber of Commerce for their efforts in making it possible to cross the river with groceries and supplies during the recent high water.

Reading the article closely, it was quite apparent that the North Platte Chamber of Commerce had accepted the vote of thanks not in realization of their own interests but that they had made a big sacrifice for the service rendered.

[Illustration of a similar service rendered, and evidence of co-operation, the following is submitted in contrast. The recent high water flooding between two of the bridges south of Maxwell and covering a distance of about forty rods made passage about impossible. Upon very short notice a large representation of farmers and business men of Maxwell appeared on the scene and in a few hours had constructed a pontoon bridge the entire length of the area covered by water and conveyances were passing high and dry.

A vote of thanks was not in order. Each and everyone had performed his duty as a public service and to his own interest. Omitting comment, both public and of the press, the united bodies had not only accomplished their task but had also developed a feeling of closer relationship.—Maxwell Telepost.

OF INTEREST TO RURAL READERS

FARM BUREAU NEWS SERVICE SUPPLIES ITEMS FOR THE TRIBUNE READERS

R. B. Howell of Omaha, chairman of the commission appointed by the U. S. post office department and department of agriculture to have charge of the experimental work in the wireless dissemination of market and weather to rural districts, held a conference with H. D. Lute, secretary of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, and officers of the state agricultural college looking to an early installation of experimental equipment. Mr. Howell expects early in September to make a trip to Europe where he will make a study of the system of telephonic market reports that are highly developed in certain European countries. He will make the trip entirely at his own expense. Mr. Howell's trip, however, is not expected to delay the experimental work in Nebraska which will be started as soon as equipment arrives. Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation headquarters is daily receiving the assurance of the various county Farm Bureaus that they are ready and willing to co-operate to the fullest extent in making the experimental work a success, thereby overcoming one of the greatest difficulties in suchwork that of interesting the folks out in the field. It is interesting to note that the first experimental work in the matter of rural free delivery was done in Nebraska; the first R. F. D. line running out of Pawnee City. From this experiment grew the great system of rural free delivery reaching nearly every farm house in the entire United States. It is, then, gratifying to Nebraska that she is to be the field for the rural wireless system that is to bring the farmer even closer touch with the rest of the world.

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation is to play a large part in the experimental work to be carried on by the United States post office department in the development of the wireless telephone as a means of transmitting market reports, weather reports and important news items to rural communities. H. D. Lute, secretary of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation has been carrying on an investigation along this line for some time. Simultaneously with Mr. Lute's investigation, Hon. R. B. Howell of Omaha made a trip to Washington to urge the post office department to get behind the idea. Acting upon Mr. Howell's advice, the federal government appointed a commission composed of men connected with the U. S. post office department and the U. S. department of agriculture to take charge of the experimental work. Howell was named as chairman of the commission and will have practically entire control of the experimental work. Mr. Howell has selected Frank A. Harrison of Lincoln to look after the details. Recognizing that Mr. Lute was working along the same lines Howell and Harrison have joined forces with him and the various county farm bureau organizations will be utilized in the experiments. While the plans so far are only tentative, it is probable that a sending station will be established at the State Agricultural College at Lincoln where the power plant can be utilized for sending. It may be that later one or two other sending stations will be established in the central and western portions of the state. Mr. Howell says that receiving equipment can be attached to the battery of the ordinary automobile at a cost of approximately $75.00, or in quantities at about $30.00. Many county Farm Bureaus are now ready to go ahead with their part, and it is probable that final plans will soon be completed.
