High Ideals Call for Health and Hard Climbing

H. C. Forbes, editor and owner of Forbes Magazine, tells us that "High ideals call for health, hard hiking and climbing." Forbes knows. He started as a reporter. Then he specialized on interviews with successful men. Now he is a publisher.

Chiropractic brought into the world the missing plank in the platform of health. It is the law of mechanical correctness. The spine must be mechanically correct in alignment of every joint. Then the nerve openings are free and the spinal nerves transmit 100 per cent normal impulses. Health is a natural result.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause of diseases of the brain, eyes, ears, nose, throat, heart, lungs, liver, stomach, kidneys, intestines, and genital organs.
