EDITORIAL

We would like to see the band play the Star Spangled Banner at its next concert and at the same time we would like to see a bunch of ex-service men scatter into the crowd and make a lot of men and boys stand and uncover. Treat them rough if necessary to teach them the proper respect which the late war failed to do. The only people who are excused are those who do not have enough musical ability to recognize the national anthem and it is doubtful if they would waste their time at a band concert.

There are a lot of people in North Platte who go to church to show off their good clothes. Putting on our best clothes for Sunday used to be all right when people only had two outfits and they were all about the same grade. But putting on extreme styles in clothing in order that one may be better dressed than some fellows is a form of snobbery that harms the worship more than the individual. Western Nebraska is too democratic for many people to go to church in plain clothes when their equal but more fortunate fellow is dressed to kill.

From time to time we have run short articles on different Natural History subjects and just recently we printed two about the nature life in the City parks. With this issue we begin a series called "Nature Study in Our City Parks." We cannot promise one in each issue but one will appear in practically every number. We have prepared some little booklets in which to paste these articles and these will be given free to anyone interested. They are especially good for Scouts and Campfire girls. Come and get one.

A merchant who advertises prices cannot be a profiteer. The pages of the Tribune are full of advertisements of merchants who quote prices and these prices are low. Who ever heard of a merchant quoting high prices in his newspaper advertising. He will not quote prices unless they are his best. So, at least the prices quoted are not profiteer prices. We do not mean that all merchants and business men who do not advertise in the Tribune are profiteers, not a bit of it. But a moments thought will convince anyone that the profiteers, if there are any, are among those who do not advertise prices.

We are printing the announcement of the first sale of the fall season. It is at the A. B. Elliott farm, sixteen miles southeast of North Platte. The date is August 17. All over the state the papers are beginning to carry announcements of public farm sales. This is not unusual but is a little earlier than usual although some think August is a good time to hold a sale. Col. Johansen is the auctioneer with Ray Langford as clerk. This is a fair size sale including 59 head of cattle, 23 horses, 17 hogs, implements and household goods in proportion. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott are undecided just what they will do but they are going to quit farming for the present.

An examination for postmaster at North Platte will be held August 12 at the Federal building in this city. This office was vacant upon the death of Postmaster McEvoy on Jan. 8 1920. L. C. Sturgis was appointed by the President for the unexpired term but the office is now to go into the classified civil service and so the examinations have been called for the above date. No applicants have filed yet and it is not known that any will file against Postmaster Sturgis. Inquiry at the post office failed to get any explanation of the matter but it is our private opinion that it is just a formality by which the office is to be transferred from the civil service class through executive order to the civil service through congressional action.

North side farmers report that gunners have already been out after chickens. It is not easy for most people to realize the spirit in which a game hog will go out after these immature birds, go skulking around, hiding his victims, lying about the facts, and potting the little carcasses—all in defiance of law and public opinion. Occasionally one of them takes a manly stand and stops the unlawful practice. We talked with a hunter last Saturday who said he used to think it was cute to be able to get a bag of chickens before the season opened and not get caught. He said he tried to make himself think they tasted good, but he knows now that they did not. He felt all the time he was a poacher and a law breaker. Year after year the game interests of the state have prevailed upon the state legislature to strengthen the laws including the last legislation which set a fine of fifty dollars for killing out of season and gives the local agents of the state game warden 50 per cent of the fines collected in their territory. The open season on prairie chicken and grouse is the month of October.

A good sized crowd was disappointed at Brady last Friday when it was learned that the Clinton Boy Scouts had been routed over the south road from North Platte. Brady people cannot understand these little pleasures, which occur from time to time. Who is responsible for routing the Boy Scouts over an out-of-the-way road and what was the object? When Brady people want to go to North Platte they use the Lincoln Highway. Business men of North Platte recently suggested to the county publishers that better cooperation should exist between the villages and the county seat or vice versa—that is what the villages desire and hope it will come about sooner or later.—Brady Vindicator.

The above clipping takes a shot at someone and it looks as though it is aimed at North Platte. If so it is a poor aim. Taking a shot at North Platte is a popular diversion in some parts of the county and it is too often deserved but nothing can be gained by taking an undeserved shot and missing the mark. The editor personally talked with one of the managers of the caravan referred to and learned to his surprise that they had been informed at Sidney that the Lincoln Highway east of here was impassible for their big trucks. We told them we did not believe it and asked that they find out for sure before making such a decision. Officers of the local Chamber of Commerce, men in whom Brady as well as North Platte has the highest confidence, did not know until yesterday that the caravan left the Lincoln Highway. Sometimes a man is madder when shot at than if hit.

FARMERS TAKE NOTICE

You can buy a 500 or 1000 bushel grain bin, ventilated to save your grain and I am sure you can save the value of the bin in six months. Phone 517 or write Wm. Waldorf, North Platte, Nebr., 2nd door north of the Post Office.

Horned Toads Harmless.
Horned toads are harmless. They will not bite, even when taken in the hand. As a means of defense they have a habit of squirting little jets of blood alternately from each eye when disturbed.

"Life as I See It"
I suppose we are prone to think that the world hasn't given us justice. In some directions I haven't but in some others I don't want the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Arabians Are Testotaters.
Natives of the Arabian desert neither drink intoxicating liquor, nor smoke.

A Small Purchase.
Nervous Piano Salesman (formerly a department store clerk)—"Shall we send it for you?"—Boston Transcript.

Life as I See It.
A woman's no prominently means yes. This is the story before marriage.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

WHY DO BIG BUSINESS MEN BUY THEIR LIFE INSURANCE IN THE TRAVELERS?

They buy insurance like everything else. They investigate and compare the cost and the form of the policies. Where this is done, the business is always placed in the Travelers. There is a reason. Investigate for yourself. C. F. Temple, The Travelers Man, Phone 63.

Some of our readers may not realize that the value of the poultry raised in Nebraska in one year is nearly fifty million dollars. It is estimated that there were twelve million domestic fowls in this state at the close of 1921.

SCHOOL NOTICE

For Sale—School house, west end of District No. 5, at public auction, Aug. 3 to be sold at school house at 3 o'clock, terms cash. Ten days to remove building. C. A. Orrin, Fred Simants, Frank Purdy, Phone 798F13.

Ventilation.
If for any reason sufficient ventilation by means of windows and doors is impossible, a pitcher or pail of cold water placed on a table in the center of the room will absorb many of the impurities. This is sometimes useful in the sick room. The water should be allowed to stand not more than an hour.

Wandering Island.
The statement is made upon the authority of some Norwegian scientists that the island of Greenland is slowly moving westward at the rate of ten yards a year. They say that the island was at one time connected to Norway and it has moved 875 miles in the last 100,000 years.

Petroleum's Value to World.
It has been said that every possible necessity of a man's life, save the water he drinks and the air he breathes, may be supplied either directly or indirectly through the use of petroleum products, and even water may be pumped by a gasoline engine.

Dreaming of Fishes.
To dream of being in a fish market shows that you possess great spirit and that you will be rewarded for your trouble. To dream of the fin of a fish denotes poverty and wretchedness.

Practice of Righteousness.
Skill in advising others is easily attained by men; but to practice righteousness themselves is what only a few can succeed in doing.—Hippocles.

Tibetans Don't Use Water.
The Tibetans never touch water, but clean their faces and hands with butter, which they keep in the ground as long as 50 years.

The Unhappy Small Fish.
Sardines have disappeared from the Spanish coast. That's the way of the small fish—they always have to clear out for the larger.

Conscience Not Emphatic Enough.
"The voice of conscience ain' loud enough for most men," said Uncle Eben. "They needs an alarm clock."

Early President's Long Life.
John Adams died in his ninety-first year, the highest age attained by any President.

Scent is Distributed.
It is true that we associate scent with the flowers and, occasionally, with the leaves of plants. But nature, so marvellously loving of diversity, scatters the sweetness, now here, now there, sometimes in the flower, sometimes in the leaf, in the fruit, the bark, the wood and even in the roots. In the ginger and the iris, for instance, the perfumed oils are in the roots, in the sandal tree the fragrance is in the wood, in the cinnamon shrub it is the bark that scents the air.—Columbus Dispatch.

Odd Marriage Customs.
In all Slav weddings the bride is fetched by the bridegroom, emblematic of the time when his forebears carried their mates away forcibly. At Albanian weddings it is correct for the bride to weep and show great reluctance to leaving home. The bridegroom must present the bride with a handsome dress for the marriage, no matter what his circumstances are, so that it is known by all the guests that the dress the bride is wearing shows the taste of the bridegroom.

Books That Have Life.
After all, is it not better that a hundred unnecessary books should be published than that one good and useful book should be lost? (Nature's law of parsimony is arrived at by a process of expense.) The needless volumes, like the infertile seeds, soon sink out of sight; and the books that have life in them are taken care of by the readers who are waiting somewhere to receive and cherish them.—Henry Van Dyke.

Ancient Almanacs.
The clog almanac, once in common use in parts of England, is a square stick, on the four edges of which are cut notches to represent the days of the week and various symbols to indicate different festivals and holidays. More ancient than clog almanacs are the Scandinavian rune calendars, made of wood, or sometimes of horn or bone, and inscribed with rune letters.

"Assurance" and "Insurance."
Assurance and insurance are synonymous terms in ordinary usage, but in Britain fairly strict distinction is maintained, assurance being confined to life, and insurance to fire, marine, etc. Assurance was used exclusively until the end of the Sixteenth century when "Insurance" made its appearance, the initial "o" now having been changed to an "i."

Hail Cannot Be Prevented.
The theory that hail could be prevented by firing cannon or discharging explosives never was accepted by scientists, and careful experiments have shown that it has no foundation. The theory was advanced that the agitation caused by an explosion would prevent the formation of hailstones.

Didn't Mean to Be Forgotten.
A San Francisco woman, who died several years ago, left $5,000 each to ten of her nephews, on condition that her tombstone was to be replaced every two years with a new one on which each nephew in turn should put an inscription in verse setting forth his love and affection.

La Salle Given Ontario Land.
The first European landowner in what is now the province of Ontario, was Sieur de La Salle, who, in May, 1675, received from King Louis XIV a patent of nobility and a grant of land, comprising Fort Frontenac and the islands opposite. That old grant of land now forms part of the site of the city of Kingston.

Heartbeats of a Growing Plant.
An instrument which has been called "Cresograph" is the invention of Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose, a distinguished scientist of India, which is so delicate that it is possible to witness the "heartbeats" of a growing plant. These are throbbings which take place as the plant expands.

Liberty and Authority.
While we believe liberty is essential, we must also believe that authority is necessary. But there must be coordination between them so that both may proceed together in a compelling force to maintain our social, civic and political order.—Grit.

Have a Definite Purpose.
The world will stand aside for the man who knows where he is going but will pay little attention to the man who is too plainly wandering. It is not the fault of the world but of the man if he finds his path obstructed.

The Difficulty.
A Kansas City divine says the secret of success is to be born without money, friends or influence. This may be true, but how are we going to fix it to be born that way and would we if we could?

Few Really Have Stomach Trouble

Few really have stomach trouble due to stomach weakness. The stomach is part of the digestive tract which includes the secretory glands and linings of the alimentary canal, as well as the liver, pancreas, and other intestinal organs. The stomach each will appear the seat of trouble when any of these related organs are weakened.

When the trouble is directly due to weakness of the stomach itself, there is pressure on spinal nerves at what is known as "stomach place." The bones of the spine at this point have become misplaced, and the opening between has become narrowed, thus causing the pressure and interference with the normal flow of nerve impulses. When by chiropractic spinal adjustments this pressure is removed the normal vigor of the stomach returns and disease disappears.

MACHINERY INVADERS THE ORCHARD

No more back-breaking work picking up fallen apples in the orchard! Science has again come to the farmer's aid, and we now have an ingenious machine which is said to do the work of six men, and can pick up eighty pounds of apples in three minutes.
