There were 400 boys from 12 to 14 ears of oge in the Woodcraft school. The basis of their course was scouting but they were not allowed to call it a scout camp because it was held at a military school. They had some tests that we do not have in scouting and ran the camp strictly on a military plan. The boys have their periods for the different kinds of work and there is a special teacher for each subject. There were six separate schools unning at the same institution. The summer naval school with 600 boys of high school age, the cavalry school with about 100 boys, the artillery school with 50, the woodcraft school with 400, the scoutmasters school with 36 men, and the aviation school with 18 students. Lake Maxinkuckee is a beautiful place and is very condusive to summer seekers. It is fourteen miles around it and there are beautiful homes all the way around. Piers are projecting out into the lake every little ways and the affernoon finds many people bathing and boating.

The scout men were given a chance at every kind of training that the boys have. They taught us to row, sail, swim, ride horseback, make maps, paddle a canoe, save drowning people, and many other things. Last but not least they taught every man to like snakes. The captain who had direct charge of our work was a snake lover. He had many species and taught us to handle them like some people do their house pets. It is foolish to allow a child to grow up fearing snakes because there are few poisonous ones and they can soon earn to know them. They are not slimy as most people think but are soft and nice to handle,

While the scoutmasters school was n session there were 300 scouts from
