FARM SALES

Merchants are constantly having sales. They clean up their fall goods with a sale. They dispose of their remaining spring and summer goods with a sale. It has proven to be good business. In the same way, farmers hold sales to get rid of surplus stock, to unload all kinds of farm property before moving, to realize on crops and produce and to raise necessary funds. The banks and auctioneers look after many of the details. The farmers look after some of them. It is well to look sharply at the advertising feature of the farm sale. Notice should be placed in the County papers which will reach the largest number of prospective buyers—farmers. In Lincoln County, the Semi-Weekly Tribune stands first in number of subscribers among the farmers. Our rates are the same as most of the papers charge. We have master printers to set the ads—men who have become so expert in sale bills that no mistakes get by them. We look after the form of the bill, correct any errors in spelling, punctuation and wording. TO THOSE WHO ADVERTISE WITH US WE EXTEND SPECIAL COURTESIES IN PRINTING THE SALE POSTERS. A certain number out of every hundred are printed on a heavy manilla paper for out door posting. EXPERIENCE HAS TAUGHT OUR WORKMEN JUST HOW TO PUT UP THE BEST FORMS AND OUR PRICES ARE STILL LOWER THAN THOSE USUALLY CHARGED.

Farmers planning a public sale should see us about the printing.

LAST PICTURES OF GREATEST AIRSHIP WHICH FAILED

The greatest air tragedy in the history of aviation, the collapse of the dirigible ZR-2 in England, when 45 perished, 17 of whom were American navymen, will not stop the U. S. in its air programme, it is announced at Washington. But Americans will build all of our future dirigibles and we will purchase no more foreign-made crafts. These pictures are the last of the ill-fated craft. Upper left shows navymen leading the biggest dirigible ever built from its hangar for the trial flight. Lower picture is an official navy picture, a group of the American crew which went across to bring the monster across the Atlantic from England. The sketch shows the great steel girders buckling and the ship as it collapsed.

He pointed out at the dedication recently that the church service flag had twenty-two stars in it, and every member had proved over and over again the loyalty to the country of their adoption.
