EDITORIAL.

Hilmer J. Thompson made a call at this office yesterday while making a short visit here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Thompson. Hilmer is one of the boys of which North Platte is very proud. After completing his course in pharmacy he went to Chapel where he now lives. Starting with nothing but health and determination, he now has a good business, all paid for and in addition has earned the respect of the community in which he lives, because of his upright life and square dealing.

Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock and Earl Gaddis, his private secretary, continued their visit in North Platte over Wednesday. They visited the State Farm, the Air Mail field and other places of interest about the city during the forenoon. Senator Hitchcock was the guest of honor at the Kiwanis Club dinner and gave a very fine address. During the afternoon he visited the Country Club and played a round of golf. He left for the east in the evening.

Chief Spillner and his patrolmen have begun a systematic hunt after violators of the auto traffic laws. They do not have to hunt very far and each morning they have one or more violators in police court. The judge has been easy on them so far believing that a warning is all that is necessary but his patience is not to last for all time. Cutting out the mufflers at night and speeding, seem to be the principal offenses. The Chief seems determined that all autos shall have two headlights and that undue noise at night shall cease.

C. B. Bailey happened to be sitting at dinner in his cafe just across the street from the corner where Sam Simmons shot Wm. Foster a few days ago. He saw the whole scene and almost took an unwilling part in it. After it was over he went outside and fired a bullet out of the window of the cafe. It had gone through the new tin sign and entered the stucco wall where it flattened out and buried itself. Just two feet higher was the window through which Mr. Bailey was looking. He has it figured out that had the revolver been elevated a fraction of an inch the ball would have struck two feet higher by the time it reached his place and would have flattened itself out against what ever was just inside the window. He has the bullet as a keepsake.

If you want to see Jim Wilson go to the Fair Grounds. Jim is president of the Fair Association and takes the office seriously. He is determined that nothing shall be left undone that will make for the success of the fair. Donning old clothes and hunting up a bunch of tools he has spent weeks in getting the grounds and buildings in shape. The entry list of live stock is so large that it will be necessary to provide almost double the space used heretofore. This applies especially to the racing stock. The new hand stand which stood within the racing track did not prove to be satisfactory to some and it has been moved over to the exhibition grounds and converted into a place for showing the educational exhibits. A new grand stand has been built and all buildings repaired. The amount of work done is enormous and it has all been done by Mr. Wilson or under his personal supervision.

Yesterday we walked out to where they are laying the north side sewer. We found that they had commenced at the east end where the sewer empties into the North Platte River just above the railroad bridge and are working this way. Near the river they encountered a great deal of quicksand. This retarded the work and it was a great relief to the contractors and workers when they got to solid ground. The fifteen inch tile are laid in the water as it is and pumps are constantly at work keeping the water out of the way of the workmen. Chas. Cook and Frank Elliott are in charge of the actual work of constructing the sewer. About 35 men were on the job yesterday. Dick Rennie was laying out the line and surveying the levels so that the sewer would work properly. The joints are covered with cement and each tile is tested to be sure that it has no flaws in it which will cause it to give way. Should the weather be favorable the line will be completed up to the city limits before October 1st. Here it will be joined to the main sewer on tenth street. The total length of this sewer from the city limits to the river is almost two miles.

The Union Pacific officials granted the request of the Fair Association and will place two watchmen at the east end crossing during the fair. They will also place an additional watchman at the Locust street crossing. The east entrance to the fair grounds will be opened and in this way the congestion at the Locust street crossing will be relieved.

Mrs. Geo. B. Field entertained at the first of a series of one o'clock luncheons Wednesday at her home. After a well appointed luncheon bridge was the entertainment of the afternoon. About forty guests were present. Today Mrs. Field will entertain at the second of the series of luncheons followed by a Kensington. Covers will be laid for forty guests.

This model is made of fast color Kalburnie gingham—a white ground with novel checks, either of red and blue, or of two tones of blue, as you choose. Contrasting bands of white pique form the smart trimming.

A white percale with a rich red stripe has little crosswise vest running from neck to hem. Belt, cuffs and pocket flaps are also crosswise. A blue or black stripe may be had if preferred.

This little English print comes in either pink or blue. The ruffles are of white organdie with black picot edge. The belt ties in close at the waist. Black piping on sash and neck gives just the touch needed.

The September Maisonettes are here

We are now showing the Maisonette apron dresses for September—the same ones you have seen advertised in the current issue of The Ladies' Home Journal. Colorful Kalburnie gingham, charming English print, and a smart striped percale make these three new styles practical—for they wear well and keep their colors exceptionally when laundered with reasonable care. Their pretty pinks and blues, the smartness of their cut and trimming, gives them becomingness and charm.

Make your selection early—as the model you particularly like may be gone if you delay, and we cannot order more.
