It's the fellow who works when there's nothing to do that lands on "Easy Street"

Many a farm family with a good flock of hens realizes they are not so far from "Easy Street" as the crop income would indicate.

'GO IN FOR POULTRY' is a very good slogan for people who want a steady income to-day.

Many farmers are getting it from an egg laying flock.

LADIES OF TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB PRESENT HOME TALENT PLAY

"Katcha Koo" will be presented under the auspices of the Ladies of the Twentieth Century Club Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the Keith Theatre. Tickets for the play can be secured at Smith-Johnson Drug store and can be reserved at the box office of the theatre.

When the play opens, transfixed before the Maharajah's Temple of Buddha in Rasputin is a notorious fakir of Hongo, by the name of Katcha Koo. He can do incredible stunts—like all East India Fakirs—and Katcha Koo's specialty is standing for weeks perfectly immovable without taking food. He always selects some inappropriate and objectionable spot so as to annoy and irritate his victim and the people generally. Now he has chosen the Maharajah of Hongo as his present victim and placed himself directly in front of the great Buddha image.

Even the powerful Maharajah dare not lay hands on Katcha Koo, tho he has offered an immense reward to anyone who can move the Fakir. It remains for two ingenious Americans to negotiate the job. Through the widow of a wizard, they secure a magical suit of clothes, the last of its kind. Each separate garment retains the characteristics of the original owner. The trousers, a Frenchman's, full of politeness and desire to dance; the shirt, a vagabond's, making one carefree and happy; the vest, an Italian's, full of life and "pep".

This magical composite garment they succeed in getting onto Katcha Koo, whose career begins. His subsequent actions are dominated by the trousers of the Frenchman; the shirt of the vagabond; the vest of the Italian, and the coat of the American.

The scenes of the play are laid in the Maharajah's Private Temple of Buddha, Rasputin, India and in the Gaddin Estate near Riverside Drive New York.

The cast of characters is Katcha Koo, Mr. Norton, Solejah, a wizard, Helen Bonner; Urbanna, Priestess of Temple, Adele LeDoyt; Dick Horton, George Russell; Harry Bradstone, Cecil Cool; Maharajah, Harry Pizer; Dolly, Charlotte Hazencomp; Prudence, Josephine Robb; Mrs. Chattie Gaddin, Mrs. Tiley; Chin Chin Foo, Mary Ellsworth; Patsy Kildare, Elizabeth Peterson; La Belle Slyse, Gladys Wild; Brazatia, Willa Kelly; Boodypyp, Urbin Simon. Besides this cast there are choruses and dancers of all description. There are three hundred in the play.

Inspector Hartley and Supervisor Loomis of the State Board of Vocational education will visit North Platte the first week in December. They will be guests of the Rotary club on Monday, December 5 and the same evening they will appear before the board of education and explain the proposed vocational work for North Platte. Tuesday noon they will be guests of the Kiwanis club and that afternoon they will address the Twentieth Century club on the purpose of their work. Wednesday evening they will address the joint Parent-Teacher meeting in the Franklin auditorium. Mr. Hartley, after completing his high school and university work, served his apprenticeship and worked as a machinist for seven years. He thus combines theory with practice and is a valuable man to have on a vocational program. Miss Loomis has been in charge of the home economics department of the State University almost since its beginning until a year or two ago when she was called into the vocational education department of the state. She has quite an acquaintance here in North Platte because of her lectures and former visits to this city. These people come to us with the word that the federal government will pay one-half of the expense and the state of Nebraska one-fourth of the expense if North Platte will pay the other fourth in getting this vocational work placed under the Smith-Hughes plan.
