FARM BUREAU NEWS SERVICE
SUPPLIES ITEMS FOR THE TRIBUNE READERS

The petition presented to President Harding by the American Farm Bureau Federation commending him for calling the disarmament conference and urging a positive policy of disarmament has been presented to the president. It was one of the greatest demonstrations of concerted opinion ever given by any agricultural organization, and was gathered from nearly every state in the union. The state of Iowa led in numbers of signers with approximately 50,000.

In approximately every county where Farm Bureau annual county conventions have been held large crowds have been on hand to take part in the proceedings, according to the state office of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation. "In addition to the large numbers that have been attending these meetings, the enthusiasm with which they have taken part in shaping the coming year's program is the most encouraging feature," said H. D. Lute, secretary of the Federation who has attended many of the meetings. J. N. Norton, head of the state organization department and F. M. Dewese, in charge of the local department have also attended many of the meetings and in practically every case their report is similar to that of Mr. Lute. In practically every county convention the agricultural extension service has been represented by an able speaker as well as the Farm Bureau itself and the foundation for building up of the coming year's extension program has also been laid at these meetings.

At a meeting held in Chicago a week ago, attended by representatives of the mid-west group of State Farm Bureau Federations it was decided to launch a campaign for the planting of more clover and less corn, at least the replacing of corn acreage with legumes such as clover, alfalfa, soy beans, etc., in the interests of good farm management and a reduced corn surplus in 1922. In a statement issued after the meeting it was pointed out that on November 1, 1921 there was approximately 600,000,000 bushels of corn on hand in this country in excess of the average disappearance of corn covering a period of thirteen years, and that there was an excess of 370,000,000 based on the disappearance of the previous twelve months. Considering that excess corn production has caused the price to sink to a level below cost of production, and at the same time is exacting an unnecessary drain upon the fertility of the soil the mid-west Farm Bureau Federation officials went on record as favoring a reduced acreage of corn and the planting of crops that will rebuild the soil. The idea will also be pushed by the several corn producing states.

The ornamental breeds and varieties of chicken often have an unusual appeal. A breeder who may be first attracted to such fowls by their unusual plumage may develop a flock later which has decided utility value, an activity which thus responds to the same time profitable. Farmers' Bulletin 1221, issued recently by the United States department of Agriculture, on standard varieties of chickens, is the fourth in a series from the bureau of animal industry.

The present bulletin treats of the principal reasons for keeping chickens, and goes in to particular detail regarding the fowls in these Oriental (in which are the Sumatra and Malay), and two miscellaneous breeds, the Sultan and the Frizzles.

The poultry industry of the United States is concerned mainly with the production of food, but in addition to this there are fowls of much beauty of plumage or form kept merely for pleasure, because of their rarity or unusual appearance. It is this latter interest which accounts for a large number of the breeds and varieties in type, color, and color patterns. The bulletin may be had free, upon application to the Division of Publications.

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation has joined with other state farm bureau organizations in showing resentment to recent propaganda that has come out of Washington in an attempt to disintegrate and intimidate the "agricultural bloc" in both branches of congress which has been largely sponsored by the Farm Bureau and which has been responsible for the large amount of legislation enacted during the past year in favor of the farmer. The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation has urged its members to write Senator George W. Nor-
