

ORIGIN OF ROTARY

Seventeen years ago, Paul P. Harris, an attorney in the City of Chicago, was, tormented with an unmitigated obsession to achieve something of benefit to humanity. The lonesomeness of the large city, the dull routine of business, and the earnest desire to enlarge his circle of acquaintances spurred him into decisive action. He invited three friends to his office—a coal dealer, a mining operator, and a merchant tailor to whom he deliberately elucidated his idea of forming a club, a unique club, that would be wholly different from any other existing organization; a club that would promulgate the spirit of service, make business men better business men, develop a wide acquaintanceship and afford its members and opportunity to serve society.

This meeting occurred on February 23, 1905, and was the actual arrival of baby Rotary into a world that received her with open arms. Members consisted of one man from each business or profession, who met in rotation at their places of business to discuss various questions that might arise from time to time, and to offer suggestions concerning the welfare of the community. In order to strengthen fellowship, it was unanimously agreed that each member should call the other by his first name or by his nickname.

Membership in the Chicago Rotary club increased very rapidly and just three years after its inception, the second Rotary club was organized in San Francisco. The worthy movement spread along the Pacific Coast, crossed the continent, and crept north across the Atlantic Coast. At the close of the year 1910, sixteen clubs had been organized in the United States.

The initial convention of Rotary clubs was held in Chicago in 1910. The "National Association" was formed at this convention. But, two years later, at the Duluth convention in 1912, Rotary evolved from a national organization to an international organization.

Rotary has grown more rapidly since 1912 than during the first seven years. Today there are more than one thousand Rotary clubs in the world with approximately eighty thousand members. Although the greater number are in the United States, the land of its birth, there are now Rotary clubs in Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Great Britain, Spain, France, Ireland, Cuba, South America, South Africa, the Republic of Panama, Japan, China, India, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippine Islands and many other countries. Inquiries have been received from Holland, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, the Falkland Islands and British East Africa, which clearly manifest the far-reaching fame of Rotary.

CHINESE PROSPER IN JAVA

In a Way, Writer Says, They Are Crowding Out the Hollanders Who Are There.

The Chinese are the backbone of Java as the Hollanders are the brains, says a writer in Asia Magazine. In Java there are no Chinese coolies. The Chinese came to succeed. Java is for them a holy place where all escape starvation and none seem to fall. They start humbly, lugging their little stalls with sweets or coconuts on their backs, or carrying at each end of poles that deeply groove their shoulders heavy baskets filled with penholders and teapoons carved out of buffalo horns or picture frames out of teak wood. Later they grow more prosperous and become the owners of stores in the small towns and cater to Hollanders as well as natives. The most successful open up quarters in the Chinese retail section of the bigger cities, the favorite shopping places for Dutch ladies. They come to Java to stay, and generally they marry native women. In the cities they have accumulated much wealth. They own hotels, houses and garages, and they are beginning to make the Hollanders feel more or less a guest, a renter in his own colony.

Galoshes, Begoshes!

Although the downtown streets were as dry as in midsummer the day after the wet snow, practically every flapper in the promenade wore a pair of galoshes—and wonder of wonders—every buckle was fastened. A year ago this would have been unthought of; then buckles were not intended to be buckles, but ornaments, and not only ornaments, but musical instruments, for the more they rattled the more the flapper was pleased. Now thin legs, thick legs and every other kind are encased in "buckled" overshoes. "Galoshes, begosh," said one guy with a chuckle, as he ogled the feet of the women who passed. —Boot and Shoe Recorder.

Pending.

"Well, want to marry my daughter, I suppose?" snapped the grouchy old millionaire as he glowered at the timid youth before him. Then, adjusting his glasses, he added: "By the way, aren't you one of my daughter's former suitors?"

"N-no, sir," faltered the cheerless one, "but I expect I soon will be one." —The American Legion Weekly.

CAT'S SKIN AS PAIN KILLER

Sufferers From Rheumatism May Find There Is Something in Rather Novel "Remedy."

There are more curious cures for rheumatism than any other disease, Bee sting cure has, of course, long been known, and it certainly seems to do good in some cases. Other people wear necklaces of beads—amber or ordinary blue glass—to ward off attacks. The belief that a silver ring with a piece of copper let into the side will cure rheumatism is also very widespread. It is, at any rate, less inconvenient than the Cornish cure, which necessitates crawling under a Bramble that has formed a second root in the ground, or drinking water in which a "thunder-stone" has been boiled.

Finally, there is the wearing of a cat's skin, a custom introduced by Belgian refugees during the World war. There would seem to be a sound reason underlying this particular belief.

Stimulate the circulation, and you do something toward curing rheumatism. So if you wear a rough, warm substance like a cat's skin next your body, you reduce your chances of catching rheumatism.

NOTHING STINGY ABOUT HIM

Generous Man Dead Willing to Let Neighbor Have Anything he Would Pay For.

"Don't tell me we are not a generous people," said the corner-seat passenger on the early car. "I hear so many people complaining how stingy folks are that it's refreshing to see somebody that's got something to give away."

"Well, what for instance?" grunted his seatmate. "Somebody been offering you good advice, or has he only been wishing he could divide his cold in the head with you?"

"Neither one," said the other, "but I've got a big-hearted neighbor who was talking across the fence with me the other day. He had sent for a catalogue of some hardware-clothing concern, and he let me look it all over."

"That was generous," agreed the other. "That was the next thing to giving you something, I'll say, letting you read a fresh new book."

"Yes, but he did better than that," resumed the first. "He not only let me look the book over all I wanted to, but he said, 'You can send and get anything you want in it; I don't expect to buy it all.'"—Los Angeles Times.

Appeal of Music to the Human Mind.

Music, like literature, appeals to the human being as a whole. Whatever the range covered by literature in the appeal to human nature, precisely the same range is covered in a different medium, but not less surely, by music. To make music take its proper place, would therefore be to give it an equally important place in the public school curriculum with literature. Beethoven, for example, would be placed side by side with Shakespeare as a subject of study, because Beethoven is exactly of the same importance and on the same level as Shakespeare, as a storehouse of mental wealth and a subject of intellectual training. Like Shakespeare, Milton, Wordsworth and Coleridge, the great composers like Beethoven, Bach and Mendelssohn strengthen the reasoning powers, the imaginative faculties and higher nature generally.

Spot Forever Famous.

Motorbuses, charabancs, and thousands of motorcars pass by Box hill and the pretty little hotel which nestles under its foot at Burford bridge without knowing that in the beautiful old garden at the back of the house Nelson took leave of his beloved "Emma"—the Lady Hamilton, whom Romney painted over 60 times—before he took coach to Portsmouth and thence sailed on that cruise which ended at Trafalgar.

In that very same garden another event happened which men do not take as much account of, but which may, nevertheless, count for more in the true evolution of the race.

John Keats wrote the greater part of "Endymion" as he walked those paths, listening to the birds and looking upon the beautiful landscape, and coined there that immortal phrase: "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."—London Times.
