

CHATS WITH YOUR GAS MAN

The other day a friend said to us: "Why should you advertise? You get all the gas business there is."

We are glad he asked this question. Perhaps you, too would like to know why. Here is our answer.

It is not sufficient that we merely give good service, be courteous and make friends. We want to dispel prejudice and misunderstanding from the minds of the public by continually stating the facts about our business.

We believe it our duty to let the public know the real nature of our business and the aims and ideals of the men engaged in that business. There is no mystery about it, nothing that we would wish to cover up. Then why not advertise it?

Like the man on the witness stand we can say: "It's the easiest thing in the world to tell the truth when there is nothing but the truth to tell."

SIEBOLD-ADAMS

Miss Edith Helen Siebold and Lester Adams of this city were married Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Julia M. Siebold, 518 South Chestnut.

The bride wore a dark blue traveling suit with a hat to match and carried a beautiful bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Audrey Adams, sister of the groom also wore a dark blue suit and carried pink roses. The flower girls were Etta Taylor of Minatare and Iris Stegall. Little Margaret Witt, dressed in white organza, carried the ring in a large white rose.

Mrs. C. H. Leininger sang "Oh Promise Me," and Miss Florence McKay played the accompaniment. Mrs. Leininger played the wedding march. George Siebold, brother of the bride, acted as best man and Rev. P. R. Stevens read the marriage lines.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Julia Siebold of this city and is a highly respected and estimable young lady with a host of friends here. She has been employed for a number of years in the local telephone office.

Mr. Adams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Adams. He was raised in North Platte and enjoys a large circle of friends here. He holds a responsible position with the Union Pacific railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams left on a late train for California and other western points where they will make an extended trip. They expect to be home about May 1.

THE SPRING OVERHAULING

Practically all motorists recognize the benefit of a spring overhauling for the car. And within a few weeks, thousands will be attacking this task more or less assiduously according to their enthusiasm or their familiarity with the subject.

But the elimination of carbon, the tightening up of the bearings, bolts and nuts, and the freshening effects of a coat of paint are not sufficient, according to Mr. Davis, manager of the local Exide Service Station.

"The battery," says Mr. Davis, "requires more or less attention at all times of the year, but especially after it has stood in the car—idle or otherwise—throughout the winter.

"Corrosion may have taken place around the terminals. This should be carefully scraped off and vaseline spread over them to prevent further trouble of this kind.

"The cradle in which the battery rests, is frequently so badly corroded by acid, that, figuratively speaking, the battery is only held by a thread. In fact, I have seen a man's battery drop out on the road because the motorist had failed to examine his cradle.

"The wisest course is to drive the car to the nearest service station either before or after you have completed the rest of the overhauling. Here, an expert battery man can test your battery, tell whether it needs any repairs and in other ways, assure the success of your spring overhauling.

"One way of avoiding this—if you lay your car up for the winter—is to store your battery with your battery service station until spring. The cost is nominal, but when you are ready for the touring season, you can be sure your battery is in good condition.

"To sum up, remember your battery is an important part of your car. Give it at least the same attention you give to other parts and you will have no cause to swear at the battery—rather, you will swear by it.
