FRANKLIN PEALE

Franklin Peale was born in Lombard street above Second, in Philadelphia, Pa., March 6, 1838 and died at Denver, Colo., April 13, 1922, in his eighty-fifth year. At an early age he applied himself to the artistic pursuits, he being a great-grandson of Charles Wilson Peale, the famous painter. He finished his apprenticeship in early life. On September 16, 1859, he married Miss Mary Ann Comly of Philadelphia and to this union nine children were born, seven of whom survive their father.

Mr. Peale enlisted in Company G, 118th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry at the Corn Exchange bank in Philadelphia in August 1862. He was wounded in the battle at Shepherdstown, West Virginia and lay on the battlefield for three days and two nights, during which time he was under the continuous fire of a company of Union artillery in which his father was serving. From the battlefield he was transferred to the balcony of a Confederate hospital where he remained ten days and was then rescued by Union cavalry. Upon his recovery he was transferred to the 59th Company, 2nd Battalion, V. D. C., where he served from September 12, 1863 to May 28, 1865 when he was honorably discharged.

He came to Lincoln county in 1867 taking charge of the painting department of the Union Pacific shops at this place. At that time it was the custom to adorn the locomotive with floral and artistic designs and portraits of citizens of national prominence. In this line he excelled. In the early eighties, Mr. Peale severed his connection with the Union Pacific and opened a paint and art supply store on the site now occupied by the Keith theater building.

Mr. Peale took an active part in the religious, civic, commercial and social affairs of the then frontier town, aiding in laying the foundations of the present city of North Platte. He was a member of the Protestant Episcopal church, of Platte Valley Lodge No. 32, A. F. & A. M., of Stephan A. Douglas Post No. 69, G. A. R., the Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the American Revolution and was very active in the early life of Walla Walla Lodge No. 56, I. O. O. F.

Mr. Peale and his family resided in North Platte for forty-five years when in 1912 he and his wife moved to Denver, where they were near their children. Mrs. Peale passed away December 22, 1917 and Mr. Peale then took up his residence with his son, Robert, where he lived until his death. He was a man of unusual mentality and retained his memory and interest in the affairs of the world until the last days of his life.

Surviving him are his children, Mrs. E. J. Baker, Norfolk; Frank R. Peale, Walla Walla, Wash.; Mrs. Anna E.

Tobin, San Francisco, Calif.; Mrs. Mary Ann Johnson, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Alverda Coker, Sutherland; Robert R. Peale, Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Gertrude R. Parks, Peoria, Ill. He also has thirty-seven living grandchildren and twenty-six great-grandchildren.

The Chamber of Commerce presented the matter of going to Tryon to the Chamber of Commerce band and after talking it over the members decided not to accept the offer but to refer the matter to the High School Cadet band. Dollar day drew a large number of people to North Platte last Wednesday and the buying was vigorous. Where merchants offered articles which the people wanted they had a bid attendance while other merchants offered as good or better bargains but the articles offered did not meet a popular need and so they did not go so well. A meeting of all the merchants will be called for some time next week when the matter of future action along this line will be taken up.

WIND!

Protect Yourself against Calamity
Insure in a Nebraska Company

Wind is an enormous destroyer of property. Nebraskans carry thousands of policies to insure against this sudden disaster. But some have overlooked a vital point. Every Nebraskan should insure in a Nebraska company in order to keep his money at home. Last year $9,000,000 was sent away to foreign companies. And you Nebraskans could have bought just as good protection at home in the Omaha Liberty Fire Insurance Co.
