EDITORIAL

At this time of the year many of the rural schools over the county are closing and the older boys and girls are taking up the work at home which best suits their size and ability. By the end of the month all schools will be closed and teachers and pupils scattered. The eighth grade examinations are now over and Supt. Cochran is arranging the eighth grade graduation program. The problem of preparing for the next school year is before the school officers and this will take their attention until the opening in September.

One of the rare birds in this part of the country is the bluebird. Only on occasions does one hear its song or see it in flight or at rest. It was brought to our attention when we saw a single bluebird on the telephone wire in the south part of the city last Saturday afternoon. It was singing and that song took us back to boyhood in eastern Nebraska where we had bluebirds all about the orchard and pasture on our place. A few more boxes placed about the city and a little protection from the English sparrows would give us an abundance of these birds again.

In the discussion of the band concerts someone has made the statement that $3 an hour is too much to pay the players. There is just enough truth in the statement to gain the attention of some people and antagonize them against the proposition. The editor joined the band two years ago. He played in all but one public concert and has received his three dollars for each concert. He has been at the band practice three hours for each concert and it takes two hours of his time to take part in the concert. That is five hours time for $3 or 60c an hour. In addition to furnishing his own horn and rack and wearing the uniform which was furnished by the Chamber of Commerce, he is contributing the experience and training of more than twenty years in band work. He has not received enough from the two years concerts to anywhere near pay for his instrument contributing freely of all his time to the cause.

A number of large cottonwood trees have been cut down this spring and removed from lawns and gardens. In one way this is to be regretted. They are usually big trees and so they have served their time. Being so large they shade other and better varieties so that it is difficult to get them started. Some of these big trees bother by scattering cotton over the surrounding country in such masses that it does damage to flowers, lawns and tender plants. These trees are not hardy and are not counted among the most desirable varieties. They were proper for planting in early days and in some places they are valuable now. But it is a fact that North Platte's beauty will be marred as long as it depends on cottonwood trees for its shade. It has been proven that the elm is perfectly hardy here and if given a little attention when infested by certain pests it will attain a large size and beautify the grounds where planted. There is considerable sentiment among some people against cutting down any tree and this sentiment protects some of these big cottonwood trees long after they have served their usefulness. It seems reasonable that they should be retained until other trees are well started and then they should be removed as fast as the other trees need their room.

TICKETS ARE GOING FAST FOR SENIOR CLASS PLAY

Reports from the box office this morning are to the effect that there has been a good sale of tickets for the Senior Class Play "Nothing But the Truth" which is to be given this evening. The prices have been 50c and $1 and these low prices have tempted many to go. One of the cast in telling of the play recently used these words: Urban Simon as Robert Bennett makes an ideal leading man. He plays opposite Elmira Brodbeck who takes the part of Gwendolyn Ralston. Complications begin when Bob makes a $10,000 bet that he can tell the truth for 24 hours. The proposition is very critical because he used Gwendolyn's money in the bet. In order to win, Bob is put in some very unusual situations which become more knotted as the story progresses to the end. It is humor from beginning to the end. Reservations can be made today from 4:30 to 6:30 until the seats are gone.

Mr. and Mrs. Loy Eyerle of Hershey visited friends in North Platte yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lyons of Gothenburg were city visitors Thursday.
