EDITORIAL

Paul said: "Recompense no man evil for evil"—Romans 12:17.

Lafayette said: "May this immense temple of freedom, the United States ever stand a lesson to oppressors, an example to the oppressed, a sanctuary for the rights of mankind."

The Tribune editor and staff wish to acknowledge the receipt of a letter from Mrs. M. J. Forbes, past worthy matron of the Eastern Star in which she expresses the thanks of the members for our placing the announcements of the lodge in the Tribune during the past year. Such acknowledgment is rare and unexpected but very much appreciated. Thank you, Eastern Star.

We went fishing last Tuesday evening with George Tekulvie, one of the best real fishermen in this community. On the same location was another old timer in the fishing business, Frank Beeler. Other good fishermen worked as hard as we did. We were in fast company. We thought up to that time that we were somewhat of an amateur and it flattered us to be there on the banks of the river with the professionals. But what elated us the most was the fact that we stepped up into the professional class without batting an eye. Our record was as good as that of the professionals and while we are not usually given to boasting, we are here to say that we expect to maintain the record made by us Tuesday evening and it might happen that we would beat that record at some future date. No one in the party even got a good real bite.

Every once in a while we hear some one saying that the city should do this or that about the swimming hole in the sand pit in the South Platte. One proposes that a guard be placed there to pull out drowning people, another proposes that depth marks should be placed there and again we have heard it proposed that no one should be allowed to swim there under any circumstances. The sand pits are private property over which it is doubtful if the city has any control. The owners are David Scott & Sons who are engaged in a private business and not in running a swimming hole. We are informed that no one has a legal right to go bathing in those pits without the consent of the owners. Has been gained. If the owners do not care who swims there then it is up to the bathers themselves to take the risk. The city certainly does not have any risk in the matter. The city has gone to considerable expense to equip a community beach in the north part of town and that seems to be as far as one could expect the city to go. Swimmers on entering the water in the sand pits do so at their own risk. They know the conditions there or they are extremely foolish to go into the water without knowing where they are going. C. F. Temple and some others tried last year to interest some of the people who were bathing there to put in some safe guards but they were not successful in getting up any enthusiasm when it came to putting the money. So he had to give it up. It does not seem that the city has any obligation or authority in the matter of the South River holes and it is as evident that it has done its best to date to provide another place which it under its control and which seems safer for those who are not good swimmers.
