

CHATS WITH YOUR GAS MAN

The chef of one of the finest grill rooms in the country, a high-priced specialist, said recently of his gas range: "I can prepare things on this range in better shape than on any coal fire I ever worked over. You can graduate your heat, which is a great factor in fixing up particular things for particular people."

Ninety per cent of the heat from a coal fire is wasted. Some of it goes up the chimney, the rest of it helps to roast the cook. With gas there is no waste, no lack the results desired is always produced.

If you buy coal in small quantities it is very expensive; if you buy in large quantities, you must have room to store it.

Gas, on the other hand, needs no room for storage. It works for you steadily without attention, is always at hand, ready, without dirt or trouble, in large or small quantities, at the wholesale price.
