Henry Takes an Open-face Ride
 While the press was busy telling of Ford's new plan to make automobiles in Mexico, Henry was up in Quebec, Canada, with his wife riding around in one of those old open-faced hacks known as a "caleches." It was a pleasure trip.

This life we live is irksome, no matter where we be; the road is lined with boulders, an' breakers crown the sea. But we mustn't get discouraged an' declare that life's a cheat, for the prospecks ain't so cheerin' when a feller gets cold feet.
 The man that proves a winner, is the man that trims his sails, and steers his craft, unerrin' amid the storms or gales,—the hard knocks don't dismay him, which he squares his chin to meet, and his symptoms don't betray him—he never gets cold feet!
 There ain't no road to glory, but what's beset with thorns, and it's purty hard to travel, if you're pestered some with corns. So, to make yer failure certain, wear yer pants out on the seat,—it's a sign that allers tells me that a feller's got cold feet. . . .
 I like to greet the feller that can laugh at clouds an' cares—that squares hisself in trouble, with his fists as well as prayers. . . .
 One that earns a benediction, that is mighty soft an' sweet. He blessed the world he lived in, and — he never got cold feet!
