THE UNION REVIVAL

NOTES ON THE PROGRESS AND INCIDENTS OF THE MEETING

Saturday night was children's night again and the large chours of boys and girls completely filled the choir space and veals unchanged. Stockers and songs and stunts were highly enjoyed.
Monday has been a day of rest during first four weeks of the revival but this week a short service was held on Monday evening. A good crowd assembled and there were a number of conversions.
What may be the last meeting of the series will be held this evening. A strong message is promised and the church will probably be packed. If it is thought best the meetings will close tonight or it may be they will be continued. There seems to be considerable sentiment each way.
Sunday morning the participating churches held services in their own churches but combined in the evening service at the Methodist church. The room was packed. Mr. Fraser was at his best and gave a wonderful sermon with marked results. The free-will offering was taken at this meeting.
A free-will offering was made Sunday for Mr. Fraser. The expenses of the meeting had been met by contributions at different times during the past weeks and these included Mr. Fraser's travelling and local expenses so that the offering Sunday was a personal offering to him. No subscriptions were taken.
Friday night was mothers' night. The congregation was asked to wear red or white ribbon in honor of mothers living or passed away. Those who did not have one color or the other were met at the door by a committee of high school girls who presented them with the appropriate colored ribbon. The sermon was very effective and reached the hearts of many assembled. The singing was especially effective.
Mrs. Carl Wickstrom of Hershey was a visitor in the city yesterday. She attended the tea given at the G. A. Austin home.
