A law suit was tried before 'Squire Gilbert Monday. Bill Dryden sued Bill Hughes for pay for blacksmith work done last February, which Hughes claimed he had paid. The suit was brought before 'Squire Clayton, all parties living at Brownville. The defendant took a change of venue and the case was tried before Mr. Gilbert. G. W. Fairbrother, sr., acted as Dryden's attorney, and Irwin Burnham was attorney for Hughes. The plaintiff and some of the witnesses were pretty full. A jury was empaneled, consisting of D. A. Merton, Walt Hadlock, D. T. Smiley, I. N. Cooper, Green Burgess and A. L. Jarvis. After examination of witnesses and short addresses by the atterneys the jury retired, arrived at a decision, but demanded $3 in fees from the plaintiff before giving in their verdict. As $3 was all Dryden sued for, he refused to pay it, saying he did not have a cent. So the matter remains in that position. The plaintiff. his attorney, the justice and five of the six jurors were old soldiers.
