WASHINGTON NOTES.

GEN. GRAHAM was before the commission investigating the conduct of the war on the 13th. He thought the closeness of the tents to one another at Camp Alger was responsible for much of the sickness there, together with the want of water for bathing purposes. There were no lack of medical supplies, but some of the medical attendants were inefficient. Gen. Graham also testified to temporary shortages of hospital linen, ice and other supplies.

It turned out that the letter was a forgery. The writer had planned the scheme to secure his release.

NUMEROUS requests have been received at the war department from municipal authorities and enterprising citizens for a share in the captured Spanish cannon, but as they are the property of the United States they cannot be disposed of except by act of congress.
