Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

One Chicago man is clamoring for the coinage of a silver 75-cent piece. A British commander-in-chief, while on active service, receives £75 a week.

A Princeton student has started to drive to the Pacific coast. He has had a prairie schooner constructed for his purpose.

E. Parmlee Prentice, whose engagement to Miss Rockefeller has just been announced, will one day inherit from his father one of the best collections of rare books in America.

First Assistant District Attorney Osborne, of New York, says that excise cases are easy to try. An "excise case is a question of fact, the policeman swearing on one side and the bartender on the other. The jury always believes the bartender."

Prince Rupert, the heir to the throne of Bavaria, dislikes very much the attentions of the White Rose league of England, which, because it recognizes the claims of the Stuarts to the British throne, persists, much to his disgust, in styling him "the rightful prince of Wales."

Another Austrian archduchess has broken down the barriers of court etiquette. The widow of Emperor Francis Joseph's brother, Archduke Karl Ludwig, the Archduchess Maria Theresa, who is a princess of Braganza and infanta of Portugal, is going to marry her major domo, the count of Cavriani.

A collector of autographs says: "I bought a good autograph of Queen Victoria in London for ten dollars. I got Matthew Arnold's autograph for four dollars, Blackmore's for three dollars, Carlyle's for nine dollars, and Gladstone's for $2.50. The signature of Lord Byron comes higher, and cost me $25."

WOMEN DOCTORS IN PRUSSIA.

A Number of Them Are Making an Excellent Record Against Violent Opposition.

After many years of opposition on the part of government officials stimulated to activity by male physicians, women have been admitted to the practice of medicine in Prussia and are already making good progress. Some are employed by the government and are, like other governmental employes, entitled to pensions. They are county and school physicians, doctors for the poor, and in the municipal ambulance system. Dr. N. Scholz, in the St. Petersburg institute for experimental medicine, is one of the first experts in bacteriology, and the lectures are well attended. In Prussia women have for some years been employed as apothecaries' clerks. In Germany, also, the Wurtemberg minister of education will now give women an opportunity to study chemistry and pass examinations. In commenting on this privilege, Dr. W. Wachter, in a Berlin review, says:

"If women do secure this privilege it will be anything but a sinecure. German apothecaries' clerks have to undergo a very severe course of study, and when they receive a position, they are expected to be on duty from seven or eight in the morning to ten or eleven at night, besides attending to the night bell every other night if not every night. For all this they receive from $15 to $18 a month, with board and lodging. In a few exceptional cases an assistant may receive as much as $50 a month. Under such circumstances it is hardly a wonder that young men do not crowd into this field of employment. It is, indeed, the difficulty of getting assistants, especially in villages, that has made many of the apothecaries willing to consider the candidacy of women. Women clerks, he insists, should under no circumstances accept lower wages than the men, and they should, if possible, organize for protection; nor should they consent to act, when business is slack, as assistants to the apothecary's wife, thus enabling her to dispense with a servant."

Full and Explicit Directions.
Two bicyclists passing through a small town on the Long Island shore decided to take the train from there home. Being unfamiliar with the place, they stopped to inquire of a colored woman the way to the railway station.

"We are strangers," they said, "will you kindly direct us to the station?"
"Certainly, suh," she replied. "Keep a-goin' right on till yo' comes to de corner wha de ole post office used ter be, den tu'n to yo' left 'an' yo'll go right to de station."

As they rode off she beamed with pride, they with amusement, and, although they found the station, they have yet to discover the "corner wha de ole post office used ter be."—N. Y. Sun.

TREATMENT OF YOUNG GIRLS.

A Prominent English Physician Gives a Few Hints as to Their Training.

Dr. W. Gill Wylie, an English physician of high standing, has been sounding a warning to mothers in their treatment of young girls, and his words are well worthy of consideration. Up to the age of nine or ten years, he says, girls and boys should be treated on the same general principles; they should be allowed the same freedom, with proper restrictions as to their food, exercise, etc., and as nearly as practicable kept in good general health. They should not be permitted to over-exert themselves mentally or be subjected to excessive mental excitement by contact with older children. But what is the true state of affairs in this country concerning our young girls—our future mothers?

In this country the girls, during their development stage, are not restrained in their studies. On the contrary, they are forced forward, as a thoroughbred racer is forced under whip and spur. In England it is different. Our girls are thrown more into company with grown people, their general education and knowledge of the world are greater than young women in other countries. With my own children, we kept them from contact with older people and started them to school when over eight years old. Recognizing the fact that those expecting to live in the world should grow up in contact with the best of it, and that a private tutor rendered education somewhat abnormal, we decided to send them to school, but as the schools push children along too fast we sent our children for a year and the next year had them go over the same course. Thus we made our girls during development take just twice the time to learn as other children, says a household exchange.

Another thing that mothers of girls should ponder is the dress of young girls and women. The modern costumes of women, especially among the well to do classes, is and has been bad for many generations. It obstructs freedom of action and lessens the good effects of wholesome exercise. Lacing is especially bad. I am sure its bad influence on the lower ribs and certain organs is more or less transmitted from mother to daughter.

The Treatment That Failed.
"You have been suffering from sleeplessness," said the physician.

"You hit it the first time, doc," said the worried-looking patient.

"I don't want to give you any sedatives if I can avoid it. Here is a plan that works well sometimes. Just try to picture to yourself another person asleep. Your own sleep will come through suggestion."

"Huh! It is the other fellow asleep that is worrying me. I got a roommate that snores like a buzzsaw going through a knot."—Indianapolis Press.

Unpractical.
"Book larnin'," observed the old man, "mebbe all right 'nuff, but somehow it don't seem ter be very practical. Now, I've got a nephew, Sister Susan's youngest boy. Good boy, an' all that, but never could do nothin' but study books. Must hev a heap o' book larnin'." An' the last I heard of him he's been drawn on a jury down in York. Murder jury, too. His larnin' didn't prove ter be practical, somehow."—Detroit Journal.

The Beaded Waist.
Fine beads sewn on at regular intervals all over silk waists, as if they were pin spots, are one of the Parisian fancies, and with these is worn a collar band, pointing down below the accustomed neck line in front, closely beaded all over.—Detroit Free Press.
