

Lydia E. Pinkham's

Vegetable Compound cures the ills peculiar to women. It tones up their general health, eases down overwrought nerves, cures those awful backaches and regulates menstruation.

It does this because it acts directly on the female organism and makes it healthy, relieving and curing all inflammation and displacements.

Nothing else is just as good and many things that may be suggested are dangerous. This great medicine has a constant record of cure. Thousands of women testify to it. Read their letters constantly appearing in this paper.

The Seat of War.

"My husband is so nice about explaining these war terms to me. I know I aggravate him awfully, too, sometimes. Why, only think, I had to ask him this morning what the seat of war was for!"

"Wasn't it foolish? But he's so patient. The idea that I didn't have sense enough to see that it is for the standing army to use when it gets tired!"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

THE WILD HONEY CROP.

Texas Bees Are Busy This Summer and the Flowers Are Luxuriant.

The wild honey crop in Texas this year will exceed all previous yields in the memory of those who are interested in that industry, says a correspondent of the Chicago Record. The bountiful spring rains caused the broad prairies of west and southwest Texas to become carpeted with fragrant wild flowers, and the bees revelled in their honeyed sweetness for a protracted period. There are a large number of professional "bee hunters" in this part of Texas, and they are looking forward to a season of unusual prosperity from the sale of wild honey. There are scores of rivers and small streams in the country west of here. Small caves and dark recesses formed by shelving rock abound along these waterways. They are the natural hives of the wild bees, and take the place of the hollow tree trunks of the forest regions of the northern country. These caverns are used year after year by bees, and in many instances they have been found to be literally filled with honey. Capt. L. P. Seiker, of Austin, quartermaster of the Texas rangers, spent many years roaming over west Texas as an officer of a ranger company. He is one of the most expert bee hunters in the state.

"There are many bee caves along the Pecos and Devil's rivers," he said. "My ranger company was never without honey. We were on scouting expeditions almost constantly, but were never too busy to rob a bee cave of its honey. It is wonderful how much honey these bees will store in some of these caves. I have taken out as much as seven barrels of pure honey from one cave. It is a comparatively easy matter to discover a bee cave. My usual method is to go to a spring or water hole which is frequented by bees and place a small quantity of sugar and molasses in a pan. This sweetness soon attracts the visiting bees, and after they have loaded up they rise straight up into the air to a height of probably ten feet and then make a beeline for their hive. On a bright, clear day the black form of the bee can be followed for quite a distance. I then take up the pan of sweetness and follow the direction taken by the bee until I reach a point where I desire to make another test. I then set the pan down again, and in a short time it is visited by the industrious little insect. When it again takes its flight I follow its course, and keep this up until I 'track' the bees into their hive. It is a comparatively easy thing to rob a bee cave. The honey commands a good price in the markets of the country and immense quantities of it are sold annually."

Beautiful Jewels.

The fact that exhibitors of jewelry from all parts of the world would meet on common ground in Paris no doubt put even the greatest and most famous business houses on their mettle, and the result is seen in superb displays. Among the most remarkable features of one exhibit is a necklace consisting of only 46 pearls, and yet representing $450,000. An ornament this, which may be dubbed royal or imperial, for the stones represent an average of nearly $10,000 each. A second necklace of pearls, perfect in the matching of the gems in size and color, represents $137,500. There is a pendant, the center of which is a perfect "pigeon's blood" ruby, and the setting of large diamonds, a jewel for an empress; and a hair ornament of lustrous brilliants, springing from a cat's eye of such size and beauty that a golden light seems to radiate from it.—Detroit Free Press.

World to End This Year.

This is the recent decision of one of the prominent societies of the world, but the exact day has not yet been fixed upon, and while there are very few people who believe this prediction, there are thousands of others who not only believe, but know that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the best medicine to cure dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, biliousness or liver and kidney troubles. A fair trial will certainly convince you of its value.

He Wouldn't Tell.

The argument by analogy or hypothetical case is often dangerous. A very stately and dignified clergyman used to tell a story illustrative of the risk of this method. One of his parishioners was much addicted to drink and one night the vicar met him coming home in such a condition that he remonstrated with him on the spot, and by way of clinching his argument, asked: "What would you say if you were to see me reeling down the street in a state of hopeless intoxication?" The offender appeared to be deeply impressed and answered, fervently: "I wouldn't tell a soul, sir."—San Francisco Argonaut.

SUNSTROKE

The summer's awful heat will kill those not fit to resist it—those whose bodies are full of poison because they have neglected their bowels.

The victims of sunstroke, or of any of the other terrible dangers of summer—diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera morbus—are always those who have been careless about keeping clean inside, and as a result have their blood full of rotten filth breeding disease germs and their bodies ready with weakness to succumb to the hot spell. Dizziness, heat headaches, sick stomachs, sticky oozing ill-smelling sweats, restless nights, terrible pains, gripes and cramps in the bowels, sudden death on the street, all result from this neglect.

Keep yourself clean, pure and healthy inside, disinfected as it were, with CASCARETS CANDY CATHARTIC, the greatest antiseptic bowel tonic ever discovered and you will find that every form of summer disease will be effectively
