F. L. Woodward received a letter from Leslie W. Leslie has a drug store at Kansas City and is a prosperous young business man. The Advertiser joins with his many friends in congratulations.

"Heard a new rule for making predictions of winter weather" said a state house man yesterday. "Looks reasonable, too, more reasonable than the most of them, anyhow."

"It says that if the leaves fall suddenly and all at once, the coming winter is going to be a severe one. Per contra, if they fall slowly, and the trees are a long time in dropping their foliage completely, the winter is to be a mild one. It will be noted that, according to this the coming winter is to be a mild one.—Columbus Dispatch.

The depot had a narrow escape from fire Wednesday morning. Some tramps had got into the house put up for the engine wiper and watchman and built a fire on the floor, going away and leaving it burning. The floor caught fire and was making a lively blaze when it was discovered by Section Foreman Frazier and put out. The house is only a few feet from the coal house and that joins the depot platform, so if the building had burned the depot would probably have gone too. Several box cars were on the sidetrack in a few feet from the building, and these would also have gone probably.

The realty owners of London precinct are looking forward to the time when the last dollar of bond indebtedness will be paid, and when that is done it is proposed that a grand barbecue be given and a big time of rejoicing be on. T. A. Bath tenders the use of his ash park on the Brownville road and a big fat steer will be roasted. The speaker for the occasion is to be John M. Thurston, the man who was instrumental in bringing about the compromise that saved the taxpayers many thousand dollars. This barbecue we understand, was proposed by Messrs. Peery and McGrew at the time the compromise was fixed. Both these men are now in their graves and others will do the celebrating.—Granger.

Miss Sarah Frazier and Guy Chamberlain were married at the court house in Auburn at half past two Wednesday afternoon, November 23, 1904, witnesses to the ceremony being Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Swan, at whose home the newly married people will remain until spring when they will go to housekeeping on a farm near Nelson. The bride, who was raised at Nemaha, is Mrs. Swan's sister, and is a charming young lady. The groom's home is at Nelson, but he has spent much time in this vicinity. He is a nephew of Robt. Chamberlain, living south of town. Miss Daisy Frazier came over from Nemaha, and a little dinner party was given Thanksgiving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Swan in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain.—Stella Press.

Thos. J. Chandler, living just across the county line southeast of Nemaha met with a fatal accident last Friday. He was at work at the sawmill at John B. Stotts' farm. The sawdust became clogged underneath the saw, and Mr. Chandler got on the carrier and was pushing the sawdust away with a piece of board four or five feet long when the board caught in the saw, which was running, and was hurled against his throat, crushing windpipe and jugular vein. The accident occurred about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon and Mr. Chandler lived until 3 o'clock Saturday morning.

Mr. Chandler was one of the leading members of the Antioch Christian church, in Aspinwall precinct. He leaves a wife and nine children, most of them grown. The funeral services, conducted by Rev. D. M. Sayles, were held at Prairie Union church Sunday forenoon, and the remains laid at rest in the cemetery at that place.

SCHOOL NOTES

"He who knows how to speak, knows also when."

Do not forget the reading circle Friday evening, Dec. 2. It meets with Mrs. May.

The third grade are doing some very commendable work in reading. They know how to enter into the spirit of a piece.

The eighth, ninth and tenth grades took up the study of Physical Geography Nov. 28. They take it up in a manner that augurs well for their future work.

You should have seen the smiles of approbation that lit up the faces of pupils and teachers as their eyes fell upon the improvements that had been made during the Thanksgiving vacation. If everybody appreciated improvement as much as school children do, there would be more made.

The little folks had a general cleaning up Monday evening. They scrubbed their desk tops and washed off their blackboards. They seemed to enjoy it if laughter is a sign of enjoyment. (How much more would be accomplished and how much pleasanter if all would go at their work in the same spirit.)

The report for November shows a fall in the average attendance owing to the ravages of the measles. The total number enrolled to date is 150, number belonging at end of month is 137, average daily attendance is 98, total number of tardy marks is 36. The number belonging at the close of the month in the primary department is 50, in the intermediate 39, in the high school 48; the average daily attendance in the primary is 28, in the intermediate 28, in the high school 42; the number of cases of tardiness in the primary 15, in the intermediate 5, in the high school 16. There were twenty-two in the high school that were neither tardy nor absent. Considering the sickness the report is very encouraging. Still there the more tardy marks than there is any reason for. Parents, can't you see that your children get to school on time?

Mrs. J. H. Henderson and Willa, who ate of the boiled cabbage in which a cabbage snake had been cooked, at dinner Thursday of last week, have been none the worse for the experience. As soon as they knew what had been in the cabbage, each took an emetic of warm mustard water, and even if the cabbage had been poisonous, the emetic would have counteracted, at least to a certain extent, its deleterious effects. This particular head of cabbage was very large, and was raised at the farm of George Weaver. Mrs. Henderson cooked part of it for dinner the previous Sunday, and six people partook of it. On Thursday when the remainder was cooked, Willa ate of it most freely, but Mrs. Henderson had not eaten much when the discovery was made. In preparing the cabbage to cook, she cut it very fine and so carefully examined all parts that she felt sure there could be no foreign substance. It was found in a peice which had been near the heart.—Stella Press.

Commencing January 2, 1905, the University of Nebraska offers a course of instruction in the principles and practice of agriculture. The course covers the subject of soils, field crops dairying, butter and cheese making, breeds and judging of live-stock, diseases of farm animals, horticulture, shop work, farm machinery, and English. No examinations are required for entrance.

It would seem that many students from this county should attend and take advantage of the instruction offered, for the knowledge gained will not only enable young farmers to get better returns from their land but will also help them to save money in carrying on farm work.

Robbed the Grave

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to take Electric Bitters; to my great joy the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a wellman. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c, guaranteed, at Keeling's drug store.
