We were pleased to meet on last Saturday, in Auburn, our old friends Lew Morris and Clay Shurtleff, both of whom had just returned from California, where they had spent the winter. Both are looking well and say their health is fine. Mr. Shurtleff says he came back to enter the campaign for congress.

Several of our citizens were in Auburn the latter part of last week as witnesses in a suit between W. W. Hackney and M. S. McIninch for the possession of an eighty acre piece of land north of Nemaha a mile and a half. Mr. Hackney won out. Mr. McIninch claimed possession by virtue of a tax title.

We must earnestly request of all who are indebted to us to make arrangements to settle their accounts, as we need the money to settle up our business. Our business relations with all of our patrons have been very pleasant and we trust we may be able to do more in the future.

Respectfully,

J. R. Curry and A. E. Camblin returned last Thursday from North Dakota. The former took a homestead in Mercer county, but the latter was not favorably impressed with the country, and came home without homesteading or buying. Mr. Curry's homestead is thirty-five miles from a town, twenty-five from a railroad, and the distance to the nearest church and schoolhouse is fifteen miles. However, six Nebraska families are living near his homestead and a man is living in a shack on an adjoining quarter section. The question of fuel is easily solved, there being an abundance of lignite all over that region, and in some places right on the surface.—Stella Press.

Claud Maxwell had a bad runaway last Saturday, but fortunately escaped without getting hurt. He had hitched up his father's horses to the mail wagon and started to drive to the postoffice. The horses were feeling pretty lively and when Claud pulled them up the neckyoke slipped up on the bole, letting the mail wagon run on them. This caused them to run away. They started to run at Chas. F. Zook's place, two blocks west of the livery stable, and came down the street on the dead run. They turned at the livery stable and ran into Knapp's rubber-tired buggy that was in front of the barn. This stopped the horses, throwing one of them down with feet in the air, and tangled up in the buggy so it couldn't move. Claud and the mail wagon were not hurt. The harness was somewhat broken up. One of the horses was bruised and scratched a little, but not to amount to anything. But Knapp's buggy did not escape so well, as three wheels were crushed and other damage sustained. It was a bad looking runaway and terminated very fortunately that no one was hurt. Monday morning when the horses were hitched up they started to run again but did not succeed in getting away.

DEATH OF JARVIS S. CHURCH

Jarvis S. Church, who has been in the insane asylum for some time, died Tuesday of this week. His body was brought to Auburn Wednesday and the funeral services held from the Lutheran church Thursday. Judge Church was an old and honored citizen of Nemaha county. He was one of the brainiest men we ever had here. He served several terms as county judge. He was a leader in all he undertook. Several years ago he had a stroke of paralysis, from which he never fully recovered, although he attended to his business for some time after, until he had a second stroke. Since then he has gradually failed bodily and mentally. He moved to Oklahoma previous to this. Finally his mental condition became so bad that he was sent to the asylum at Lincoln, where he could have better treatment than it was possible to give him at home. He had not recognized anyone for several months. It is a sad thing to see a man who was as useful and influential as was Judge Church in the condition he was in. He leaves a wife, one son, Harry Church, living in California, and two daughters, Mrs. Bertha Winters of Idaho, and Mrs. Ida Good of Peru, to mourn his loss.

Auburn had a bad fire early Sunday morning. The fire broke out in the bowling alley back of the billiard parlor in the center of the block east of Thompson & Peery's, on the north side, and was first discovered about one o'clock. Three buildings were burned, all frame structures, two stories high. No one lived in the upper story of the billiard parlor. Roberts' restaurant on the west was the next building to burn. Mr. Roberts lived upstairs and was unable to save any of his stock of goods, household furniture, or even his wearing apparel. Mrs. Roberts fainted when she saw the fire and had to be carried out of the burning building. The next building was Brisey's meat market, the family living above. A few household goods only were saved. The next buildings on each side were brick and the fire was checked. The plate glass windows on the opposite side of the street were broken, as well as the windows in the upper stories. The building occupied by the billiard hall was owned by J. B. Kublman and was insured for $500. Mr. Hubbs had $1200 insurance on his bowling alley and billiard tables. Mr. Roberts had only $500 insurance on stock of groceries, confectionery, restaurant fixtures, household goods, etc. Mr. Brisey owned the building occupied by him and carried $3,200 on building, stock, fixtures, household goods, etc.

Jack Boatman, assessor for Aspinwall precinct, has the honor of being the first deputy to return his completed assessment of the personal property of his district to the county assessor.

He finished the work of listing all the taxable property in an area of thirty square miles, Monday, and received for his services the sum of $54. Last year $135 was the amount paid for assessing the precinct.

County Assessor Maxwell says that the cost of assessing the county this year will be materially reduced and he expects to save the taxpayers $700 on the work.

He is doing all the clerical work himself and has fitted up an office in the county commissioner's room.

It is thought that all the work of assessing the county will be completed by the first of May. The assessment is being done in a very thorough and systematic manner all over the county.—Auburn Herald.

Agonizing Burns

Bucklen's Arnica Salve stopped the pain, and healed it without a scar." Also heals all wounds and sores. 25c at W. W. Keeling, druggist.

The Southeastern Nebraska Fruit Growers' Association has ordered 120,000 strawberry boxes and 4,000 crates for the berry supply this season. The outlook for strawberries this spring is good. The plants are full of bloom and are in fine condition. Berries of all kinds are likely to have a good yield this year. The apple bloom is heavier this spring than in many years and if this is evidence of anything the apple crop will be far in advance of what it has been in the past. The peaches and plums are not doing so well on account of the cold weather.—Auburn Herald.

Nebraska has had as cold snaps or colder than the past week.

Looking over a calendar that has been in use over 40 years, I find the following record: On the morning of April 13, 1881, ground covered with snow. Ice 1 1/2 inches thick on still water.

On the 26th and 27th of the same month and same year, the highest water in the Missouri river known to the oldest settlers. Goods were brought from Phelps Station, in Missouri, from cars standing on the railroad track by flat boat, and landed at the foot of main street in Brownville. Previous high water in the Missouri river was in 1840, but did not equal that of 1881.

Poisons in Food

Fraud Exposed
A few counterfeiters have lately been making and trying to sell imitations of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, and other medicines, thereby defrauding the public. This is to warn you to beware of such people, who seek to profit through stealing the reputation of remedies which have been successfully curing disease, for over 35 years. A sure protection, to you, is our name on the wrapper. Look for it, on all Dr. King's, or Bucklen's remedies, as all others are mere imitations. H. E.
