Nemaha takes hers Mixed

The election in Nemaha resulted in some surprises. Evidently the voters paid little attention to, politics, or rather the republican voters. The fusionists generally voted their ticket about straight, while the republicans generally scratched their tickets. There seemed to be a disposition to punish J. M. Wright because of the suspicion that he had changed to a republican simply to get an office. M S. McIninch was also heavily cut and so was W. A. Doolittle, though to a less degree. Fred Rohrs lost very heavily-not because republicans had anything against Fred, but because Rufus Rowen, our home candidate, was very popular. Rufe got the large est majority any candidate ever got in Nemaha precinct since Philip Crother was elected superintendent in 1877 or 1979, his plurality being 90. Sam Teare was a close second. having 85 plurality. The following is the vote in detail:

For justice of supreme court—Letton 103, Hastings 74, Beall 9, Condit 1.

For regents-Lyford 95, Abbott 97, Cole 78, Lightner 76, Sutton 8, Wilson 9, Roe 2, DeVore 2

For treasurer-Dirks 112, Young 77, Weimer 6.

For clerk-Wright 51, Teare 136.

For judge-McIninch 77, McCarty

For commissioner-Doolittle Casper 100, Hinkle 7.

For superintendent-Carrington 122. West 65, Meyers 8. For surveyor-Hacker 102, Gilbert 85

For coroner-Smith 88, Vance 68.

For justices of the peace-W. W Sanders 118, H. T. Minick 111.

For constables-Benj. I. Colerick

108. W.G. Maxwell 107. For overseers of highways-Dist 32 C. L. Russell 28, Chas Stanley 6. Dis

33-J. H. Seid 24, C. W. Roberts 1 Dist 34-W. T. Russell 26, Ray Ander-Dr Keeling got 42 votes. By a comparison of his vote with the vote on the head of the ticket it will be seen that he drew the most of these votes from the republicans.

Rufus Rowen may well feel proud of the vote he got at home.

The vote was the lightest it has been Saturday was very interesting although at a general election for over twentythe attendance was small on account five years. Farmers were busy as d of the storm. About 25 teachers were would not come in to vote: Only 198 votes were cast.

> Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Knapp drove over to Stella Monday to attend the By STULL & HAWNBY, her attorneys. funeral of Newt Hodge, ah old neighbor, who was killed Thursday of last week at Colorado Springs, Colorado. Mr. Hodge owned a farm joining that of Mr. Kuapp near Stella. About two Salve. Jas Walters, of Duffield, Va years ago he leased his farm and moved writes. "I had a cancer on my lip for to Colorado Springs on account of asthma. He was bauling a load of rock on the day of his death. A man is perfectly well." Guaranteed cure riding ahead heard him call "whoa" to his horses, and looking back saw Mr. Hodge lying in the road back of the wagon. He ran back and raised him up, asking if he was hurt. Mr. Hodge answered: "I'm dead," straightened out and died instantly. The neighbors assisted the beleaved wife and family down due to dyspepsia or consumption . and the household goods, etc., were loaded on a car and shipped in to Stella, as Mrs. Hodge says she never wants to live at Colorado Springs Deceased leaves a wife and six chil-

The dray team took a lively spin Wednesday afternoon. Ed Knapp drove around to W. H. Barker's blacksmith shop and stepped inside without tying the team. He had no more than got inside the door when the team started. They ran down the alley turning west at the street and then south at the livery stable corner and down the street. Jim Collins caught the rear end of the wagon and makaged to get in and get hold of the lines when in front of the restaurant. The horses had checked their speed and were then easily controlled. No damage was done. A barrel half full of water was in the wagon and this went out and clear across the road in the ditch north when the team made the turn at the north end of the alley.
