Fast Corn Shucking

John H. Knapp is the champion corn shucker in this section. Ole Roberts was anxious to finish up corn shucking last week, so on Friday he put six teams in the field. These six teams brought in 600 bushels of corn. All the men unloaded their own corn. Earl Copeland got in 65 bushels, J. I. Long 80, Frank Rider 90, and these three quit long before night, as they got in all the corn where they were working. Ole Roberts got in 100 bushels and would have done better but for two sore fingers. Charley Scovill got 105 bushels. John H. Knapp shucked (and scooped) 160 bushels. The corn was well shucked and was gathered clean. Who can beat it?

Mrs. Sadie Scott has recovered her little white Spitz dog that strayed away last Tuesday. It started to follow Mrs. Brown to town about nine o'clock, and at 2 o'clock was seen at a sale two miles north of Auburn. A man living in that city took the dog home with him. Sunday evening Sheriff Rohrs saw the dog and felt sure it was Mrs. Scott's from the description given in the advertisement, so he called up R. I. Brown and told him about it. Mr. Brown went out the next morning and got it.

The funeral of Wm. H. Aue of Auburn was held at the Methodist church in Nemaha at one o'clock p. m. Sunday, conducted by Rev. Myers of Auburn. The church was crowded with sorrowing relatives and friends. Interment was in the Nemaha cemetery. The deceased had suffered intensely for a long time with cancer of one kidney, which caused his death.

It was expected that the meetings at the Christian church would close last Sunday night, but on account of the interest manifested they will be continued till next Sunday night, when they will probably close as Evangelist Gregg must leave the next day. There have been 22 additions during the meetings, and 17 of these have been added this week.

Has Shucked Corn

Forty-one Seasons

Alfred B. Kinton is not an old man—he will be fifty years old Saturday of this week—and yet he has shucked corn for forty-one consecutive falls, commencing the fall before he was ten years old. When a young man he was one of the fastest of the corn shuckers, but admits that he isn't in it with the fast shuckers of the present day. One year he shucked corn all winter, finishing on the last day of February. That was the year of the grasshopper plague, in 1875, we believe, when there was so much soft corn raised. The winter was a remarkably mild one. Mr. Kinton was then "working out," and got $18 a month. As he finished shucking corn for one man he would go to another and was thus kept busy all winter.

By industry, economy and good management Mr. Kinton has accumulated a goodly portion of this world's goods. He owns a good farm of 220 acres acres one and a half miles south of Nemaha, with one of the best and most comfortable houses in this part of the county, large barn and other improvements, and is prepared to take life easy. He doesn't pretend to make a full hand at corn shucking now—in fact, he only shucked eight bushels this fall, helping his son Clyde finish up a small piece.

Made $900 From 8 Acres.

Cyrus Milan has the record in this vicinity for raising vegetables. During the past summer, with one horse and a delivery wagon he planted, cultivated, and marketed the product of eight acres of land, which brought him in $900. This means that he reaped from these eight acres of land $112.50 per acre in one summer.—Herald.

Dan Maxwell, W. S. Argabright and T. L. Fisher are serving their country as jurors in the district court at Auburn this week. All three were on the case of the man tried Tuesday and Wednesday on the charge of having a laundry burned in order to get the insurance. He was found not guilty.
