

WORRALL IS DEAD

PROMINENT NEBRASKA GRAIN MAN COMMITS SUICIDE.

EXPOSED THE GRAIN TRUST

Instrumental in the Downfall of the Combine, Having Furnished Much of the Evidence on Which It Was Prosecuted.

Thomas D. Worrall, a prominent grain merchant of Nebraska, committed suicide in his office in Lincoln by drinking carbolic acid.

Mr. Worrall was last seen probably by S. R. Beman, watchman at the federal building. Mr. Worrall was at the federal building between 7 and 7:30 Friday evening, where he mailed some letters.

In a letter written to his attorney, T. S. Allen, it was shown that his mind was not clear. It was written upon two sheets of paper, the first dated January 1, 1903, and the second was dated January 2, 1907. In this letter instructions were given to the effect that all of the property was to go to Mrs. Worrall, and in the event of her death it was to be divided between the two sons, Byron and Mark-well.

Mr. Worrall was the son of one of Lancaster county's earliest settlers, Isaac Worrall, who settled in West Oak precinct in 1867 after living two years in Otoe county. He was the oldest of twelve children.

The details of his life he was reticent about divulging, disposing of them as follows in the preface to his book, "The Grain Trust Exposed."

"Just where and when I was born, and what the name of the attending physician and nurse are matters of little interest to you. You are not concerned whether that important event took place in a sod house, a log house or a palatial mansion. You don't care whether I can trace my ancestry back to the Pilgrim Fathers and the Mayflower or not. Perhaps I could if I tried. I never tried. For I don't care either.

"What you are interested in is the story I have to tell. It is for that you are paying your money. Before you pay it you may want to know what the story is, why I have written it, and why I am competent to write it. That is what I purpose telling you right here, and in the fewest words possible.

"My story is of a band of broad clothed 'respectables' who have grown rich at the expense of the farmers. Unlike the James gang this band has not ridden the prairies armed with Winchester, taking their lives in holding that Capt. Kulp, while he may hand, to commit crimes in bold and open violation of the law. Methods now are more modern. A plan has been evolved for obtaining the maximum of loot with the minimum of risk."

Mr. Worrall started the campaign against the trust which led to its disruption.

Notification of the decision to assemble the legislature has been transmitted, Governor Sparks says, to Washington. County Commissioner Rosenthal of Goldfield, whose resignation has been requested by Governor Sparks, has refused to vacate his office.

The inventor claims that distance does not interfere with the effectiveness of his method. Photographs, he says, can be sent by it between New York and Paris.

Mexico City.—What is considered a very important historical discovery has resulted from the efforts of Dr. Herbert E. Bolton, the American historian, who is here engaged in research work under the auspices of the Carnegie institute of Washington. The discovery consists in the unearthing in this city of 18 or 20 documents taken from the person of Lieut. Zebulon Pike, of the United States army by Spanish soldiers in 1806 when he was captured while making his famous trip up the Arkansas and Missouri rivers, visiting the Osage and Commanche Indians, at the instance of Gen. James Wilkinson, then governor of Louisiana. The whereabouts of the other three documents cannot be learned. NO DEPRESSION IN NEW YORK

Bursting of the Bubble of Frenzied Finance Forgotten.

Never Before Had the Good Things Been Distributed So Lavishly in Gotham.

New York.—There was no spirit of depression in this city this Christmas day. From the Bronx to the Battery and over into Brooklyn to the point where Coney Island points its nose into the sea, there was merry-making that must have satisfied the jolliest soul and those who had no cheer of their own were bountifully supplied by those who had enough and some to spare. Those in a position to know, say that never before has the good things been distributed with so lavish a hand or so many of the less fortunate made happy with gratuities. The Salvationists, Volunteers, Young Men's Christian association and 100 other public and private humanitarian organizations vied with each other in supplying to all who would accept, bountiful repasts, surprise gifts of clothing and toys, with music and bright lights and well wishes thrown in. In fact the good cheer could not be dispensed with in the traditional 24 hours, and beginning at noon Tuesday, Christmas festivities were in full swing. Even at the stock exchange the scene of recent financial disaster for many; the walls were hung with holly and mistletoe and the brokers proved they were not broke, by making a pool of $12,000 for the 350 exchange employes. Nearly every public school had its Christmas programme.

The opposition in the discussion of these estimates contended that the efficiency of the Dutch army was not proportionate to its cost.

HE'S AGIN 'EM.

Speaker Cannon Declares He Won't Even Wear a Silk Hat When He Becomes President.

Washington.—Uncle Joe Cannon has never worn a silk hat, and never will. "I won't even wear one when I become president," said he the other day. "I am agin 'em."

There is an unconfirmed rumor that once upon a time, far secluded in his chamber when the lights were burning low and the bands were playing funeral marches in a soft key, he tried one on and looked at himself in the mirror. Immediately, says the rumor, the lights went up and the noise of the bands was drowned by his expressions of opinion concerning the appropriateness, appearance and beauty of silk hats.

He is a sworn enemy of silk hats. He never has worn one. He never will. The persuasion of relatives, the arguments of friends and the calls of custom have failed to put a silk hat above his beard.

BATTLE WITH BANK ROBBERS

The Citizens of Camden Point, Mo., Called to Arms in the Night.

After Hot Chase Two of Three Men Engaged Were Captured—Part of Money Found.

St. Joseph, Mo.—The Bank of Camden Point at Camden Point, Mo., three miles southeast of here, was robbed by three men at 3 o'clock Friday morning and $2,700 in currency was taken. A fierce battle between citizens and the robbers took place in which many shots were exchanged, but the robbers escaped. They were pursued by a posse. The robbers were discovered by Prof. Barhan, president of the Camden Point college, who saw a light in the bank and aroused the citizens. Three explosions occurred after the alarm was given and the safe and interior of the bank were wrecked.

Mr. Perrin armed himself, called J. E. Pullins and M. S. Wilson to his aid and hurried to the bank. Two robbers could be seen at work inside the institution. Another was on guard at the door. Mr. Perrin and the officers concealed themselves on the college campus and opened fire in the bank shooting through the windows.

In the meantime the night telephone operator had been busy arousing the town. Men were called from their beds and told to arm themselves and hurry to the bank. Quite a group of residents had answered the call when the robbers, having secured all the money in sight, about $2,700, emerged from the front door. Calling back an airy good-bye to the townspeople indistinctly to be seen in the darkness, the robbers started on a run to the northward. The telephone having done its work well a posse was quickly organized for the pursuit.

About $1,000 of the money that the robbers secured was in silver, and the weight of the metal retarded them in their flight and enabled their pursuers to get within sight of them. Perceiving that they must part with the heavier part of their plunder if they could hope to escape, the robbers hid the silver in a haystack on the farm of John McCain near Edgerton Junction, where it was recovered later.

The fleeing men had unburdened themselves too late, however. Their pursuers were upon them, and two of them gave themselves up. The other one escaped.

Great was the surprise of the captors, when the two robbers had given themselves up, to discover that one of them was Clyde Reed, son of John Reed, owner of a farm near Edgerton Junction, and one of the most widely known men of this section of Platte county.

Liquor Business Did Not Pay.

Raleigh, N. C.—By a majority of 545 Raleigh Thursday voted out its liquor dispensary and becomes a prohibition city, the dispensary to close at noon Friday. In the city there were 928 votes for prohibition, 381 for dispensary and two for saloons. The dispensary has been in operation here for four years. The sales have amounted to about $250,000 a year, with about -$75,000 profit, this being placed to the credit of the school fund, the road fund and the city expense account. It reduced taxation but the voters here felt that its influence was not for the city's best interest.

Missouri Teachers' Meeting.

Joplin, Mo.—The Missouri State Teachers' association met in 46th annual session here Thursday.
