It has been found that the addition of certain substances to water greatly increases its powers to quench thirst.

This is especially the case with acids. One drachm of hydrochloric acid added to a quart of water will give it sufficient acidity to accomplish the desired purpose, while at the same time it adds to its pleasantness, and sometimes relieves nausea.

The oldest human being in Winchester county, and perhaps in the state of the street, on a smooth green lawn, may be seen every evening, as soon as the sun's rays are withdrawn, a party of ladies and gentlemen enjoying this pleasant game. They are none of them young, some showing threadsof silver among their locks, but to judge from their actions the game is absorbing, and their voices may frequently be heard raised in friendly dispute. We heard the remark made about a gentleman, a great lover of the game, that when very sick, he displayed less anxiety as to the result of his sickness than he had often done over a game of croquet. One engaged in active exercise during the day would probably prefer a lounge on the sofa to a game of croquet, but for the sofa to a game of croquet, but for way.
