Miner is a custon wheels, but is it hard to tell whethe he works injury or good to the party.

-The editor of the Niobrara News —The editor of the Niodrara News is altogether too sensitive. He is as mad as a wet hen because The Frontier gave him a little advice with regard to the paper business. He is a comparatively new hand at the bellows, and we supposed would appreciate friendly suggestion, but it appears we were mistaken. Like a great many other men, he tainks he knows as rauch about the taken. Like a great many other men he thinks he knows as rauch about the mechanical work as those who have served a life-time in the print-shop Well, Bro. Santee, slobber over again. We will refrain hereafter from saying anything, no matter what outlandish style you may adopt.

—It is hard work to think. It is not hard work to let thoughts pass through the mind. That is very easy work; no work at all, in fact. But there is thinking that is hard work. There are tracks of thought that lead over chasms and up mountains. There are necessary subjects of thought and decision, that require slow and patient investigation of facts, and then honest and careful progress to conclusions. On most subjects, men have to work their way to conclusions under the fire of sophistries and prejudices. And because it is hard work to think, there are so many who will not think. They let others do their thinking for them, and there are others who are perfectly willing to do it. Or they think they think, when they don't think. Or in some other way, they get along without any true and original thinking. -It is hard work to think. It is no

—A yankee traveler has written to his mother telling her his experience as follows: "Western people are death on etiquette. You can't tell a man here thathe lies without fighting. A few days ago a man was telling one of his neighbors, is my hearing, a pretty large story. Says I, stranger, that's a whopper! Says he, 'lie there stranger;' and in the twinking of an eye I found myself in the ditch a perfect quadruped. Upon another occasion says I to a man I never saw before, as a woman passed: 'That isn't a specimen of your western women, is it' Says he, 'your afraid of fever and ague am't you?' 'Very much,' says I. 'Well,' replied he, 'that lady is my wife; and if you don't apologize in two minutes, by the honor of a gentleman I swear that these two pistols,'—which he held cock--A yankee traveler has written to hi these two pistols, —which he held cocked in his hand—'shall cure you of that disorder entirely.' So I knelt down and politely apologized. I admire the western country much, but darn me if I can stand so much etiquette; it a ways takes me unawares."

-If anyone in the future attempts to Nebraska we propose shooting him on the spot. To one who has attended the late state fair, the fallacy of such an asertion is strikingly apparent. No display of better fruits—apples, pears, peaches, plums, etc.—was ever placed on exhibition than was there. To see is to believe. We must admit that while our residence in Nebraska has extended over a period of ten years we have never before seen sufficient eviextended over a period of ten years we have never before seen sufficient evidence to convince us as to her, by some claimed, superior abilities in this direction. Unreservedly, however, we can now re echo all that has been claimed for her by her pomologists and add to it our endorsement. Nebraska is preminently a fruit growing country. And with perhaps a now and then iso-Col. A. Heiler, the famous sausage man, of Milwaukee, purchased 238 head of choice cattle from Morehead and Dow, selected from their herd Tuesday. And with perhaps a now and then iso-lated exception, any fruits that can be raised in other states in the same latitude can be raised here, albeit it is not so much a claim of her's for variety as

COUNTY COLLECTIONS.

Large herds of cattle are kept by different ranchmen, on the unoccupied land, varying from 1600 to 30,000 head. Winters past they have grazed and lived, but the losses have some times been so great that hay is put up for the graded stock and ponies. They are rounded up in the spring to brand the calves, and again in the autumn to select the steers for market. Some of the stock men employ 15 or 20 cow boys, who ride ponies and go well armed to protect nemselves against Indians.

We are looking every day for the railroad surveyors, and we can almost imagine the whistle of the locomotive pand the voice of the conductor in stentorian tones crying, "passengers change cars at Atkinson Junction for the Black Hills, Paul City, Fort Niobrara and all points west." Paul City is situated on section 14, at the head of Ash creek.

Last week the time-honored veteran trapping party left this place for the upper Niobrara, fully equipped to be absent eight months. The party consisted of four, viz: Col. Frank Jones, O. F. and C. A. Bike and W. Biddle, accompanied by Barrett Scott, who took along one load of supplies. Besides this they have one team and wagon and one saddle horse of their own, all loaded. The boys went abundantly prepared for comfortable camp life. Among the numerous articles and immense piles of supplies we observed the following: 70ths tobacco, 120ths co. fiee, I barret beans, 160 steel traps, 50 bottles stryshmine and 4 gal. diluted tarantula juice. The Second Town in Holt Coun ty--A Premising Future -Its Business, etc., Briefly Stated.

In company with that companionable disciple of Esculapius, Doc. Daggett, and that jolly Knight of St. Chrispin, Gus Hagenstein, ye Frontier quill-shover last week made a visit to O'Neill's sister city of Atkinson. On the way up we diverged from the main road at Judge Malloy's and visited Webster & Lovell's new ranch, situated ten miles from the Judge's up the fertile, hand-some valley of Holt creek, in the sand hills. This is one of the grandest sections of country for stock raising in this sountry of countries. The hills furnish an excellent range, while the bottom lands grow fine hay and no doubt good crops of corn and grain, though at present but little is cultivated. Webster and Lovell have a bonanza, and know it.

From the ranch we drove to Lost lake, stopping on the way at Prospect hill (at least that is what the boys named it), one of the largest elevations of land we have seen. From its top the coun-try was spread out in panoramic beauty. O'Neill, Atkinson and other towns are plainly distinguishable. Doc. insisted that he could see so distinctly for miles that Sherl. Sagendorf could be seen at Atkinson, 12 miles distant, asking the

Atkinson, 12 miles distant, asking the boys to "take something."

Lost lake is quite a pretty body of water, and was fairly alive with geese, ducks, cranes, and also there were several beautiful swan, whose pure whiteness and graceful movements could but resite the admiration of the lover of admiration of the lover of beauty and purity.

Supper time found us at Atkinson, and it proved a grand place to be found about that time of day, too, and Mr. and Mrs. Bitney will bear us out in the state-

The pleasure mainly consisted in participating in one of Sagendorf's "way up" frontier dances, which tire as well as rest the physical man. The night was spent in Wheeler's hay-mow, which proved a good place to rest, as old Mortal the control of the proventies of the pheus performed his duty as satisfac-torily as though we were reposing on downy beds of ease. Early-dawn found us up for a view of the town, and while we are writing we will give our readers our idea of what Atkinson is and will be in the future.

The first to think of founding a town at this point was General John O'Neill, the originator of O'Neill City, now the county seat of Holt county. The Gencounty seat of Holt county. The General was disappointed in money matters, and for a time failed, but finally interested Col. John Atkinson, of Detroit, Mich., in his scheme, and the town was laid out and named in honor of the Col. onel. Its natural location on the lovely Elkhorn is magnificent, and is situated so far from O'Neill (20 miles) that there will never be any conflict between the two places. In all probability when the county of Holt is divided, (which it will. be some day, as it is altogether too large, being composed of nearly as much territory as four ordinary counties) Atkinson will be made a county seat. The settlers, is a young man who believes, in progression, and is doing much for the town of his choice. He has erected three buildings—one used as a hardware and drug store by himself, a residence, cently of Niobrara.

Messrs. Theo. Wheeler & Son are new Messrs. Theo. Wheeler & Son are new comers, but are of the right stamp to assist in building up a new town. Already they have put up the largest and most convenient livery, sale and feed stable in the country. It is indeed a good one and reflects credit on the architect and builder, Mr. Alfred Miller, of Kankaka, Ill. The people should be and are proud of it. They are also preparing to build a commodious store building and residence, and will otherwise assist in improving the place. The building and residence, and will other-wise assist in improving the place. The senior gentleman, particularly, is a good one, and deserves the thanks of all of Holt county for the interest he takes in her welfare. If every man in the coun-ty would do as much in proportion to his means we would just more than become Chistian Smith is arranging to open a meet, market, and will see that the community does not suffer for fresh meat.

This comprises the business of Atkinson at present, but it won't be a great while until the list will be trebled and more. We honestly believe it is bound to be a first-class young city, an excellent trading point. If it does not we miss our calculations badly.

All the above we took in before breakfast, and though it was good to take in it did not satisfy the cravings of the inner portion of the anatomy, and when Sagendorf suggested a bite it was right in our train of thought, and we acquiesced without a murmur. Mrs. Sagendorf we unhesitatingly pronounce, without flattery, either, an adept in the art of cookery, and it was with the best of feelings toward Atkinsou and her people that we headed the ponies homeward. Success and good luck be your lot. Frank Aiken is fast completing his new house and Thursday evening of this week is the time set for warming it up with a grand hop.

News of the knocking down and robping of a Red Bird man last Friday night at Niobrara came to us by Saturday's mail, but have not yet learned full attentions of the postry's name.

Mr. Sagendorf will soon move his residence near his drug store. He has recently added a target gallery to the many attractions of his business.

son will be made a county seat. The town is surrounded by a splendid farming country, and is destined to be one of the best inland towns in the west. At present her future looks bright indeed, and there is no reason why it should not prove to be all its friends expect. It will no doubt soon have one and perhaps two railroads. Mr. Frank Bitney is the owner of the town site, and is making very liberal offers to parties who will permanently locate in the place and build. In fact he proposes to give away a number of desirable lots to the right parties. Mr. Bitney is postmaster and general merchant, an enterprising, goahead gentleman, thoroughly reliable, and will answer correspondents intelligently, without misleading. He proposes to do the square thing by private individuals, manufacturers, or railway corporations.
