-Other South Dakota Matters.

Hor Springs, S. D., Oct. 26.-Those people who have the idea that the orst abused people in the world are those who once owned all this country, in other words, the noble red man. would do well to have the talk with Boss Farmer Caton, of the Rosebud (South Dakota) Indian reservation. that I had the other day coming out on the "Elkhorn" road. Said Mr. Caton: "Those people who think that living with the Indians is a poem either have never seen them or else are fitted for little else. As far as my experience goes they are a treacherons unreliable people. It is my business to superintend their farming operations and their distributions of rations to them. We try and induce each family to cultivate from five to six acres and furnish them corn, oats and potato seed for this purpose. We also supply them with plows and other agricultural implements. They are generally successful in getting their seed in, the bucks driving the horses, which they enjoy, while the squaws hold the plow, but there is where it ends. By no manner of means can an Indian be induced to do any manual labor. He likes to whack horses around but when it comes to hoeing out weeds he is never in it. So, if the crops, after being once planted, can worry along without any cultivation they manage to have something to harvest. Other-

"The Indian has been supposed to be a natural stock raiser, but such I do not find to be the case. They are too lazy to provide any hay or shelter for them in winter, and in fact give them little or no attention at all. A buck takes a notion he is hungry and thinks nothing of killing a carf. The stock we have allotted them has never lasted them a very long time, say nothing of A short time ago we gave out 1,000 head of cows, which made one for nearly every head of a family.

truth is that the Indian is a mere child in civilization, and it takes unbounded patience to do anything in this way with him. For instance, we allow them to draw their rations as often as they can, for they never last until the next time.

They are remarkably generous and free with anything that they have to eat and invite in all their friends and have a big feast and then go hungry. But when it comes to making one plow or tool of any kind do for several Indians we have the most trouble. Their jealousy is ridiculous. Rather than let another Indian have them they will steal the bolts or any piece they can get off. It seems to make no difference that we tell them there are enough for all. I take it that this is due to their old hunting habits. They divided and shared equally their food but kept separate their personal gregation has sustained him

We issue rations every day. Those Indians nearest to the agency coming as often as once a week and some, the farthest off, only once in two months. Among the rations are coffee, sugar, flour, beef, beans, bacon, rice, soap, baking powder, salt, etc. There are some 6,000 Indians on the Rosebud reservation and each one gets one and a half pounds of meat every day. It terian church. takes about 5,000 beef steers a year to supply them. It takes 50,000 pounds of flour a week. This will give some idea whether the Indians are being starved to death or not. Yet with all these supplies they waste so much that there are very few who do not go hungry for some time before their rations are due."

The Indians from the Rosebud, it will be remembered, broke away and joined the hostiles at Pine Ridge. Joined the hostiles at Pine Ridge. They, too, made all the serious trouble. It is Mr. Caton's opinion that if Dr. Royer, the agent at Pine Ridge, had not called for troops, although he has been much blamed for it, serious results would have occurred. He says the Indians were in just that condition. Royer was a new man and all tion. Royer was a new man and all the old employes conspired against him to make his position as hard as possible. Mr. Caton was on his return from a in Mc-Cook county, where he had a chance to see something of the kind of a harvest they have had there this year. Some of his stories are "eye openers." L. Hillman, one of his neighbors, had in 100 acres of crops. The oats went eighty bushels to the acre, barley sixty and wheat thirty-five. He nets himself off of the 100 acres, after paying all expenses, $2,000 cash. MORE HERESY.

The Reformed Presbyt rians Have a Couple

New York, Oct. 26.-And now it is the Reformed Presbyterian church that is called upon to grapple with alleged cases of heresy on the part of expound ers of that creed. The New York Presbytery met in regular fall meeting in the Fourth Reformed Presbyterian church on West Forty-eighth street this morning. The most important matter which is on the record for consideration is the joint charge of heresy brought against Rev. Dr. J. C. K. Milligan, of this city, and Rev. John F. Carson, pastor of the Willoughby avenue Reformed Presbyterian church, of Brooklyn. At the meeting of the presbytery held in May charges were pre ferred against Dr. Milligan for utter ances declared to be antagon istic to the principles of the church. These were referred to a special committee, which was also instructed to investigate the relations between Dr Milligan and Mr. Carson to the general meeting of the denomi nation which was held at Pittsburg in August of last year. At that meeting a platform was adopted declaring in favor of admission of members to the Reformed Presbyterian church without binding them to the position of the church in relation to the exercise of elective franchise. The synod of the church, which met last June, suspended seven members for declaring that the position of the church should changed so as to allow members to vote as electors if they thought fit. Indictments were subsequently preferred against Mr. Carson and Dr. Milligan, these in turn were referred to the Presbytery and are the foundations of the trial which will take place at the present meeting. Neither of the ministers has been suspended and both have been occupying their pul-pits as usual. Dr. Milligan is also cited for having written certain articles for the church papers which Dr. Carson is also charged with having, as editor of the News-Letter, published in Brooklyn, given currency to the writings of Dr. Milligan and others on this question. Dr. Carson says that whatever the result of the trial he does not propose to remain in the Reformed Presbyterian church after the present meeting, he says he is thor oughly in sympathy with the seven ministers that have been suspended; that he does not regret naving presided at the Pitts burgh meeting, that the platforn there adopted is still the expression o his personal views, that he proposed to meet the Presbytery squarely on the gregation has sustained him by a vote of 200 to eleven, but all the same he proposes to get out of the denomina tion. He will become a straight Pres byterian and has already had the offer of churches in Brooklyn and Philadelphia. Dr. Carson expresses the opinion that a large majority of hipresent congregation will secede from the denomination before many weeks They will probably form a New Presby

Chinese Plots Thickening. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—Shanghai Trains Collide Near Dayton and Two Men advices received by steamer show that a rebellion was planned to take place in China and that the plot may yet be carried out. Six foreigners, it is reported, were engaged by the Kolao Hui, a big secret society, to go to ace, which would be the signal for a general outbreak against the present dynasty. Mason, the foreign customs officer at Chin Kiang, who is in difficuity over the seizure of arms at Shanghai, has told a number of conflicting stories. First he admitted he was an agent for a secret society and then he declared he was merely spying on the society to gather evidence. Whatever may be the truth of his stories, the fact remains that many consignments of arms and ammunition may have gone to Chin Kiang and to other parts of the Chinese empire, as it was only by accident this consign-ment was seized. It is notorious that the Kalao Hui has members in high official positions and that it has devoted adherents even in the palace, as the nihilists have in the czar's personal following. The Chinese government is so weak that should a rebellion break out it will be forced to appeal to the English for aid to suppress it.
