O'NEILL GROCERY CO.

Ainsworth Star: Attorney R. R. Dickson of O'Neill, was in Ainsworth last week looking after a case in the district court. Mr. Dickson is a bright and progressive young attorney who will, and is making his mark in the world. He had but one case and won that with hands down.

Wanted—An editor who can read, write and argue politics and at the same time be religious, funny, scientific and historical at will; write to please everybody, know everything without asking or being told, always have something good to say about somebody else, live on wind and make no enemies. For such a man a good opening will be made—in the graveyard.—Ex.

Ewing Advocate: THE FRONTIER outfit have heard that some one is getting dissatisfied with Jerry Simpson and his colleagues. This is the first intimation we have had that Jerry had any "colleges." If he is the possessor of a college it might be advisable for him to give his brother in ignorance—Buttler—a course in the lower branches free of charge. Give him a year, at least, that he may learn the difference between "colleges" and colleagues.

Conrad Greb, section foreman on the Fremont Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad at Emmett, was in town Sunday wearing a happy smile which was partially shaded by a rather careworn, anxious look. He is the father of a 9-pound girl, born on the 11th. Mrs. Greb is very sick and her husband and friends are somewhat alarmed over her condition. THE FRONTIER hopes to hear of her complete restoration to health in a few days.

When in need of a rubber coat don't fail to call on J. P. Mann and examine the fine line of Mackintosh water proof coats that he has on hand. These coats are all the rage in the east and O'Neill is to be congratulated on the fact that she has a merchant who is always up to the times and always carries the latest styles that can be had in any city. These Mackintosh coats have detachable capes, and can be used as a spring overcoat if desired, and one will last a life time. Be sure and call and see these coats before purchasing, and after having seen them you will buy no other.

Episcopal services were held at the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening by Rev. Bates, and were very interesting. On Monday evening Bishop Graves conducted services at the same place. The attendance was quite liberal and much interest was manifested, two new members being added. The bishop's remarks were very interesting, indicating a liberal mind and a generous disposition toward fraternal humanity. We look to see a lively growth in this denomination in O'Neill. Mr. Bates has labored long and patiently, and deserves success.

Mr. Stewart, the gentleman whom the Bee so unmercifully roasted in regard to the reservation school lands, in a conversation with a FRONTIER representative last week said that the interest of Sioux City parties in Boyd county lands would be the means of giving the county a railroad in the near future. We don't know what authority Mr. Stewart has for making the statement but we do know that a railroad through that county would pay handsomely.

Last Saturday the republican primaries were held. The delegates to the county convention, which meets next Saturday, are: From the First ward, H. C. McEvony, Col. Pierce, Ed. Hershiser, Dave Stannard, John McBride, Second ward, H. Heinerikson, A. L. Towle, Geo. Jones, J. L. Mack. Third ward, Barrett Scott, Thomas Carlson, Clyde King, Charlie Millard, Ed. Butler. In the township, D. H. Cronin, Joe Davis, Patrick Barrett and Price Babcock were elected. In the second ward Neil Brennan and Heinerikson were a tie—Heinerikson winning on the draw.

The remarks of C. S. Murphy, which are printed in full in this issue, are pertinent and original and prove that the Keeley treatment is beneficial to body and brain. Cy Murphy is a man of bright intellect, has occupied the upper rounds of the ladder of success in his profession and we predict will again take the place among men his talent and true worth warrant. While we do not agree with all he says in his graduating address, we know it will be read with interest and do much good. THE FRONTIER with all others has the kindest wishes for Mr. Murphy, and will rejoice in his upbuilding in the many happy years we hope are before him.

It Was Suicide. Our citizens were shocked last Saturday morning by the rumor that the bright, vivacious and universally popular Miss Florence Warrick had committed suicide. A representative of THE FRONTIER at once went to the Warrick residence where it was learned that it was no flying rumor. She was dead. A bullet hole over the heart and a murderous looking revolver lying by her head showed only too plainly how the deed was done. It would have been a sad sight, even to a stranger, but was doubly so to one acquainted with the little lady; one who knew her many virtues and excellent qualities. She lay in her bed as though sweetly sleeping and dreaming pleasant dreams, but a close investigation brought to light the deadly pistol and the awful fact had to be acknowledged, even though it sent a deadly chill to the heart. The real cause for the act will probably never be known, although there is reason to suppose it was the result of a love affair.

As soon as her death was discovered the sheriff was notified, who in turn, notified the coroner. When Coroner Skelton arrived a jury was at once empaneled and an investigation of the sad affair instituted. From notes left by the deceased it was plainly evident that it was purely a case of plain suicide, deliberately planned and adroitly executed. During the day she had prepared notes, written in ink, saying she would kill herself at 11:30, but on account of having company that night she postponed the act until 1:55. It was not known that anything was wrong until the next morning when she was called to breakfast, and not answering was found by little Mabel who went to her room.

After hearing the evidence and making a thorough investigation the jury returned the following verdict: STATE OF NEBRASKA, HOLT COUNTY: At an inquisition holden at O'Neill, in Holt county, on the 17th day of April, 1892, before me, H. A. Skelton, coroner of said county, upon the body of Florence Warrick lying dead by the jurors whose names are hereto subscribed, the said jurors upon their oath do say that said Florence Warrick came to her death on the 16th day of April, 1892, caused by a bullet wound from a .38-caliber revolver, the same having been discharged by herself during a period of temporary insanity. In testimony whereof the said jurors have hereunto set their hands the day and year aforesaid. H. A. SKELTON, CORONER. D. L. DARR, J. L. MACK, S. M. WAGERS, C. E. HALL, J. J. MCCAFFERTY, JURORS.

Miss Warrick's parents reside in Ainsworth, the deceased at the time of her death being in O'Neill visiting her brother A. L., at whose house the unfortunate affair took place. All of her near relatives were present at the funeral affair, mother and brother Charlie, who lives in Fremont. Deceased was 18 years old, the day on which she killed herself being her birthday. The funeral services were held Monday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence and was one of the largest ever witnessed in the city. This is indeed a sad case and cruel blow to the relatives and THE FRONTIER extends its heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved.

A BENEEDICTION. In behalf of our aged parents and brother, Charley, afflicted beyond expression of their feelings, as well as my family and myself, I beg in this public but weak way to express the appreciation and gratitude of our anguish stricken hearts to all and every of the citizens of Holt county, our friends of O'Neill and our immediate neighbors, for their kindness and sympathy so generously and abundantly bestowed upon us by their presence, counsel and tender ministrations in the hour darkest of our lives. By all these you have blessed us and we thank you more than words can express. That God may guide and bless you through life, as you have blessed us and comforted our grief, shall be our heartfelt and earnest prayers forever. A. L. WARRICK.

MORE SHORT LINE TALK

It Is Asserted That the Line Will Be Built to Ogden.

MR. GARRESTON NOW IN OGDEN

The Paddock Brotherhood Passes Encouraging Resolutions.

Sioux City Journal, April 17. "I see by the papers," said a gentleman who possesses a vast fund of valuable information, but seldom confides it to the newspapers, "that Mr. Garreston has gone to California.

"Now if Mr. Garreston said he was going to California I am not the man to dispute him. He probably knows his own intentions better than I do; but it is quite possible that Mr. Garreston caused it to be given out that he was going to California, when that was not really the objective point of his trip. He may go to California or to Honolulu before he returns to Sioux City. That may be his intention, for aught I know but I also know that he went as directly as possible to Ogden, Utah, and that the object of his visit there is to perfect arrangements for the extension of the Sioux City, O'Neill and Western to that point.

"Will the extension be made this year? I don't know; don't ask me anything further on that point, and I will tell you some more.

"I think that you may say that regardless of any contract or agreement being made or entered into by Sioux City or South Sioux City parties looking toward securing the street car and wagon franchise across the proposed Short Line bridge for a period of twenty-eight years at an annual payment of $40,000 per year, as was talked a few days ago the bridge will be built anyhow. Its erection did not nor does not depend upon such a contract in any sense.

"Mr. Garreston himself owns and controls about $2,000,000 worth of property on the other side of the river. If he still retains control of the bridge that property will be improved, and will be greatly augmented in value. Yes, the bridge will surely be built, and Mr. Garreston is right in a position where he is not to be influenced by a consideration of a few thousand dollars a year.

"But I will tell you more bridge news. Ten men have already subscribed $10,000 apiece and others are ready to take stock in a company capitalized at $500,000, one half paid up, to build an exclusive high wagon bridge across the Missouri. The plan is a definite and sure one, and all we—that is they—are waiting for is to ascertain whether the Short Line bridge will be an exclusive railroad bridge or not. Anyway it may be arranged, however, work on a wagon and passenger bridge across the river is likely to begin this season."

The Producer's Brotherhood Resolves.

At a meeting of the Producer's Brotherhood in Paddock precinct the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, it is provided by the constitution that the right of trial by jury, shall not be denied to the accused and that justice and even law always presumes the suspected innocent until proven guilty; and in lieu of the fact that the right to condemn a fellowman devolves upon a court which is in no way connected with the case and has not even expressed an opinion prior to hearing the evidence of both sides; and the right to consider the testimony, to consider each witness as to the possibility of his being interested in the case, to make all allowance for the possibility of malice and bias, devolves upon a jury, composed of jurors who have raised their hands and voice to God and, with every degree of solemnity and purity of soul, promised to that God, to decide by the testimony and evidence in the case.

And as the duty of pronouncing and determining the guilt of man is regarded as the most sacred of all responsibilities to prove the guilt; and pronounce the penalty on one of God's creatures is a duty that involves every principle of Christian religion and every inspiration of honor from the Divine.

Believing that whenever an attempt is made to prevent the suspected from vindicating his conduct in open court, or from giving an explanation of the conduct of which he is accused, those who try to prevent such vindication, or explanation, cannot be good citizens. The act alone is a forfeiture of citizenship, as they try to overturn the constitution and not abide by it. They are out-laws. They cannot be good Christians as they have slaughtered every principle of Divine inspiration by the fiendish maliciousness of Satanic villainy. They cannot be good jurors, for they have violated the sanctity of the promise they made their God and in a prejudicial manner mocked at the obligations of an official oath, as no good citizen can support or uphold such conduct. We therefore denounce the representatives of the county precincts who have assisted in furnishing testimony in the Barrett Scott case and then voted for impeachment afterwards.

Also those who tried to thwart the principles of justice by resorting to a scheme of trial, conviction and impeachment, without allowing the said Barrett Scott an opportunity to prove his innocence or acknowledge his guilt; but who, while claiming and thinking that above them was no judicial tribunal outside of eternity, tried to rob the accused of all earthly justice by depriving him of every chance to vindicate himself before them, while they even considered it the last earthly chance of hope or justice and enjoyed the anticipation of a pre-emptory writ of mandamus (man-dam-us) which would pimper to their viciousness, oust and silence their defendant (i. e. for justice) victim, Scott, forever.

We also denounce those who voted him guilty without hearing any evidence on either side. And we therefore in a non-partisan spirit condemn them individually and not as partisans; it being no issue of party principles. Pure democracy condemns it, republicanism loathes it and alliance sentiments are in strict denunciation of such violation of true citizenship, of justice and of the sacred obligations of their order, to support right and condemn wrong in a legal or constitutional manner, and not by outlawry.

We tender our hearty thanks to those who were opposed to Barrett Scott politically, but who took no part in the malicious persecution of him, and especially to his opponent, James P. Mullen, who bore defeat without forfeiting his honor or contaminating himself by joining in such disgraceful proceedings.

If the case is prompted by a pure, conscientious consideration of the peoples' rights there are those whose conscience is as much contracted in the Scott case as they were elastic in their own at previous times.

We therefore denounce such proceedings at law, when we, as tax-payers, have to pay the costs, unless the case and law are thoroughly understood at first, and the proof of each allegation on which such cause is brought is known to be forthcoming before the costs are made, that is, be sure of the proof before alleging, for allegations which cannot be proven serve as a foundation for a cause of action for malicious prosecution, for which the county can be made financially responsible when it becomes a party to the injustice. If such illegal conduct on the part of our county official, Barrett Scott, is true, bring forward the proof and also give him an opportunity to disprove it.

Whereas, the people very seldom know the facts as they really exist, but are generally deceived by some of the newspapers on either side in matters of public interest.

Therefore, be it resolved by this meeting that we ask the county supervisors to have the full and complete complaint against Barrett Scott, and his full and complete trial published by the papers in the county, being previously certified to by the county clerk, and the parties to either side of the action, for the edification of those who are paying for the expense of said case, that they may know the truth and be capable of an unbiased judgment, doing justice to those who are right.

We also ask the county alliance to assist in getting the full proceedings before the people, knowing that the great agricultural class of Holt county have within themselves the power to determine the law and justice, after they are positive of the facts, thus furthering the spirit of pure independence that independent voters may give it independent and intelligent consideration. Testimony is not proof until it has withstood the test of being disproven and still remains true in the consideration of an unbiased court and jury. Consequently the testimony against Barrett Scott was not proof, as he was refused the privilege of disproving it. Signed this 11th day of April, 1892. JOHN HUBBY, President. N. P. BRADSTREET, Secretary.

The White House on the Hill.

[Written for the O'Neill Sun by a young lady.] O'Neill lay deep in slumber. Until last Thursday morn. When the fire bell was ringing To send the fire alarm. The people they were startled To near its dreadful sound, Till some one up and shouted: "The white house is burning down!"

Did you hear of the "white house"? That was burned the other night? Did you see its burning rafters? Did you see its gleaming light? Set fire by a woman— Such courage ever found— To save her sons and husband, And set our town free.

May God protect and guide her, And send his blessing down Upon the woman who had courage enough To burn the "white house" down. —MAYFLOWER.

The above literary gem appeared in last week's Sun. After shedding gallons of scalding tears over the lameness of the poor thing's feet, as Mason would say, after reading and re-reading to catch a jingle at the end of the lines, which was not there, we sent our "devil" down into the basement to resurrect our machine with which poetry is made. Upon investigation we found the flim-flam that connects the Jim-Jam with the tumbling rod was bent, the cadourance that attaches to either end of the cadroy and works the dingdail was rusty and otherwise damaged, yet the hopper and main grinders were all right and we thought it could be made to work. A meeting of the Eagle club was called and the above "poem" written by a young lady—a 2-year old perhaps—was read by Secretary Swingley. President Murphy then asked the assembled scions what action they wished to take upon the matter. All agreed that some effort must be made to refute this terrible slander, this insinuating slush, but none could devise ways and means and the meeting was about to take a recess in spite of the vigorous protests of Hazlet, Weeks, McHugh, Gibbons and others, who demanded satisfaction, when Cronin came staggering into the room with the machine aforementioned. This brought order out of chaos and Doc Wells, in ecstasy of delight sang "Comrades" in his usual pleasing manner until the president called him down. Clyde King was called upon to explain the workings of the machine, after which it was decided that each member should throw a handful of words into the hopper, and while Jesse Mellor turned the crank the verse began to flow. It can readily be seen that the guy wheel jumped a cog every once in awhile, but the words were all right when placed in position and if they are now misplaced it is the fault of the instrument and not the man that turned the crank. Of course, after the words were thrown in they became somewhat mixed and no body is responsible for what appears below. Here is the way the matter looked after we took it from the basket which Jake Hershiser held under the delivery of the "infernal!"

I. We cannot sing the old songs we sang a few short weeks ago. As the cop on the corner would run us in and we have no other place to go.

II. Our wages now we all will save, you know; because for beer at one dollar per bottle we cannot blow, you know.

III. We all will sport a new spring suit, and a tile of alk, perhaps. Because the silver in our pockets will jingle and we can even indulge in a game of craps.

IV. Tell me, ye winged winds that round this region roam, Is there no spot where buildings will not burn and there are girls galore?

V. O'Neill has a fire company, so they say. But to the "white" house no body would lead the way. So in the early morning's misty glimmer—sing gleam! The boys behind their old retreat go, burning rafter and beam. It was a sight that made strong men weep and wail. Because in the pile, were trunks and suits of clothes, but nothing is left to tell the tale. But we'll drink again to the woman who set the blaze. That her sons and husband might walk in better ways. So here's to the woman who danced in glee As she lit the match that set our "town" free.

At this juncture the machine was broken into a million pieces. What the trouble was will probably never be known but it is thought it stuck on one of the words Jim Cavanaugh had cast into it.

Just what the People Want.

The publishers of the State Journal struck the public want when they commenced printing the Journal twice a week. Everyone can see the advantage of receiving two complete papers each week, with market and telegraphic news while it is fresh. What makes the Semi-Weekly Journal so popular is, that it is only $1 per year, which is the same price other papers charge for their weeklies.

A years subscription to the Twice-a-week Journal will carry its readers through the national conventions, the presidential campaign and through the next session of the Nebraska legislature. Everyone will want a reliable newspaper during such stirring times, and these events will afford the Semi-Weekly Journal ample opportunity of proving its superiority over any weekly paper. It is almost as good as a daily, giving 104 papers per year at less than one cent per copy. Others give but fifty-two papers a year. We are still offering the paper a year, and our great Stanley book, for $1.40, or we will send the book free for two new subscribers. Write for a sample copy and we are sure you will subscribe.
