LINCOLN, Oct. 9, 1890.

To all members of the independent people's committees, and to the voters of Nebraska:
It having become evident that Mr. Van Wyck has turned squarely against the independent movement, and is using his influence to defeat the independent candidates, we recommend that he be not invited to address independent meetings nor given an opportunity to use his unfriendly influence.
Geo. W. BLAKE,
Chm. State Central Com.
C. H. PIRPLE,
Sec. State Central Com.

The republican ticket is now complete.

McKINLEY proposes to stomp the country.

We were in hopes we could say "shake" to Ed Fry.

STEVENSON and Watterson may be able to carry Kentucky.

HURRAH for Tom Majors! He is with the boys for success.

Put it down that Billy Bryan will serve but one term in congress.

JOHN MANN, of South Soo, would add strength to the democratic ticket.

The democrats are not particularly jubilant over the result in Alabama.

The indications are that the south is not going to be so solidly democratic this fall.

BLAINE's health is not very good, yet he will make several speeches during the campaign.

JUDGE CROUNSE expresses himself as only too willing to meet Gen. Van Wyck on the stump.

A DEMOCRATIC paper says "Grover is growing greater." Yes, around the neck and belly.

JAMES WHITEHEAD and O. M. Kem will probably meet in joint debate. If they do O'Neill will be one of the points.

ANOTHER democratic daily has suspended—the Fremont News. It appears to be a bad year for democratic dailies in Nebraska.

OUR old-time Wisconsin friend, Art Young, caricaturist on the Inter Ocean, is called the best artist of his kind in the United States.

LEW CHAPMAN's friends from the west assure us that he will run like a house on fire, and in the right direction for success, too.

MATT DOUGHERTY is just the man for chairman of the congressional committee. Matt knows how to handle matters political.

We rise to second the nomination of Pete O'Sullivan for auditor on the democratic ticket. Our friends the enemy could make no wiser choice.

THE democrats have a good man to head their ticket if they are wise enough to nominate him. His name is Shervin and he lives at Fremont.

ONE of the Riley brothers, who have a ranch in this county, but who lives at Albion, is the republican nominee for state senator from the district east.

A BIG Whitehead club has been organized at Broken Bow. The club emblem is a cane with the head painted white. Good enough to club Kem into oblivion.

Mr. CLEVELAND, by his message, for which I honor him, has challenged the protected industries of the country to a fight of extermination.—Senator Vest.

The O'Neill republican club should shake itself together for active business. There is work to do, and there is nothing like thorough organization to bring about success.

The World-Herald is calling on Nebraska democrats to contribute to the New York World's corruption fund, but we opine the faithful will be rather reluctant in coming down. They need the sinews of war at home.

Did you ever consider that if it were not for the McKinley bill O'Neill would not have a chinery factory? A fifteen thousand dollar industry is certainly not to be sneezed at, and it is an argument that cannot be got around.

The editor of this paper desires to return thanks to the delegates who so highly honored him in the senatorial convention, and right here promises that no act of his will cause them to regret the confidence expressed.

THE FRONTIER calls the attention of the independents to the warning issued by the chairman and secretary of the independent state central committee two years ago. It was supposed to be decidedly applicable at that time.

THE FRONTIER urges the republicans in the various precincts to organize campaign clubs. The battle is about to commence in earnest, and the ranks should be in line, properly officered, and the ammunition used with proper effect.

THE senatorial convention was composed of a fine lot of fellows, and all good republicans. The four counties were represented by full delegations, and we believe the boys went home with a good impression of Holt county and her people.

THE LIBERTY, an independent paper, exclaims: "What a sublime spectacle! Behold a great party nominating a pass fiend, a bondholder, a national banker, a salary and a land grabber, as a reformer, to destroy all these monopolies. It is enough to make a horse laugh and angels weep. How many of the people will say amen!"

A GREAT deal of the unoccupied farming land in the older states is now relatively far above the price of equal or better land in the newer states which have, within the past few years, been opened up by railroad building. Agriculturists, instead of remaining on this eastern high priced land, find it to their advantage to go farther west on cheaper but good land, where railway facilities enable them to reach markets.

LATE reports from western banking and land selling agencies show that there is quite an outflow of population to new land; this outflow is only to the west, but to the southwest, but the drift to the southern states has been checked this year, as well as railroad building in those states. At the same time it is evident that there is a steady flow of population from the older to the newer states, and it is also true that little industries continue to multiply.

THE Lincoln Herald accuses Judge Crouse with being the A. P. A. candidate. The writer knows this charge to be entirely unfounded because there were about a dozen of the Douglas county delegates who were members of this organization who for some time positively refused to support Crouse for the reason that he was not in sympathy with this know-nothing society and was educating two of his daughters in the Catholic school in Omaha, and it was only by the pressure of the unit rule that they voted for him at all. This was common talk at the convention, as is known by anyone who was there and had his ears open.

The erudite editor of the Atkinson Graphic last week nearly went into spasms over the national meeting of the Mystic Shriners held in Omaha. One would conclude from a perusal of the Graphic's exclamatory editorial that the Shriners were decidedly bad men who were banded together for the purpose of destroying American institutions and substituting an oriental form of government, with a Khedive at the head, and that we would all be compelled to kneel to the east in prayer and salaam to the High Priest when looking toward Mecca. Bosh, Bates. You must have run short on political matter, or else the quality of the politics at hand was not suited to your educated palate.

TOM MAJORS—plain, honest, open-hearted, hickory-shirted Tom Majors—has been unanimously chosen as the republican candidate for lieutenant-governor, vice Tate resigned on account of ineligibility. The gallant soldier has more friends in Nebraska than almost any other man, and it is our candid opinion that his name adds much strength to the already strong ticket. To be sure the Omaha Bee strenuously opposed Majors in politics, but the Bee is not always right by any means. Judge Crouse and Colonel Majors make a heading for the state ticket that cannot be defeated, because the people will recognize in them just such men as are needed at the present time. They will grow in popular favor every day.

DURING the four years from 1884 to '87 under the commissioner system the total tax levy for the county was $549,577.37. From '88 to '91 under the supervisor system the figures reached $570,157.61, a difference of $20,580.22. Surely here is argument against the present way of conducting county affairs.

THE Chicago Tribune rallies the democrats of Illinois for trying to get out of the free trade plank of the Chicago platform, and cites the position of the party organs to show how unpopular that platform makes the party in a city of factories. The desertion of the panicky plank has gone so far as to deny that the party has taken the free trade position at all, although the platform plainly declares that a tariff that protects is robbery, and that the government has no power under the constitution to levy duties except for the one result of revenue alone, revenue only, revenue exclusively. The effort to deny that plank is fast gaining for the democracy the reputation of not saying what it means, and not intending to do what it says.

THE New York World, which essayed to run the Rhode Island campaign and lost it, is appealing in a daily double leaded scream to the democrats to give a big fund to carry western states. It emphasizes the fact that Cleveland only carried New York by less than 1,100 in 1884, and lost it to Harrison by 12,000 in 1888. New York cannot be reckoned on this year, says the World. The only chance is to carry the west. That journal has forgotten what the Iowa democrats said at the Chicago convention, that they could carry Iowa for Boies for president but could not expect to squeeze through otherwise, even if he was on the ticket for vice president. The democrats might better save their money than to risk it on such chances as they have in the west this year.

THE writer has received a letter from a cousin at Warren, Illinois, saying that he had sold forty acres off of the corner of his farm adjoining the town to a company who will at once build a tin plate factory at that place. The home paper, the Sentinel, has had a controversy with a contemporary over the tariff, and takes occasion to speak as follows: "We want to ask Bro. Brown, of the Darlington Journal, if he thinks it would have been possible for Warren or any other western town to have secured the tin plate mill that is to be established in Warren, if it had not been for the protection against foreign competition afforded by the passage of the McKinley bill? The Sentinel and the Journal had a brief and friendly controversy about the tin plate business about a year ago, in which the Sentinel predicted that whereas, under the old law America was unable to manufacture its tin plate, under the protection of the McKinley bill it would be able to make its own tin plate, and that this industry would thrive as, in comparison, did the watch-making industry under the tariff of 1860. We did not then realize that so soon would our words be verified right of our very door, as we might say. Nor are these tin plate factories to be short lived. To the people who put their money in these plants is the assurance of the McKinley bill that they are to be protected from the competition of tin plate made in foreign countries with cheap labor. All hail the new tin plate mill in Warren! All hail the McKinley bill!"

THE editor of this paper has not referred to his candidacy for the republican nomination for state senator through these columns, and now that he has received the nomination the same course will be pursued. A residence here of a dozen years should make us acquainted with the people, particularly as during these years we have been identified financially and otherwise with nearly every enterprise presented. Our virtues and faults are well known, and we are willing to leave it to the voters to say whether or not we are entitled to their suffrage. If elected it will be our honest endeavor to represent all elements that go to make up the population of this district. Politically republican, pure and simple, yet we realize that others who do not think as we do have rights that should be recognized, and if honored by an election we shall endeavor to the very best of our ability to represent in the state legislature the Thirteenth senatorial district, irrespective of party. We have our ideas of what is right and what is wrong but we are not so egotistical or hide-bound as not to be open to conviction. We do not believe anyone can accuse us of ever having been afflicted with the big-head, or of esteeming ourself better than our neighbors, and it is always a pleasure to be consulted, counselled and enlightened by the people with whom we have worked and labored so long for the advancement and up-building of the country. We believe that the principles of the great republican party are right and should prevail, and during the canvass shall stand squarely on the platform as promulgated at Minneapolis and Lincoln. At the same time the state legislature will have many duties to perform that politics should not interfere with, and when local interests are at stake (if a member) we should consider politics secondary. The interests of the people should be considered first, no matter whether the member is a republican, democrat, independent or prohibitionist. During the canvass we shall treat our opponents honorably and fairly—speaking of the issues and the principles espoused, rather than of the candidates themselves—and shall expect the same treatment in return.
