Now dear reader, prepare yourself for a shock, a genuine surprise. Ed Hershiser is at last the father of a big, bouncing baby boy—and girl. Twins of the foregoing persuasion took up their abode at the Hershiser residence Sunday morning and Ed has not done a lick of work since. Mother and babes doing nicely.

A pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Aggie and James Gallagher, at their home two and one half miles south east of town. There were about twelve couples present, and a very enjoyable time was had. Dancing was indulged in until shortly after midnight, when the young folks departed for home. All present report a pleasant time.

The democratic senatorial convention met in O'Neill democratic headquarters last Saturday afternoon, and was called to order by N. Martin, chairman. There were nine delegates present, representing Holt and Boyd counties. N. Martin was elected chairman, and C. C. McHugh, secretary. After the preliminary matters were perfected J. M. Stewart, of Atkinson, was nominated for state senator by acclamation. A senatorial central committee was then named, of which M. D. Long was elected chairman, after which the convention adjourned. The writer was the only spectator present, but there was harmony there in big chunks.

Little Dean Selah entertained a company of his young friends Wednesday evening, the occasion being his 7th birthday. The little folks spent a very pleasant evening and left numerous presents as tokens of the high esteem in which they held their playmate.

Two dusky sons of the plains, Washella-Kio and Wacopominnee-Teepe, called in this morning to pay their respects to McGinnis and discuss the McKinley tariff. Wacopominnee-Teepe ventured the assertion that Mr. Harrison would be re-elected this fall over Heap Beef.

Joe Hunter, chairman of the senatorial central committee, was in the city Tuesday to make arrangements for a new senatorial convention which will nominate a man to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. D. Mathews. The date for holding the convention was set for Saturday, Sept. 24.

Last Monday morning Miss Tessie Dykeman, sent in her resignation to the school board. Miss Dykeman has taught in the primary department of school here for two terms and gave general satisfaction. The board will hold a meeting Friday evening when a teacher will be elected to fill the vacancy.

The Seventh-Day Adventists, of northern Nebraska, will hold a camp-meeting at Atkinson, Holt county, Nebraska, commencing Tuesday evening, September 27, 1892, and lasting one week. The camp will be pitched in a beautiful spot in the village, and all will be done that can be to make the meeting a success. Children's meetings will be held twice a day in a tent pitched and seated for their use. Plenty of family tents provided with small stoves will be pitched on the grounds for use. The services will be held in a large tent held for that purpose. Preaching at 2:30 and 7, p. m. Bible study at 11, a. m. Prominent ministers of the Nebraska conference will be in attendance.

The addition to J. P. Mann's store is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy next week. When Mr. Mann has arranged all preliminaries for a formal opening, his store, in general appearance, quality and price of goods, will be second to none west of Omaha. He conducts his business on strictly business principles, throws in a few metropolitan airs for good measure, employs a retinue of clerks who are embodiments of politeness and affability, handles best grades of goods and enjoys a reputation as a merchant that is enviable. The date of his grand opening has been set for Saturday, Sept. 24, on which day Whitehead and Kem meet here in joint debate, and also the date of the republican senatorial convention. Watch these columns for his announcement.

The Independent man is a reformer. There is no question about it. He sits up nights to point to combinations and watered stock concerns and views the situation with unfeigned alarm. He may be sincere, we hope he is, but there is a section in the articles of incorporation of the Independent Publishing Company that reads in this wise:

The amount of capital stock authorized in the articles of incorporation is six thousand dollars ($6,000) divided into six thousand shares of one dollar ($1) each.

Six thousand dollars! Egad. Nerve supreme. The whole Independent outfit, editors and all, can be purchased for less than one thousand dollars. Talk of watered stock and high handed robbery. A ranker steal was never made. The idea of getting together about $700 worth of material and selling it for $6,000. Oh, Lord deliver us.

AGAIN CALLED DOWN

Lessinger Contradicts The Frontier And Gets More Figures.

WEAT THE ASSESSMENT SHOWS

These Figures Prove Conclusively That Hayes Bond is Straw.

All this talk of THE FRONTIER's of the superiority of Scott's bond over the bond of Rhody Hayes is rank nonsense. In conversation with a gentleman who is in a position to know as much as THE FRONTIER of these things, he stated that no man ever presented a better bond than Hayes.—Independent.

We sincerely hoped, for various reasons, that it would not be necessary to probe this question to the bottom, but it seems that Lessinger is determined that the people shall have all the facts, consequently it devolves upon THE FRONTIER to do a little more investigating. For the edification of the general public, Lessinger and the man "who is in a position to know as much as THE FRONTIER of these things," we have looked up the assessment of 1891 and find the men on the two bonds were assessed this way:

SCOTT'S BOND		HAYES' BOND

We do not believe, nor does the general public, that "THE FRONTIER's" talk on the bond question is rank nonsense." The figures are here to speak for themselves and it is unnecessary for further comment.

About the Constitution.

EDITOR FRONTIER—The Sun in its article last week "did you know this?" makes an error, I believe, when it says, "that the constitution forbids the choosing of the president and vice president from the same state. I think perhaps what the Sun refers to is the 12th amendment, which reads as follows:

The electors shall meet in their respective states and vote by ballot for president and vice president, one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant [of] with the same state as themselves.

Under this article should Mr. Cleveland be elected president, Mr. Reid might also be elected vice president, but the electors from New York state would not be allowed to vote for him, as he, like Mr. Cleveland, is "an inhabitant of the same state with themselves." There is nothing in this article, however, that can prevent the electors from the other states voting for and electing Mr. Reid, and I can find nothing anywhere else in the constitution that would make Mr. Reid ineligible by reason of being an inhabitant of the same state as Mr. Cleveland.

Should the election of the president be thrown into the house, the election of a vice president must devolve upon the senate, as a natural consequence.

There being no constitutional bar to the president and vice president coming from the same state, Mr. Reid, in all human probability must be chosen for the vice presidency.

A Pathetic Ballad.

I am dreaming of the childhood that can never come no more
When I used to fight with angel brother Pat,
When I loved to gather round myself upon
The cabin floor.

And monkey with the aged Thomas cat,
When I knooped my loving sister Mag half-way across the room,
And upon her neck I did a song and dance;
But one thing, only one thing, o'er my childhood cast a gloom,
'Twas the strap that mother used to fan my pants.

I remember in the spring time when I wandered by her side
To the little old brown woodshed in the lane
When she dallied, oh! how fondly! with that little strap of hide,
And I promised not to do so o'er again.

And how well do I remember, when that interview did cease,
How about that little shed I used to prance
And I use my little breakfast off the little mantel-piece;
'Tis the strap that mother used to fan my pants.

—Eg.
