OF TWO ANCESTORS.

Woman Inherited the Instincts of the Coward and the Hero.

Among the women in and about Boson who know who her great grand-athers are is one whose ancestors played prominent but widely different one was appointed to lead the yeo-men, the other was one of the yeomen

When the cry of battle sounded the eader, the man to whom the troops ooked for direction, deserted them. t the last moment his fear overcame im and he fied.

The other ancestor, seeing that the roops were without a commander, ushed from out the ranks and shoutng: "For God's sake, fire!" made him-lelf the leader the men needed. From the time this woman was a little girl in short dresses she had re-eatedly heard this story and had been roud of the brave man, and oh! so shamed of the coward. As she grew nto womanhood she found in her na-ure parts of both ancestors.

"Let me tell you how I often feel," she would say. "For instance, when I go to a party I am happy in anticipation until I get to the drawing-room door and catch a glimpse of the guests within and the hostess standing stiff nd prim to receive me.

"There comes over me a terrible fear and the runaway ancestor in me says, Take to your heels, Annie, you can ever face these people.' I'm on the point of obeying this impulse when For God's sake, fire!' takes full posession of me. With a bound I attack ny hostess and the battle's won."

ATTLES FOUGHT ON SUNDAY.

Sull Run and Chicksmauga.

Many of the most famous battles of aistory have been fought on Sunday. To go no further back than the beginning of the present century, the Globe-Democrat cites the battle of Eylau, von February 8, 1807, by Napoleon over the Russians and Prussians, and he battle of Friedland, June 14, 1807. von by Napoleon over the same allies, were both fought on Sunday. On Sunday, May 21, 1800, Napoleon was defeated at Essling; on Sunday, May 2, 813, won the victory of Lutzen, and on Sunday, June 17, 1815, was over-thrown at Waterloo. JIM-JAM VALLEY.

Beautiful Vision of Paradise Among the Mountains of California

the Mountains of California.

"In the Jim-Jam valley, in California, there are many wonderful and reasonable mirages," said John E. Owens of New York. "It is named Jim-Jam valley because of the curious and strange sights seen there. The valley s about forty miles long and thirty miles wide. Not a soul lives within its territory. Mountains capped with snow all the year surround the valley. In it the eyesces lakes, green trees, bubbling springs, and even lilies growing in the marshes. Contrast these with the rugged mountains that surround you, and the picture is one of indescribable oveliness and beauty. You imagine that no paradise, ethereal or heavenly, could surpass it. In the distance there are beautiful lakes with lovers paddling oftly over the calm waters; fantastic traft and beautiful water nymphs show themselves. Weird and somber figures gleam at you from all directions, and imly outlined forms of all colors, chapes and sizes may be seen.

"Occasionally there is a storm in the valley. Forked lightning leaps from the mountain tops and in its light you see strange animals, different from any on have ever heard about before.

"These mirages strike the observer vith awe, and few men who see them nce care to repeat the visit."

Preaching Monkeys.
The author of "The History of Bratil" tells of a species of money called preachers." Every morning and evenwoods. One takes a higher position than the rest and makes a signal with his forepaw. At this signal the others sit around him and listen. When they re all seated he begins to utter a series of sounds. When he stops these cries he makes another signal with his aw, and the others cry out until he makes a third signal, upon which they become silent again. This author, Mr. Maregrove, asserts that he was a wit-ness to these preachings, but no other traveler has confirmed the statement.

Anecdote of Sherman's Sea

A detachment of soldiers was told off o take charge of young Tom, now Father Sherman, while crossing the pontoon bridge across the Potomac when the armies of the country were when the armies of the country were coming to Washington to take part in the great review there in 1865. He was then about eight years old. One of the men asked him if he exected to grow up as smart a man as is father, the general, and he prompty answered "No."

"Why?" was the next question.
"Well," he replied with the same readiness, "there are plenty other men who have grown up, and why ain't they as smart as my father.
