REGISTER MATHEWS will some day find out that a country editor never forgets a man that acts as he does.

THE members of the legislature are now working for nothing and boarding themselves. The session will now soon come to an end.

If the president's obligations had to be measured by the demands of the office seekers, Mr. Cleveland would be a hopeless bankrupt.

Who says "practical politics" don't pay? Dick Croaker, the famous Tammany chief, has invested a quarter of a million in race horses.

CHARLES McHUGH carried a good-sized smile around with him Tuesday. Reason, daily papers said that he was slated for the O'Neill postoffice.

MEN have lost their heads in the white house before; but it is only since the advent of a democratic administration that they have begun to lose their hats there.

DEMOCRATIC editors are again happy. The postmaster general has stated that the editors of democratic papers will have an equal show with all other applicants for office.

THE news that has been received from Washington that all applications for office are to be officially acted upon April 1, is cruel and unfeeling, and we believe, untrue.

TAMMANY'S share of the federal spoils has not yet been trotted out for public inspection, but it will get it all the same, or there is no virtue in the anti-election promises.

THE robber tariff still continues to rob the people, and it appears as if there would not be an extra session of the legislature. At the present time they are not in need of any campaign thunder.

With the organization of the senate finance committee, the administration's last hope of legislation in accordance with its financial ideas went glimmering to the land of might-have-beens. Perhaps 'tis well.

SINCE Grover Cleveland became president, March 4, about six thousand republican postmasters have resigned. Still there are hundreds of applicants who are of the opinion that they are not dropping out fast enough.

THE report that W. D. Mathews has "squared" himself with Grover and will retain his grasp upon his present official position, may not be true, although we are prepared to believe almost anything in these stirring times.

FULL many a republican editor will feel that his wrongs have been avenged when Register Mathews' official head, filled with false ideas of "justice," quietly rests in the garbage wagon as the procession goes marching on.

CHAIRMAN HARRITY recently took a voluntary pilgrimage to the white house to deliver a batch of unasked for suggestions. It is needless to state that Grover will do as he pleases about adopting any of the suggestions.

WE are in receipt of volume 1, Number 1, of the Emerson Times, published at Emerson, Neb., by A. L. Moan. It is a neat paper, full of news of its town and county, and if its future issues are like its first it is sure to succeed.

M. V. GANMON, of Omaha, will not be given the Chillian mission. But he has been informed by the president that he will be given one equally as acceptable. He will probably be tendered a mission to one of the South American countries.

If Private Secretary Thurber continues treating the newspaper boys like they were messengers whose times are at his disposal, he is liable to change his mind very soon. If they once get after him he will think he got into a hornet's nest.

LAST week Senator Manderson resigned his position as president of the senate. He delivered a neat speech in which he thanked the senators for the honor of having been elected to that position unanimously. Senator Harris, of Tennessee, was elected to the vacancy.

It is announced through the daily press that President Cleveland has finally made up his mind to call an extra session of congress next September. This statement has been made several times during the past week to members of both houses, says the New York Herald.

DAVE HILL cannot have any of his friends appointed to office. Senator Palmer, of Illinois, is in the same condition, and the number of candidates who had the recommendation of the senator are wondering why their appointment does not come. The Illinois senator is probably now reminded of the fact that he was not a Cleveland man prior to the Chicago convention. Grover remembers his friends.

SECRETARY CARLISLE'S order forbidding his subordinates to make public anything relating to the condition of the treasury may have been issued with good intentions, but its effect is to create the suspicion that there is, or is to be, something that must be hidden.

HON. I. A. SHERIDAN, the representative from Red Willow county, who had a pugilistic encounter with E. Rosewater, in the corridors of the capitol a short time ago, has gained more prominence by it than he ever will by any legislative acts of his. There are many routes to fame.

WATSON PICKERELL, of Beatrice, Neb., has resigned his position as special agent of the bureau of animal industry, and Ed Sheldon, of Nebraska City, has been appointed to the position by Secretary Merton. This is one of the best positions in the department, paying $10 a day and expenses.

WE notice in the State Journal of Tuesday, that our old friend John Maher, county clerk of Dawes county, is slated for the position of register of the Chadron land office. John has our congratulations, and we opine that he can hold down the official position with as much dignity as any of the bourbons.

It is estimated that two million people are getting ready to attend the world's fair, and that each one has laid aside one hundred dollars as expense money for the trip. Thus it is expected that $175,000,000 will be turned loose into the channels of trade beginning with the opening of the fair May first.

THE late Senator Logan once said of Mr. Cleveland: "He is a man courageous for the destruction of his friends and one who might be a coward before a powerful enemy." Hundreds of men who have been his friends know the truth of the first part of this opinion, but if he is a coward it is yet to be proven.

To the astonishment of one-half the democrats of Nebraska, Frank White, of Plattsmouth, was appointed United States marshal for the district of Nebraska. The daily papers have not as yet decided upon whose recommendation he was appointed, but it is understood that Senator Allen and Congressman Bryan opposed the appointment. There are lots of surprises ahead for our democratic brethren.

THE Chicago Inter Ocean was 21 years old last Saturday, and it celebrated its important birthday by publishing a 60 page paper, including illustrated supplement, with four pages in colors, and is a thing of beauty in many ways. The Inter Ocean is one of America's greatest newspapers, always abreast of the times, and is certainly deserving of the success with which it is meeting. During this eventful year, when Chicago is the center of attraction for all the world, that popular journal will be in great demand by those who are desirous of learning all that is going on in the world's fair city.

A WOMAN died in New York last week who had trod in the fighting line of her sex, doing all she could to establish the principle that woman can do almost anything a man can do; that she should be as carefully educated as a man if she tries to do his work; and that the treatment given a man must be endured by his competitor, woman. She was Miss Mary F. Seymore, editor of the Business Women's Journal. She had also served as commissioner of deeds in New Jersey, and commissioner of the United States court of claims. She also had conducted half a dozen typewriting schools, and was the special friend of young women seeking to earn their own living. Miss Seymore was a prophetic type daily growing more conspicuous in the closing years of this century. When the sun rises on the new cycle her numbers will be legion. —Inter Ocean.

THE following description of the building erected by the state of Nebraska at the world's fair we clip from the Chicago Inter Ocean of March 25: "The building erected by the state of Nebraska is in a fine position, just within the fifty-seventh street entrance to the park, on the north side of the boulevard. The style of architecture is classical, and of the Corinthian order. The building has a grand area of 60 by 100 feet, and is two stories high. The exterior is of staff. On the east and west fronts are wide porticoes, approached by flights of steps. Over the porticoes are projecting gables supported by six columns twenty-five feet high, the full distance from the cornice to the floor. In each pediment is the state seal, in bas-relief, five feet in diameter. From each portico three large double doors of oak give entrance to the exhibit hall. This room is 60 by 70 feet and in it an agricultural display will be made. On the first floor, also, are a reception room, commissioners' office, baggage room and postoffice. A double stairway, nine feet wide, leads from the center of the exhibit hall to the second floor. Here is an exhibit room 60 by 70 feet, used for an art exhibit. On this floor are a woman's parlor, reading-room, smoking-room and toilet-rooms. Architect, Henry Voss, of Omaha; contractor, F. A. Schellus, of South Chicago. cost, $20,000."

W. M. ROACH, the man whom the senate of North Dakota elected United States senator a few months ago, is to be impeached by the senate. About 15 years ago he was a cashier of a bank and absconded with about $75,000. The affair was fixed up and he paid part of it back, but there are several members of the senate who object to have such a man occupying one of the highest offices in the gift of the people; and they are right.

A little more sunshine, Morton, please. A little more vernal heat. We are weary of winter with leafless trees and colds in the head and feet. Turn on the calorific, then, old duck, and give us the best there is, or may you forever have hard luck, and die of the rheumatism! When Rusk, gentle Jerry, was in your place, he'd only to pull the string, to make hoary winter, with speed and grace, abandon the lap of spring. But, Morton, you've dallied along serene, neglecting the weather shop; now if you don't start up the old machine, your name shall be mud, sure pop.—State Journal.

DENNIE CHONIN, OF THE FRONTIER, is no slouch of a democrat when you examine the siftings of his political predilections, hence, why not compromise the struggle between McHugh, Doyle, Sullivan, et al, and all unite in making Dennie postmaster at O'Neill? He has the untarnished Emerald tint, and in every other respect possesses the essential qualifications for an efficient and trustworthy public servant. Besides his appointment would harmoniously blend with the shekinah that halos Grover's mugwumpism.—Graphic.

We are very thankful to our friend Bates, who penned the above, for his manifest interest in us. While we are confident that we could wear the official robes with ease, sort the letters with a critical eye and draw the salary, which goes with the office, with joy; still we have no desire to fill the position, as we are not in touch with the present administration. Years ago when in our teens, we thought we were a democrat, but as we grow older we are growing firmer in our belief that the republican party is the party for the people, and we will march to victory in 1896. So now we are content with sitting in the back ground and watching the struggle.

ELI AND HOKE ON REVENUE. The Sun "which shines (from New York) for all," has this article. On the principle that

"A little nonsense, now and then, is relished by the wisest men." THE VIEWS OF STATESMEN WHO DO NOT RULE THE TREASURY.

They were talking about the low balance in the treasury the other day at Colonial Club when Eli Perkins, the great American truth teller, was asked what caused it.

"It was caused," said Eli, "by the republicans foolishly paying out $38,000,000 to reimburse the states for the equipment of troops in 1861. This had been due the states for 30 years. Cleveland wouldn't pay this debt, but the first thing Harrison did was to pay it. How foolish! He ought to have let it dangle along and let the next administration pay it. That's what Grover did."

"But how shall we raise sufficient revenue now?" was asked. "Why, lower the tariff, import more goods, and collect the revenue on them." "But can we import these things and still make them at home?" "Why, of course, any one can see that. Hoke Smith says so." "What would you put a tariff on?" "Hoke and I would have a tariff for revenue, not for protection. We'd adopt the English tariff. The English have a tariff of 8 cents on tea, 5 cents on coffee, 4 cents on cocoa, $1.20 on tobacco, $2.50 on whisky, and 1 cent on sugar. Sugar, coffee, tea and tobacco are free in America."

"And tin, what would you do with that? We have fifty-six factories now, making about one-tenth of the tin used." "Oh, let it come from Wales. The more we import the more we'd manufacture here. Can't you see?" "And the ninety-four pearl button factories now in this country, what of them? Would you take the tariff off and let our workmen work for German wages or go back home?"

"Why yes. With a low tariff they'd all be imported from Austria, and, at the same time our factories would be running here. Hoke Smith says so." "And what will we do with sugar? We are paying out now $100,000,000 for sugar. All our surplus wheat goes for sugar. Miles square are going into beet sugar in Nebraska and California. Sugar cane is moving up into Texas and Louisiana. It's going up the Brazos. A half a million bales of cotton came out last year to give place to sugar and rice. Shall we take the bounty off and buy our sugar in Germany, France and Cuba, or keep on the bounty of Germany did, and by and by make all our own sugar? Shall we choke off the splendid sugar factories at Grand Island, Norfolk and Aberdeen, Dakota?"

"Why, yes; import it and get the revenue. What's $100,000,000 worth of home-made sugar to us? What do we care for $20,000,000 worth of home-made plate glass, and $100,000,000 worth of iron? Let the knitting factories go back to Germany, let tin plate go back to Wales, let pearl buttons go back to Vienna, and plate glass and pottery and velvet go back to England and France. We want to get revenue on them. We are in for revenue. The boys voted for a change and we are going to have it. They got 50 per cent. protection and 300 per cent. bigger wages than any other workmen on earth, and now they are going to get 30 per cent. protection, have the same wages, and the things are all going to be made in Europe. You hear me—and Hoke!"

Then the old truth teller wiped his glasses with his red bandanna handkerchief and went on reading the president's inaugural.
