In answer to a general demand from all parts of the United States, the Toledo Blade has published in one volume, cloth bound, all of the "Nashy Letters" ever written by the late D. R. Locke, omitting perhaps a few unimportant letters on local or forgotten topics. Only a few of these letters were ever published in book form. Everybody has read some of them, but who has read all of them? The book contains over 500 large pages, and all the Nasby Letters written during a period of twenty-five years; also a portrait of D. R. Locke from his last photograph. It would sell at one dollar or more, but will never be placed on sale. One hundred thousand copies are now being printed and bound, and one copy will be sent postpaid by mail free to every person who this winter remits $1 for the Weekly Blade one year, Everybody invited to send for a specimen copy of the Weekly Blade, within will give a full description of the both The Nasby Letters."

The Toledo Weekly Blade is the best and most porular weekly newspaper published in this country. It has the largest circulation of any weekly newspaper, and goes to every state, territory and nearly every county of the Union. Only $1 a year, including the above mentioned book free. Send postal to The Blade, Toledo, Ohio, for a free specimen copy of the paper. Send the addresses of your friends also.

Sending Gifts From Shops.

A word about sending gifts directly from the place where they are bought, writes Mrs. Hamilton Mott in a practical article on "Sending Christmas Packager" in the December Ladies Home Journal. If the article purchased is of lewelry, if it is anything of glass or china, or if it is something which, like a lamp, requires special packing, this may be a wise thing, to do. In this case place your card with the holiday greetings written thereon in a sealed envelope carefully addressed to the name and residence of the person for whom it is sent. And then ask the clerk to remove the price tag from the article purchased, and give special orders that the cost check shall not be sent with the package. At all the large shops preparation is made for this, and the vulgarity of sending a gift with the price in evidence is never committed.

Getting "Solid" With the "Cop." Off the stage, Wallie Eddinger is a bright, breezy lad, with a flow of exuberant animal spirits, and an almost abnormal love of boyish mischief. He is more fond of sport than study, and abhors fuss or flattery, and would rather have a new base ball than the most glowing tribute to his dramatic success. His memory is phenomenal, and his application practically nil. While rehearsing for a performance of 'Pygmalion and Galatea." which was given last year for the benefit of the New York Press Club by the children of the stage, Wallie was far more inclined to play with the boys than to study his part. After repeated but iling remonstrances from all sides he said one day to Mrs. Berkely, who had charge of the affair: "I'll make a argain with you, if you like. You treat me to a big ice-cream soda, and tomorrow I'll be letter-perfect, sure."

At the last rehersal of the same play he gravely requested a private interview with Mrs. Berkely. "I don't want to be mean nor ask too many favors," he said to her, very seriously: "but I would like awfully to have one more ticket for the show-it's for a cop.

Wallie got the soda, and was as good as his word.

"What on earth is a 'cop,' Wallie?" "Why, a p'liceman-the one on our beat. I want to stand solid with him.

He's just dead stuck on theaters." "But," said Mrs. Berkely, repressing a struggling desire to laugh. "what do you want to be 'solid' with the policeman for? You are not afraid of being arrested, I hope." "Well, you know, I want to play ball on the street this summer, and if I fix him it will save me lots of money on balls, because they've got the right to take them away from a fellow when they catch you at it. You see how it is yourself, don't you?" Mrs. Berkely "saw," and emilingly yielded to the argument.-From "Children of the Stage," in Demorest's Family
