Roastology. The following are extracts from last week's Stuart Ledger. Editor Wertz has been a long-suffering victim of the Jew's malice, but at last he has thrown down the gauntlet and announced that the fight is on. We reproduce these clippings as an indication of Kautzman's standing away from home and at the same time give approbation of Wertz' course, which in aggravating cases like this, is excusable.

The notorious Ham Kautzman in the last issue of his dirty, lying, slanderous, contemptible sheet, devotes a screed in his "valuable paper" to the Ledger and its editor, which, as far as gall and palpable falsehood is concerned has never had its equal in the annals of Holt county journalism. This incubus upon humanity and decent journalism opens his piece of idiotic slop in the following language:

The week before election the Stuart Ledger said in substance that if Charles Hamilton was elected it would mean death to that luminary. In the literal meaning of the plain English term he is a dirty LIAR; his muse is the prince of liars: he lies by rote; he lies from force of habit; he lies when the truth would do better; he lies because he is a born liar and has his profession reduced to a science. We will mail him a copy of the paper and if he can find a sentence that has the remotest semblance to the meaning he implies we will pay the board bill he jumped in Stuart eight years ago which he to this day owes, and to a woman at that, when his profession was that of a drunken loafer and tin horn gambler.

Kautzman, as a reform leader, is nothing more nor less than an ignis fatuus. Such luminaries have their origin in the dark, skummy, slimy marshes that breed disease and pestilence. To follow it is only to be led into mire and ooze among slimy lizzards and snakes. A man who would follow the teachings which are the emanations of Kautzman's warped and perverted brain—his thoughts rise, like the ignis fatuus, from a cesspool of inward rottenness—would soon find himself an enemy of all the rest of mankind—a pure and simple anarchist.

We give the ostracised son-in-law fair warning: Stop your hellish, libelous accusations and keep your long nose out of our business. If you do not there is going to be such a rattling among the dry bones of the closeted skeletons as there has never been before in Holt county. We are not trying to run a bluff but for the good of all concerned give timely warning.

Those City Scales. The city council has from time to time been called upon by certain buyers in O'Neill to investigate the management of the city scales and at the last meeting appointed a committee for that purpose. In the meantime, by request we publish the following affidavit made by Mr. Miller in his own defense.

THE STATE OF NEBRASKA, ss Holt County, I, Joe Miller, being first duly sworn depose and say that as weigh-master of the city scales in O'Neill, Neb., I have always performed my duty to the best of my ability. That at no time as weigh-master did I knowingly wrong in any manner any person, either buyer or seller. That I take particular care in having said scales properly balanced and make reports on weights of produce as is shown by said scales when properly balanced. I know neither friend nor foe in the performance my duty, and any reports made by William Fallon or Con Keys or any other person, reflecting on my official integrity, are wholly false and without foundation. The above named men being unable to buy me to act dishonestly now endeavor to get me removed. JOE MILLER.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of December, 1893. THOMAS V. GOLDEN, Notary Public. My commission expires November 27, 1897.

A "Trust" Which is Popular. There is a great deal of indignation felt against trusts. The sugar trust, the standard oil trust, the Welch tin plate trust, the English salt trust, and other combinations of the kind, are vigorously denounced, and it is a subject of controversy whether there are more trusts in England than America, and whether protection or free trade fosters them. But there is one form of trust against which no one has anything to say. That is the trust the public reposes in Hood's sarsaparilla.

Atkinson Graphic: So it seems that Kautzy is a "fiddler." Whether he took lessons in the art from the beastly tyrant who fiddled while Rome was burning, or graduated under the tutelage of the author of "Rakensack Traveler" is not determined by any mention in the great encyclopedias of modern date. But notwithstanding this lamentable omission in the records of great compilers, Kautzy is an artist on the ungodly viol, and when his genius, in connection with this instrument, is slighted, he mounts the tripod of wrath and while his ears fan the atmosphere on Mount Olympus into a cyclone, he tips his pen with the gall of bitterness and scrawls a drastic screed against Clyde King because that gentle and model kid did not force the management of a recent Rebecca ball in O'Neill to employ the Independent professor of cat-gut symphony to entertain the Rebecca guild on that occasion with a demonic rendition of the "Devil's Dream." The tone, temper and scurrilous verbiage of the screed proves, beyond question, that in all that is decent and manly, Clyde King is as much above Kautzman as the "ridge pole of heaven is above the mudsill of hell."

The importance of keeping the liver and kidneys in good condition cannot be overestimated. Hood's sarsaparilla is a great remedy for regulating and invigorating these organs.
