Whistles in Sword Hilts

The new tactics adopted for the army contemplates the giving of commands by whistles under certain circumstances, instead of by word of mouth. Consequently infantry officers have received an intimation from the acting chief of ordinance that they are expected to provide themselves with whistles at their own cost. The order says: "The major general commanding the army, having approved the introduc-tion of a whistle in the cross piece of the guard of the sword for infantry officers, desires to inform you that the commanding officers of Springfield armory and Rock Island arsensi have een instructed to make this alteration as promptly as possible upon the receipt of the arms. The cost, which will be paid by the owner of the sword, will be about $3.75 each for lots of 50 or more, but the expense will necessarily be greater where work is conducted on but few swords at a time."—Washing-ton Cor. MEDICAL writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh is proof positive that only one remedy has completely met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This safe and pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact.

STRUCK THE WRONG FARMER

Experience With a Watch That Happened at a Had Time. We were talking about human nature in general, and the human nature of farmers in particular, when the man who was traveling for a button factory sagely observed: "Yes, the average farmer is a queer man. They talk about his confiding disposition, but he hasn't got it. On the contrary, he suspects everybody of intent to defraud him in some

"Well, I dunno about that," said

one of the crowd. "I think I can prove it to you in ten minutes," replied the button man. "Now, then, look at this watch and estimate it's value."

He handed out the watch and chain and they were passed from hand to hand. The watch was a fine one and the chain was solid gold and the lowest estimate was $300.

"I paid $400 in good money for the outfit," said the man. "One of you come along into the smoking car and we'll find a farmer. I'll offer him this watch and chain for $50, and he'll just think I am trying to beat him. If I lose I pay for six dinners. If I win somebody pays for

He started out in company with the man who had expressed his doubts, and about the first man they came to in the smoking car was a middle-aged farmer who had been to Cleveland and had two new ax helves in the seat beside him. The button man held out the watch and said:

"My friend, I am hard up and want to sell this stuff. Look at it." "Don't want it," replied the farmer. "But I must have money. Watch and chain cost me $400. How much will you give me?"

"Don't want to buy." "But take them in your hands and examine them. Even a child could estimate their value. I ought to get at least half cost, but as I want $50 awfully bad right away this minute

"lou contended that the farmer hadn't a confidin' disposition, did you?" queried the toiler as he pock-eted the greenbacks. "Wall, I guess you know more about buttons than you do about farmers. You jest come down my way and offer me a windmill fur $25, a pianer fur $50 or a mower and reaper fur $75, and I'll confide in you so durned quick that you can't keep your heels on the airth!"

There are times when the postffice department pitches pennies. It is not very often that this sport is indulged in, but nevertheless it is a recognized part of the official program. It is in connection with the star routes. When there is a new route established, at the regular fouryearly letting of the contracts, say, there is nearly always competition between would-be contractors. It sometimes happens that there are two lowest bidders. If these two men both live on the route, or live at an equal distance from it, the department tosses a penny. Mr. Stone does the tossing. He is the chief clerk in the second assistant postmaster-general's office and the contracts go through him. Mr. Stone has the contractors take seats in his handsomely upholstered office. He feels in his pocket for a penny. If he has nothing but large bills in his pocket, which is apt to be the case, he borrows a nickel from the young man who writes shorthand for him. Then he pitches up the nickel. While it is away near the ceiling he says to his young man: "Which shall it be?" And the young man answers: "Heads for Smith." And if heads come up Smith gets the contract. If tails, Brown gets it.—Washington Capital.

Digestive Apparatus of the Cow. The cow has four stomachs. When food is first swallowed it undergoes slight masceration in the first stomach. In the second stomach it is rolled into small balls. These balls are brought up into the mouth again and chewed. That process is called "chewing the eud." Being again swallowed they pass into the third stomach and from that into the fourth, where final digestion takes place. When about to swallow food a second time the cow closes the entrances to the first and second stomachs, so that no miscarriage is possible.

Flight of Wild Geese. Wild geese and wild ducks show knowledge as to the resistance of the atmosphere and sagacity in overcoming it. When flocks of them have to go long distances they form a triangle to cleave the air more easily, and the most courageous bird takes position at the forward angle. As this is a very fatiguing post another bird ere long takes the place of the exhausted leader. Thus they place their available strength at the service of the society.

There are many causes for variation in the fodder made by growing corn, some of them pertaining to the way it is grown, and others to the skill, or want of skill, shown in curing it. Corn that is grown so thickly that its stalks are thin and white is as nearly worthless as such feed can be grown. It has little sweetness and not enough nutrition to keep anything in good condition to keep anything in good condi-tion. For fodder alone corn must be be grown so thinly that nearly every stalk will have a nubbin on it.

The stalks from field corn that has borne a crop of ears have more nutri-tion than the average of corn thickly sown grown for fodder alone. Sweet corn stalks are better than those of the ordinary field variety. This may in part be owing to the fact that roasting ears are picked early, and as the leaves ears are picked early, and as the leaves continue to gather more sweetness it goes into the stalk after the green ears have been removed. Plucking green ears from ordinary field own makes the stalks richer, and such stalks are always preferred by cows when fed with others where the ears had been removed after being fully ripened.—American Cultivator. A dispatch from Victoria, B. C., says the United States steamer Albatross reports having made deep-sea soundings off the coast of Alaska, reaching a depth of 4,500 fathoms, which, it is added, is "the greatest depth ever reached." If by that is meant the deep-set soundings aver made in any ocean est soundings ever made in any ocean there must be a mistake in the figures reported, or the claim is not correct. The depth of 27,000 feet has been exceeded three times. In what is called the "international deep," near the island of St. Thomas, one of the West Indicated in the state of t dies, independent soundings were made by American and English officers, and a depth of 27,366 feet established. In 1874 the British ship Challenger found a depth of 27,450 feet near the Ladrone Islands, in the Pacific ocean, and in the same year the United States ship Tuscarora, under command of Captain George E. Belknap, sounded to the depth of 27,930 feet near the Kurile Islands, in the North Pacific. This is the lowest point yet reached, being over five and one-fourth miles, or nearly equal to the height of the Himalayas. In the days before scientific deep-sea soundings there were reports of depths of 7,000 to 8,000 fathoms having been reached, but these are conceded to have been apocryphal. The Tuscarosa's re-cord of 4,561 fathoms stands without rival as yet.

It is because persons who once try Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, always buy it again, that its sales have become so enormous. The success of this great remedy in curing cold, cough, croup and sore-throat is simply marvelous.

The United States postoffice department has made a stand against some unfortunate tendencies of geographical nomenclature in this country by refus-ing to accept certain outlandish names for postal purposes. The result is that many towns of triple jointed names are known by some other title on the rolls of the postoffice department, to the confusion and inconvenience not only of their inhabitants but of all persons doing business with them.

Branding Criminals in China

Finding that long terms of imprison-ment and flogging do not check robbery and piracy and systematic practice of imposition on strangers in the nature of thievery in the Soochow district, the authorities have resolved to try brand-ing.
