

Man's Inhumanity to Himself.
The most inhuman outrages, outrages which would disgrace the savage, man perpetrates upon his own system by swallowing drastic purgatives which convulse his stomach, agonize his intestines and weaken his system. Many people constantly do this. The impression that medicaments under such names as cathartics, are of any avail, is a mistake. The injury to health is wrought by this mistaken idea. The laxative which most nearly approaches the beneficent action of nature is castor oil. It is not only gentle, but it is also the most effective. It is not only gentle, but it is also the most effective. It is not only gentle, but it is also the most effective.

THROW IT AWAY.
There is no longer any need of wearing a corset. The corset is a relic of a bygone era. It is not only uncomfortable, but it is also dangerous. It is not only uncomfortable, but it is also dangerous. It is not only uncomfortable, but it is also dangerous.

A Fat Little Man.
Philadelphia Press. The smallest sovereign of the Old World, that is, for her age, is Queen Victoria, who is under five feet in height, and almost as broad as she is long. Nor does she make any attempt to remedy this condition by any artificial means, for the boots that she wears are almost entirely devoid of heels and are roomy in the extreme, while many a year must have passed since she has had occasion to require the services of her corsetier.

Even when standing by the side of the very shortest men, she appears small and stunted, and, under the circumstances, it is wonderful how she should be able to move about with so much grace and majesty. Indeed, the courtesies which, on great occasions, this wonderful, extraordinary old great-grandmother is accustomed to make to her guests or her subjects are perfect marvels of facile grace, altogether astounding in a woman of her figure.

What Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has done for others for nearly two generations it will do for you. If you will try it once you will be convinced that it is the best family medicine, and you will never be without it.

A Brave Boy.
James Long, a San Francisco boy, was in a schoolhouse that caught fire. The children had fire drill, of course, and the classes got out all right. Long was on the top floor, and noticed a little lame girl in the corner. He left his place in the line, picked her up in his arms and carried her down three flights of stairs. For this brave deed—the smoke was pretty thick on the stairs—he has received a medal from the president of the board of education, a locket and chain from the insurance men and $20 in gold from Tiburcio Parrott, a resident, who knows a brave boy when he sees one.

The attention of base-ball players who receive wounds of one kind or another every day, from bat or ball, is directed to the fact, that Salvation Oil is the best application in the cure of cuts, bruises and sprains. 25 cents.

"I wonder how Europeans come to persist in that idea that bands of savages frequent New York," asked the athletic young man.
"Possibly," replied the sister, "because some of the visitors to this country have heard a foot-ball team giving the college yell."

Much Made.
Money stringency is not the only cause of hard times. It takes a very little money to make a good deal of happiness, as the following shows: Mr. R. H. Kyles, Tower Hill, Appomattox County, Va., writes that he was afflicted with rheumatism for several years, and physicians gave him no relief. Finally he was rubbed all over with St. Jacobs Oil and it cured. During his illness he had spasms and was not expected to live. This points a way to many who think times hard, but who can find an easy way out of their troubles.

Churches as Shelters.
Dr. John A. B. Wilson, a New York minister, delivered a stirring sermon Sunday on the destitution of the poor in that city. Between 40,000 and 50,000 men, he declared, walked the streets shelterless every night. "Let us see to it," he finally said, "that, if no other home can be provided for the shelterless, the churches shall be opened to them, no matter what the inconvenience to ourselves. It was done centuries ago, why not do it now? Open the churches to the people day and night, for sitting-rooms, for reading-rooms, for lodging-rooms, for warmth and shelter. Who ever deemed it sacrilege during the war, when church buildings were converted into hospitals for the wounded? There is now no holier use to put them to under heaven or in heaven than to open them to these poverty-stricken and wounded brethren of our Lord and ours."

The Modern Invalid
Has tastes medicinally, in keeping with modern luxuries. A remedy must be pleasantly acceptable in form, purely wholesome in composition, truly beneficial in effect and entirely free from every objectionable quality. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Orchards.
Plant, encourage your neighbor to plant. It takes to-day a bushel of wheat to buy a peck of apples—orchards pay. Stark Bros' share or co-operative orchards furnished without money—an investment for the well-to-do, as well as for men of limited means and providing orchards which otherwise they might never get. A great orchard system on thorough, business-like plans—something never before attempted. We practice what we preach, show our faith in our orchards, in our trees—two million trees, co-operative 6 per cent plan, already planted, over two million—over 30,000 acres, share plan and adding over half million a year. Farms with orchards doubling in value annually; a sure income. Our helps enable beginners to succeed. Write us. See adv. in another column this paper.

It is the real, downright, incurable foe who never knows it.
THE BREATH of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he becomes an object of disgust. After a time ulceration sets in, the spongy bones are attacked, and frequently destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inveterate bronchitis, which is usually the exciting cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results by its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balm as by far the best and only cure.

MAKING WAR ON A MOUSE.
Four Sparrows Make a Vain Attempt to Kill One "Timorous Beastie."

There was a battle royal on Michigan street the other afternoon, says the Milwaukee Sentinel. A man was seen to come out of a flat building, with a mouse trap in his hand. A yellow dog was loping along on the other side of the street. The man with the trap whistled to him and shouted "Sit 'em" two or three times. The fool dog didn't catch on, but continued his lazy trot until he came to an alley, into which he ran, probably to dig up a bone hidden when his stomach had no aching void. The man looked disgusted and said something to himself that sounded harsh. Then he unhooked the top of the trap and out jumped the tiny mouse. The animal hopped off toward the stone curbing at a higher rate of speed than a toad would take, but much after the same style of jump. The man had made up his mind to let the poor little mouse have its freedom when an English sparrow, which had been watching operations from a neighboring gable, darted into the street. He flew at the mouse viciously, spreading his wings widely as a spring chicken does when a dispute arises with a mate over a kernel of corn. The mouse continued to bound along the pavement when a heavy express wagon rolled by and the sparrow retired temporarily from the attack. When the danger was past he was again after the strange enemy, but was re-enforced by two more sparrows. Then there was some sport rarely witnessed. The mouse ran hither and thither in search of a crack in the curbstone, while his tantalizing enemies were striking wicked blows at him with their bills and flapping him about the head with their wings. The mouse was bewildered but held its own in a wonderful manner against the great odds, and, when about to surrender, along came an electric car with a loud whirr that scattered the sparrows and gave the mouse another chance. Before they had time to return to the chase he had reached the end of the curbing, where he squeezed into a small crack and escaped under the sidewalk.

Stands to Reason.
Mrs. Hayseed, noticing the fire escape at a city hotel—I wonder what their stairs are for?
Mr. Hayseed—Use yer brains, Miranda, if you've got any. This is a hotel ain't it?
"Of course."
"Well a hotel has all sorts o' people in it, and 'tain't likely they all get up at the same time, is it?"
"I s'pose not."
"Course not. Some goes to work earlier than others, and some has to catch trains. I s'pose them outside stairs is so the early risers can git down to the pump without makin' any noise."

A College Journalist.
Friend—How's that? Lost your position already? I thought you were the highest honor graduate in the Great American college of journalism.
Young Journalist—That's what's the matter. All the professors kept dingling into my head the great journalistic motto, "Boil it down."
"Well?"
"Well, the first work I was given was editing the special cable dispatches. I boiled 'em down to about three inches, and this morning the proprietor kicked me out."

What Hurt Him.
"I don't mind your refusing me cold victuals, ma'am," said the time-worn and travel-stained pilgrim at the kitchen door, buttoning his faded remnant of a coat under his chin, "but when you call me a worthless tramp you do me a cruel injustice. I have a standing offer of $15, ma'am, from one of the best medical colleges in this country for my corporosity, and with a stately bow he turned away, shuffled down the steps and carried away his insulted corporosity to the next kitchen.

American Like Olives.
This country has become within three decades one of the most important olive consuming countries of the world. When olives were first imported into the United States they were a luxury of the rich. They are still consumed in cities rather than in the country districts, and in New York, with its great population of people from the Mediterranean regions, is of all American cities, by far the greatest consumer of olives.

A Woman's View.
The Husband—No, I don't think women should vote.
The Wife—If they did, they would put forward better candidates than men do.
The Husband—Don't the men put up good candidates?
The Wife—Good candidates! Judging from what the papers say, only the worst men in the community are selected.

Prompt Reply.
Some business is best done quickly and with few words. Other business, of a more delicate nature, is commonly entered upon in a more leisurely manner. Now and then, however, a man is found who makes no such distinction. Farmer Jones sought an interview with Widow Brown. He had long prided himself upon his short-horn cattle; she was, in her way, as proud of her poultry and pigs.

"Widow Brown," said he, "I am a man of few words, but much feeling. I possess, as you know, between three and four hundred head of cattle. I have saved up eight hundred dollars or so, and I've a tidy and comfortable home. I want you to become my wife. Now, quick! the word with me; I give you five minutes to decide!"
"Farmer Jones," said Widow Brown, "I am a woman of few words—I'll say nothing of my feelings. I possess, as you know, between three and four hundred head of poultry and about ten score of pigs. I have nine twelve hundred dollars well invested—my late husband's savings and my own earnings. I tell you I wouldn't marry you if it were a choice between that and going to the scaffold. Sharp's my word and I give you three minutes to clear off my premises!"

1,410 BUS POTATOES PER ACRE.
This astonishing yield was reported by Abr. Hahn, of Wisconsin, but Salzer's potatoes always get there. The editor of the Rural New Yorker reports a yield of 736 bushels and 8 pounds per acre from one of Salzer's early potatoes. Above 1,410 bushels are from Salzer's new seedling Hundred-fold. His new early potato, Lightning Express, has a record of 803 bushels per acre. He offers potatoes as low as $2.50 a barrel, and the best potato planter in the world for but $2. If you will cut this out and send it, with 5c postage to the John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis., you will receive free his mammoth potato catalogue and a package of sixteen-day "Get There, Eli," raish.
