Graphic: T. V. Golden, of O'Neill, a prominent and active factor in promoting the irrigation project in northern Nebraska, was in Atkinson Tuesday and reports everything favorable for speedily pushing forward that great enterprise.

This morning's Sloux City papers bring tidings of great foy to the democrats. Elmer Williams, of Atkinson, was yesterday appointed receiver of the O'Neill land office. If this had happended a month ago the big Sixth would now have one less candidate for congressional emoluments, as the surprised last evening by the pupils of doughty Col. > An exchange remarks: The storein 1894 must practice the lesson taught in the following story. Two frogs found themselves in a pail of milk and they could not jump out. One of them was for giving up and said to the other, "Good by; I sink, I die." Said his mate, "Brace up, you old duffer! Keep s jumpin' and see what turns up.' So they kept jumping up and down all night and by morning had so churned the milk that it turned to butter, and they jumped off the butter to the ground. Applied to business the fable means exceed the business of 1893, 'keep s jumpin." Don't cry, 'I sink, I die!" The merchant who continues looking for bad times will not survive to see good times. The man who keeps a jumpin' will see good times first. Carry a level head, buy standard goods and keep a good, clean stock, an attractive store and advertise with bright, attractive ads."

The new city council met in first regular session last Monday night, Mayor Dickson, Clerk Martin, Councilmen Gatz, Wagers, Pfund, DeYarman and Merriman, present; absent, John McBride.

unanimous vote.

E. H. Benedict was elected city attorney, Joe Miller city weighmaster and two delegates. Below is the program: Charley Hall city marshal, water commissioner and road overseer.

The appointment of Mark Erwin as nightwatchman was announced by the mayor but the council declined to confirm at that time and the matter went

The mayor then read a message to the council vetoing the action before taken in regard to leasing the light plant. It was as follows:

Gentlemen of the city council-I beg leave to return to you not signed the proposed lease of the Electric Light & proposed lease of the Electric Light & Power Company, of this city, which you instructed the clerk and myself to make and sign. I must respectfully de-cline to sign the same for the reason that in my judgment it is illegal and not within the power of the city to make.
R. R. Dickson, Mayor.

John McHugh, president of the Elecric Light & Power Company, then made proposals substantially as follows: The said power company agrees to do the pumping for the city of O'Neill for the ensuing year at $45 per month, provided: in the event of the city using water from the hydrants to sprinkle the streets, the sum of $60 per annum shall be charged additional, and that as the water mains are extended a proportional amount shall be added to said monthly rental. This proposition was accepted.

It was moved seconded and carried that the sum of $290.77 be transferred from the general tund to a fund to be known as the water fund, and the treasurer be instructed to pay coupons of water bonds as they mature.

The mayor's salary was then fixed at $50, and the salary of each of the councilmen at $25 for the ensuing year. The following standing committees were named by the mayor: Water-Wagers, DeYarman and Gatz. Printing and supplies-Merriman and DeYarman. Judiciary-McBride Merriman and Wagers. Board of health-De Yarman, Merriman and Pfund.

Meeting adjourned until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. TUESDAY MORNING'S SESSION.

Council met as per adjournment and started the morning's business by confirming the appointment of Mark Erwin Saloon licenses and druggist permits were granted to all applicants, arrangements made for extention of the water mains and other unimportant business disposed of, after which the council adjourned.

NOTES FROM THE TEMPLE OF LEARNING

Charlie Meals went up to Atkinson Tuesday afternoon.

Had Morrow continued to give lessons in the "manly art," fistic cronology, etc., which branches he was the first O'Neill professor to introduce into the schools, boys might learn to whip their big sister's objectionable beaux, if nothing more. As it is the few who liar now, Darwin? rashly exposed themselves to his instructions have simply wasted eight or nine months, with the exception of Pat Holland, of Grattan, was a Friday caller at the high school.

Superintendent Jackson visited the schools Friday afternoon. He opened his mouth to make a few remarks, but we think that his disgust at the mode of engineering the school prevented the gentleman from saying very much.

Miss Katie Cain, Mrs. Kincaid and Harvey Bentley took in the schools Thursday.

Monday's debate-"Resolved, That An Amendment to the Constitution Should Be Ratified By a Direct Vote of the People"-was affirmatively discussed by Mamie Cullen and Charlie Meals, and negatively by Byron Freeland and Miss Norval. Affirmative won.

Morrow refused to permit the scholars of the second grammar department to take part in the literary entertainment of the schools at the close of the term. This is contrary to the rules of the school and is an insult to Mrs. Taylor and her scholars. The pupils of this department have received careful oratorical training from Mrs. Taylor, who is herself a fine elocutionist, and the idea that her room would not be allowed a representation in public school affairs is too absurd to emit from any mind

It Wasn't Conspiracy, Oh, No!

We give below another invoice of the tax list discussion between Supervisor Roll and the editor of the Ewing Advocate. The Advocate denied that there was a put up job, in fact swore that there was not, but along came old reliable Frank Phillips, of Star, who by affidavit deposes and says and quotes a conversation had with the Advocate wilful lies in regard to my voting on the tax list. They say I did not vote to save the county $1,200. That is another of their malicious false statements, but that doesn't cut any figure with the Advocate outfit for falsehoods and publishing the lies of others is their main stock and capital. Any editor who had a particle of manhood about him would never publish a letter from a lying cur like the one published two weeks ago in the Advocate, from that lying sneak at Tenic.

Cole made an affidavit to the effect that he never told Frank Phillips that he would get more out of the tax list not to bid than he would to bid. lowing affidavit from Mr. Phillips will probably be interesting reading for our friend Cole and his backers. Who is the D. G. ROLL.

STATE OF NEBRASKA, | 88. County of Holt, $88.

F. W. Phillips, being first duly sworn, learning a little about the principles of the independent party and how to say, "I is," "we has," etc.

deposes and says that in a conversation with D. A. Cole, of Ewing, Neb., said Cole told him that he was running a paper at Ewing called the People's Advocate. And on his asking said Cole why he did not put in a bid on the delinquent tax list Cole answered that he was to have part of it anyway. to a question said that he did not have to do any of the work but was to have part of it anyway. About two days later in another conversation with said Cole he repeated the above statements, and further stated that this was the agreement with east part of the county. That he was not to bid and that the printing of said tax list was to be let to the Independent and that the profits of the said printing were to be divided with him; that it was a good job and that there ought to be somewhere from $1,200 to $1,500 clear profit in it. And said Cole further in answer to the query, "you will probably make more out of it this way than if you bid on it yourself," replied, "yes."

Affiant further states that until the time of first conversation with said Cole that he did not know his name or that he was in any manner connected with a newspaper. Had met him first at an assessors' meeting in O'Neill in the spring of 1892 but did not get acquainted with him, simply saw him there and understood that he was the assessor from Ewing township.

Both of the conversations referred to were had at the New Ogden hotel at O'Neill. That the tax list referred to is the delinquent tax list of Holt county, pendent, published at O'Neill. F. W. PHILLIPS.

NO MAN'S COLUMN.

"If women could be fair, yet not fon-Or that their love were firm, not fickle still, would not marvel that they make men bon By service long to purchase their good will; But when I see how frail those creatures are. I muse that men forget themselves so far "To mark the choice they make and how they change,

How oft from Phoebus they do fly to Pan;
Unsettled still, like haggards wild they range
These gontle birds that fly from man to man.
Who would not scorn and shake them from the fist, An let them fly, fair fools, which way they list?

"Yet for disport we fawn and flatter both To passithe time when nothing else can ple And train them to our lure with subtle oath, Till, weary of their wiles, ourselves we ease; And then we say, when we their fancy try, To play with fools, O, what a fool was I."

We know a young man in O'Neill who fully appreciates it, although he has not so told us; in fact we suppose he had rather we knew nothing about the matter; but then we do. She was a female tourist. She was a vender. but it doesn't cut any material figure what she vended, suffice it our readers to know that she vended. She was not pretty, neither was she bad looking. The average man would not pause to find fault with her appearance, because she was stylish and wore fine dresses, which we all know cover a multitude of imperfections. And the young man in question was not a bad fellow as bad fellows go, although he was somewhat adventuresome and rarely out of the mood to do a little prospecting on promising occasions, where the wash of the soil would pan out amusement sufficient to recompense him for time and money employed. It is a racy tale but we dare not give it away, therefore we must be more guarded in our remarks. The vender of wares spread her net and caught the fish. She had no trouble in landing him and had less in holding him captive for some days and more nights. She has gone but he remembers her: he lays awake nights and thinks of her and when he dreams he dreams of her. You all know him and when you meet a young man who wears a look of sadness where once he wore a smile you may know 'tie he.

A gentlemanly banker in O'Neill has figured out the following problem for No Man readers to solve:

The same figures that represent the weight of the three lightest women in town are 14; the product of these figures is 84; the difference in weight between the first and third is 30 pounds, and between the first and second is 20 pounds. What is the weight of each and who are they?

Hood's Cures.

In saying that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures, its proprietors make no idle or extravagant claim. The advertising of Hood's Sarsaparilla is always within the bounds of reason, because it is true; it always appeals to the sober common sense of thinking people, and is always fully substantiated by endorsements, which in the financial world would be accepted without a moment's hesitation. Read the testimonials published in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla. They tell the story. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures.

They Want Hames.

The Russell Art Publishing Company, of 928 Arch street, Philadelphia, desire the names and address of a few people in every town who are interested in works of art, and to secure them they offer to send free "Cupid Guides the Boat," a superbly executed water color picture, size 10x13 inches, suitable for framing, and sixteen other pictures about the same size, in colors, to any one sending them at once the names and address of ten persons (admirers of fine pictures) together with six 2-cent stamps to cover expense of mailing, etc. The regular price of these pictures is $1, but they can all be secured free by any person forwarding the names and stamps promptly. The editors of this paper have already received copies of above pictures and consider them really gems of art.
