Weary Watkins-Madame. I wes not always as you see me now. Mrs. Peck -No, I guess not. I suppose there was time once in your life when you were entirely sober.

I have two little grand children who are teething this hot summer weather and are troubled with bowel complaint. I give them Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoes Remedy and it acts like a charm. I earnstly recommend it for children with bowel troubles. I was myself taken with a severe attack of bloody flux, with cramps and pains in my stomach, one-third of a bottle of this remedy cured me. Within twentyhours I was out of bed and doing my house work. Mrs. W. L. Dunagan. Bon aqua, Hickman Co., Tenn. For sale by P. C. Corrigan Druggist.

THE MAN IN A HURRY.

He Was a Most Unpleasant Person in Public Dining Room

A stout and determined-looking man with white chin-whiskers, gray hair brushed severely back from his forehead, and gold spectacles on his prominent nose entered a restaurant in Fourteenth street at the "rush" hour and strode rapidly to one of the tables at which there was a vacant seat. He hung a stout cane on the hatrack far up on the wall near the end of the table, says the New York Tribune, and was divesting himself of his overcoat when he happened to notice that the waiter was about leaving the table with orders for the other men.

. hold on a minute, young feller, and take my order, too, he shouted. "Bring me some hash, with poached aigs on it, and a couple of sinkers and some coffee in a hurry."

Then he finished taking off his overcoat and tried to hang it on what he probably thought was a peg of his hat rack, but he hit on the end of his cane instead and the coat flopped down on the floor, while the cane. after knocking several hats off the rack, fell on the head of a man near the wall and then bounded on the table with force enough to break several dishes and scatter coffee and gravy about promiscuously. The men at the table picked up their hats and began to say unpleasant things, but they were quickly awed to silence by the stout man, who de-clared with a fog-horn voice:

"It's an infernal outrage for a man to keep such a rack as that about his place. If I was running this house I'd see that there'd be different ar-If I was running this house rangements for folks who patronized

Then he slammed his cane back on the rack, hung his overcoat on a peg and sat down to glare at the waiter, who cleared away the broken dishes and wiped up the spilled coffee and gravy with fresh napkins. Two minutes after the waiter had left the table the stout man began to grum-

"I guess," he said, "he has gone down town to buy the meat to make that hash with. He must have been born late in the day. I said I was in a hurry and now I suppose he will take all day. If I don't get what I ordered right away I'm going to

Then the waiter came with the hash, sinkers and coffee and the stout man made them disappear in a way that showed he was a hustler. When his jaws had ceased to work he yelled for his check and made a grab at his overcoat and cane. There was another shower of hats from the rack, but the man in a hurry did not stop to pick them up. He evidently was too angry to say more. The other men did not try to detain him, but one of them said:

"That man must have been born before daylight."

There were some expressions of assent to the remark and then another man rounded it off with the declaration, "And he is trying the best he knows how to make other men wish he never had been born at

The Jains of India are the champion fasters or long-distance, dosores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, of from thirty to forty days are very this curious and once each year a "radami" comes forward and undertakes the "grand fast,"—a period of seventyfive days, during which time he allows nothing but warm water to pass his lips. When the fast is once begun, the faster will carry it to the prescribed limit or die in the attempt. In curious contrast to this startling feat is the religious eating contests of the South Sea islanders, where the competitors actually hoop themselves like barrels with ropes made of grass and bark to keep from bursting through overfeeding .-- St. Louis Republic.

Going to Be Up to Date.

"I am going to make a great hit with my next novel," said the goldenhaired authoress, "and don't you forget it." "What's the plot?" "Oh, I don't really know yet, but there's to be four chapters devoted to the sufferings of the hero from appendicitis.-Indianapolis Journal.
