Chappie—What is this armor plate they are talking so much about?

Sappie—I haven't given the subject much study, but I presume it is the plate they serve the armor on to the soldiers, don't you know?

Dinkle—Strange you should be overcome by the heat.

Dankle—Great Scott, man! I lost $10 on it.

"I hear that old Muchmum is your rival for the heart of Miss Summermaid. Is he?"

"Oh, no. Merely a rival for her hand."

My boy was taken with a disease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is enclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by P. C. Corrigan Druggist.

"Did you notice that impertinent Mr. Yardsick? I think he expected me to speak."

Edith—Are you acquainted with him? "Mercy, no, we were merely engaged during the summer."

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by P. C. Corrigan Druggist.

"Did you learn anything worth trying to remember at your reading club?"

She—Well, I should say so. I sat right behind Mrs. Highfill, and found out exactly how she does up her hair in a lovely new way.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhoea, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by P. C. Corrigan Druggist.

"Chollie is feeling awfully vain over a compliment Mr. Blankly paid him."

"What was it?"

"He saw him on the veranda and thought it was Miss Dumbells."

Market Man—Yes, ma'am. "Well, then, you may give me a few sweepstakes. I have heard my husband speak of enjoying them."

"I can't understand what use Mrs. Bingley has for another man servant."

Great Scott! they take three Sunday papers now."

There was a crowd on Fourth avenue, New York, the other day. It was gathered about a little girl and a dog. There were a couple of policemen, a half-dozen women and a dozen men. The little girl was lost. The policemen knew it, the women knew it, the crowd knew it, and the little girl herself knew it. Now the problem everyone was trying to solve was where the little girl belonged. Neither the policemen, the women, the crowd nor the little girl knew.

"Where do you live?" asked a policeman.

The little girl looked up in a frightened way and shook her head. "Poor little dear—where does your mother live?" asked one of the women, thinking to get at the problem in a round-about way. Still the little girl shook her head. Finally a newsboy appeared on the scene. He eyed the assemblage contemptuously.

"Here," he said to the dog, "go home, sir." Off started the dog, the little girl hanging on to his shaggy coat and the crowd following behind. Down Fourth avenue a few blocks, around the corner straight into the arms of an anxious woman who looked half frightened to death, and who took the little girl in her arms and hugged and kissed her. The dog went quietly into the house, the newsboy disappeared, the policeman and crowd went away, and it was all over.

TOO ARTISTIC TO HAGGLE.

Worth's Haughty Reply to a Patron Who Questioned His Prices.

Every man has his price, though it is, in the case of renowned persons, occasionally high. No one understands this better than Worth, the man milliner, as any person who wears his creations can vouch for. A good story is told of how one misguided woman ventured to remonstrate with him because he charged her $600 for a dress, which at first sight seems to ordinary people an expensive gown.

"The goods," said the lady, "could be bought for $100, and surely the work of making up would be well paid for with $50 more."

"Madam," replied the outraged tailor, "go to M. Constant, the painter, and say to him: 'Here is a canvass and colors, value $1. Paint me a picture on that canvass with these paints and I will pay you thirty-three and a third cents.' What would be the answer? 'Madam, this is no payment for an artist.' No, but I say more. If you think my terms are too high keep the dress and pay me nothing. Art does not descend to the pettiness of haggling."

History does not record the lady's reply.

Truth Spoken in Jest.

Baron Ferdinand Rothschild tells an amusing story about the late Lord Hertford. He lived in Paris during the last twenty years of his life, and as he usually went to bed very late, his valet was under the strictest orders not to disturb him in the morning. "You may call me at 8 if there is a revolution," was the command, "not otherwise." By this his lordship probably meant that he was not to be wroued at all. On the morning of the 24th of February, 1848, however, he was called at 8. "What's wrong?" he grumbled; "is there a revolution?" "Yes, my lord, there is," the valet replied. This was the fact. It was then that Louis Philippe, the citizen king, fled from Paris and found refuge in England, where he died.

Hadn't Guessed the Right Name.

Kathleen had been put out to service, and Mrs. Berry liked the rosy face of the young Irish girl. One day Kathleen was sent on an errand to town. She was longer than usual, and Mrs. Berry stood on the porch as she came through the field. Kathleen was happy, and Mrs. Berry observed: "Why, Kathleen, what a rosy, happy face. You look as if the few had kissed you." Kathleen dropped her eyes and murmured: "In-lade, mum, but that wasn't his name."

Tired, Weak, Nervous Could Not Sleep.

Prof. L. D. Edwards, of Preston, Idaho, says: "I was all run down, weak, nervous and irritable through overwork. I suffered from brain fatigue, mental depression, etc. I became so weak and nervous that I could not sleep, I would arise tired, discouraged and blue. I began taking and now everything is changed. I sleep soundly, I feel bright, active and ambitious. I can do more in one day now than I used to do in a week. For this great good I give Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine the sole credit.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

It Cures."

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1.60 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

THE ONE-HUNDRED-TON GUN.

The Noise of Its Firing Is a Source of Danger to Those Near It.

"The man who has never been in close proximity to a one hundred ton gun when it is fired can have little conception of the noise and vibration," said Lieutenant John W. Leigh, a retired naval officer. "Partly by courtesy and partly by chance I was on the Thunderer at the siege of Alexandria some twelve or thirteen years ago. Two sets of advice were given me as to how to act when the big guns were fired. Old experienced seamen can stand the shock by raising on their toes the moment the word is given to fire. The majority of people, however, find it necessary, in order to preserve their ear drums from perforation, to lie down, resting most of the weight on their hands and toes. Even with this precaution the sensation is most unpleasant until one gets used to it. Even with the comparatively small guns in general use in our navy the concussion on board a ship when a shot is fired is very annoying, but the enormous guns used so generally in European navies are a source of terrible danger to the crew as well as the enemy, and I doubt if they could possibly be used in a hand-to-hand encounter, useful as they are for destroying distant ports."

A Smallpox Cure.

Some years ago there appeared in several newspapers in different parts of the country a prescription for a remedy for smallpox and scarlet fever which was vouched for by responsible parties as efficacious in both diseases, allaying in twelve hours all dangerous symptoms. Later, during the epidemic of smallpox in Philadelphia, it was stated that the superior of the convent in that city had administered the remedy with distinguished success to crowds of people who came to the convent for the medicine which she prepared and gave out. The prescription is here given for what it is worth: Sulphate of zinc, one grain; foxglove (digitalis), one grain; half teaspoonful of sugar. Mix thoroughly with two teaspoons of water, add four ounces of water. Dose, teaspoonful every hour. Disease will disappear in twelve hours.
