There's Always a Reason.
 It is an easy thing to account for the wonderful growth of the Daily State Journal recently. Its price has been reduced to 50 cents per month without Sunday or 65 cents with Sunday. The Journal has always been reliable and honest, printing the news without fear or favor. The people of Nebraska realize that they need a paper published at the capital, and when the price of the Journal was reduced the subscription list grew at a phenomenal rate. The Journal is a Nebraska paper through and through.

"Does she love music?" "M—yes; but not enough to keep away from the piano."

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or a headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept on hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by P. C. Corrigan, druggist.

When an neers marries an extravagant man she husbands her resources in the wrong way.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason of Chilton, Carter Co., Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale by P. C. Corrigan, druggist.

No one can broaden his own views by spreading himself.

Every mother should know that croup can be prevented. The first symptom of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by P. C. Corrigan, druggist.

EXCHANGED HATS.

A Louisville Man Who Hundered About His Headgear.
 "Well, sir," said a well-known Louisville man, "I had an embarrassing experience recently. I invariably sleep until the very last moment, and then make a rush for the breakfast table and the car. That morning I had but five minutes to get through eating and catch the car that passed my door. I fairly poked things down my throat, and hearing the clang of the motorman's bell I made a rush for the street. As I passed through the hall I snatched a hat that was hanging on the rack, and just reached the corner in time. Then I dropped into a seat and took the morning paper from my pocket. It was not long until I heard a gentle tittering from some dry goods clerks in the seats behind me. They kept it up and somehow I got an idea into my head that they were laughing at me.

"After a while I turned fiercely to one of them and asked what it was that seemed to amuse him so. He trembled and managed to gasp out that I had on my wife's hat. It was even so, and there was one of these long, gaudy, yellow pins that women use to keep their headgear in position, sticking in it. I was so mad that I jerked it off and threw it into the street. Then everybody in the car roared, and I felt truly furious. When I reached a hat store I stepped in and bought me a hat of the masculine variety. Several hours afterward my wife dropped in at the store, and she was wearing my hat. There was a pin in the back of it, and the little face veil swinging from the front, but it was my hat. I didn't say a word, and that woman is wearing it yet. What bothers me is that everybody found out the joke on me, and nobody has noticed it on her."

HIS OWN TAILOR.
 A German Prince Teaches a Lesson to the Officers.
 The statement that the German empress is in the habit of mending her consort's linen and darning his stockings is in parallel to a good story told of Prince Henry, the kaiser's brother and admiral of the imperial navy, which reports that at an inspection of the naval division under his command the prince noticed that the men possessed of private means exhibited only new clothes, or such as had been very little worn. Upon inquiry he heard that these men bought new clothes rather than patch their old ones. His royal highness dispatched a messenger to the castle, who soon after returned with a suit of white duck, which Prince Henry unfolded before the einjehrigen (gentlemen volunteers).

The clothes were well worn and neatly patched, and the prince addressed his hearers as follows: "My superior officers compelled me to repair my working suit when I served my first term aboard as a 'midny.' I do not doubt that you have the means to purchase a duck suit, and so has, in fact, any sailor. But, gentlemen, some of you expect by and by to become officers. How can you expect to be entrusted with the property of the country if you are not more careful of your own." In this way Prince Henry assists his brother, the kaiser, in his crusade against extravagance in army and navy, which has met with very encouraging results and has not been without influence on national morals.

THE BALLOON CYCLE.
 A French Army Means of Carrying War Dispatches.
 There floated over the hamlet of Villeneuve-la-Garenne the other afternoon, in mid-air, a balloon. Suddenly it appeared to burst and fell rapidly toward the earth. Fearing that a disaster had occurred the terrified folk ran to the spot which they expected the aerostat would reach the ground, when to their amazement they saw a parachute detach itself from the car and descend gently. Immediately the earth was touched one of the passengers jumped upon a small bicycle which he had brought with him from the aerial regions, and he disappeared in the direction of Levallois, in the neighborhood of Paris, as rapidly as the machine could carry him. The explanation of this singular occurrence is simple. The balloon was the Caliban, and the ascent was made from Levallois by Captain Capazza and M. Hervien, the latter being the cyclist. Their object was to test the possibility of a balloon being used for carrying war dispatches, and they assumed that an enemy succeeded in destroying it. Yet they proved that by means of the parachute they would be able to make good their escape and to outdistance their pursuers with the aid of the portable bicycle.

The Latest in Music.
 The very latest idea in music is the sale of songs, sonatas and symphonies by weight. According to a German musical journal this strikingly original system has just been introduced by a Berlin house. A kilogramme of songs costs about two and one-half marks—about a shilling per pound. Piano music, whether for two or four hands, runs a trifle higher, viz., three marks the kilo. The symphony heads the list at the uniform price of four marks the kilo. The system, it appears, does not admit the allowance of discount.

Four Years Spent in Its Making.
 A vase which has taken four years to complete has just been sent to London from a Minton manufactory. It is valued at $1,500 and is considered the handsomest thing of the kind that has ever been made. Venus, Bacchus, and a group of cupids are represented in the design.

"What Durned Nonsense."
 "I see," said the man who began life at $3 a week and now owns a block of tenements that haven't seen a bit of paint since they were built, "I see that these here new five dollar silver certificates are to have a lot of angels, and charlots, and clouds, and things engraved on them. What durned nonsense. Why don't they engrave some bacon, and potatoes, and clothes, and champagne wine, and all that sort of thing that $5 can buy, and have some meaning to their designs? That's what I'd like to know."

A Mutual Sentiment.
 Horace Greeley once wrote a note to a brother editor in New York, whose writing was as illegible as his own. The recipient of the note, not being able to read it, sent it back by the same messenger to Mr. Greeley for elucidation. Supposing it to be the answer to his own note, Mr. Greeley looked over it, but likewise was unable to read it, and said to the boy: "Go take it back. What does the damned fool mean?" "Yes, sir," said the boy; "that is just what he says."

Humpty-Dumpty.
 It is not generally known that "Humpty-Dumpty" was not originally a nursery rhyme, but a political satire at the expense of King James II. of England—Humpty-Dumpty being, of course, James himself; the wall the throne, and the king, whose men and horses are in vain brought into requisition, Louis XIV. of France. It was originally written in French; and later the quatrain had the honor of being turned into Latin elegiac verse by Dr. Henry Drury.

Fruit Jars.
 The German custom of some one going, in a state of nudity, at midnight on Christmas-eve, to bind the fruit trees with ropes of straw, or the frugal housewives shaking the crumbs from the table cloth around their roots in order that they become more fruitful, clearly points to the mysterious influence attributed by the ancient Germans to the time of the Twelve Nights. In the Tyrol the fruit trees for a similar reason, are soundly beaten.

A Stone Marvel.
 There is, on a mantel in one of the residences of a Georgia family, a piece of stone which bears a striking resemblance to an ancient castle, the turrets, massive doors and strong foundations being distinctly marked. The peculiar feature about the little oddity is that to hold it under a gas-light gives the stone the appearance of the building, with many lights reflected from the windows.

Right Arm Paralyzed! Saved from St. Vitus Dance.

"Our daughter, Blanche, now fifteen years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. We feared St. Vitus dance, and tried the best physicians, with no benefit. She has taken three bottles of Dr. Miles' Nerveine and has gained 31 pounds. Her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid."
