

Beefmaking in Illinois.
 Professor Morrow gives an account of beefmaking in Illinois that illustrates the chances that are being forced on agriculture. Rural New Yorker, reviewing this account, makes these comments: "By natural and legitimate means the time came when other states used the time made beef cheaper than it could be made on Illinois farms. Then Illinois farmers found the price of cattle less than the cost of growing them, they gave up the business or changed their methods. Years ago they went through much the same thing. The result was mixed agriculture. The acres that formerly produced one cow and her steer calf were made to produce a greater value in other products. This change is breaking up the great farms which 15 years ago seemed to threaten the social and business life of the western farmer. Like those that have gone before it, this change offers better opportunities for business farmers, because it brings the market for a great variety of products nearer the farm."

Suicidal Impulse.
 Hospital: Is the impulse to suicide hereditary? Not directly. It depends on family, on race, on the strain of that competition which marks our advanced civilization. Of these the first two are ineradicable, although doubtless capable of being modified in the course of generations through judicious marriage. The third is for the mass of men unattainable; yet individuals who know that they have an hereditary taint might, of their own free will, withdraw from those occupations which arouse the nervous system to abnormal excitement, and even at the expense of some of the world's goods, and wholesome lives, which would give the murderous instinct less chance to prosper them. Physical weakness, especially that resulting from overstrain, strays and weakens the control over the mental law. 'Tis the old story: the mens sana cannot permanently well except in the corpus sanum.

A Welcome Usher of '95.
 The beginning of the new year will have a welcome user in the shape of a fresh Almanac, descriptive of the origin, nature and uses of the annual tonic and alterative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Combined with the descriptive matter will be found calendar and astronomical information absolutely reliable for correctness. Statistics, illustrations, verses carefully selected, and other mental food highly profitable and entertaining. On this pamphlet, published and printed annually by The Hostetter Company of Pittsburg, 60 hands are employed in the mechanical department alone. Eleven months are devoted to its preparation. It is procurable free of druggists and country dealers everywhere, and is printed in English, German, French, Spanish, Welsh, Norwegian, Holland and Swedish and Bohemian.

Pie for Milly.
 At one of the quiet summer hotels in the Adirondack region a husband and wife attracted by their pleasant manner the liking of the waiter detailed at the table. Madam, like a true American, called for a little more of some particularly nice pie, whereupon her husband rebuked her jocosely in his rare for her health. "No, no, Milly," he said, "you have had quite enough pie for your good." "Never you mind him, Milly," said Elmathan, the waiter, "send sympathy, you kin hev all the pie ther is. Here's a hull one."

Butter and Cheese Making Machinery.
 Chicago contains the largest manufacturing in the world for the production of butter and cheese making machinery. The firm is known as the Davis & Rankin Building and Manufacturing Company at 240 to 254 Lake street. In the several departments of its factory are turned out everything required in the production of butter and cheese. The farmer can find here, at insignificant cost, useful devices for converting his milk into marketable form, and the creamery large enough to take care of its entire product is accommodated with equal facility.

It often happens that people make mistakes on purpose.

In Our Great Grandfather's Time,
 big bulky pills were in general use. Like the "blunderbuss" of that decade they were big and clumsy, but ineffective. In this century of enlightenment, we have Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which cure all liver, stomach and bowel derangements in the most effective way.

Assist Nature cleansing laxative, thereby removing of bowels, toning up the stomach and liver and quickening its tardy action, and you thereby remove the cause of a multitude of distressing diseases, such as biliousness, indigestion, or dyspepsia, hoarseness, constipation, piles, fistulas and maladies too numerous to mention.

That, of all known agents to accomplish this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are unequalled, is proven by the fact that once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to purgative, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity, and with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and indigestion.

A free sample of the "Pellets," (4 to 7 doses) on trial, is mailed to any address, post-paid, on receipt of name and address on postal card.

The First Foot.
BONNIE LASSIE at the inglets—
 The old year is almost dead;
 Nimbly, as by the blaze she knits,
 Her needles throw off the thread.
 The night is cold and the sky is dark,
 And the wind is waivering sore;
 But 'tis New Year's and the maid must mark
 The first foot to cross the door.
 "Rest, Jeanie, for the hour is late;
 How the wind doth moan and sigh!"
 "Mother come knit beside me and wait
 Till we see the Old Year die.
 My lover true will then come to me,
 My love from the Solway shore;
 This word he has sent, that his own shall be
 The first foot to cross my door."
 "True, Jeanie, the auld wives say that ill
 Or good, for the coming year,
 Will follow the one who o'er the mill
 First steps. But the night is drear—
 He can never brave this wind and rain.
 So rest, now, and rise before
 The day well dawn. When you listen again
 Your first foot may cross the door."
 "Knit with me," still the maiden said—
 Together they watch and wait;
 The cuckoo clock sounds twelve o'erhead,
 And her lover is at the gate.
 "Ah, now," cried Jean, "there's no ill to fear,
 But good luck is for us in store,
 Since my lover has braved the night so drear,
 The first to cross our door."

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS.
A Resolve to Do Better Is a Step in the Right Direction.
 It is true, very possibly, that only one in a million of these resolutions ever amounts to anything permanently. A month, a week, a day, may see the end of them, and the old sin or delinquency or habit may be in the ascendant again, sometimes, alas! re-enforced and stronger than before, strong almost to the point of indifference as to its destruction on the part of him "breaking his oath and resolution like a twist of rotten silk."
 What is the use? The question rises in the mind of the owner of the broken resolution; it can't be helped; the breaker was made to break; it runs in the blood; he was given the nature that experiences temptation; he was not given the strength to overcome temptation; you can not change the spots in the leopard; that is he, if you want to change him, you want something other than he, you don't want him; ancestry is stronger than a desire to do otherwise; it's of no use. And thus the trick, the custom, the wholly undesirable habit, is left to run its race.
 Yet that is but one possibility, and when this stage of indifference has not been reached how well it is only to have made the resolution, whether one is successful in keeping it or not! Just as hypocrisy is the tribute which vice pays to virtue, so the mere making of the resolution implies the knowledge of wrong, and of a right exceeding wrong, and to make a determination to discard the wrong is already one step toward embracing the right—is, in fact, embracing it—is, while being the resolve, however little way. The resolve is the outcome of the best part of one's nature; the not keeping it is one's weakness only.—Harper's Bazar.

Why Johnny Was Thankful.
 Teacher—Johnny, can you tell me anything you have to be thankful for in the past year?
 Johnny (without hesitation)—Yessur.
 Teacher—Well, Johnny, what is it?
 Johnny—Why, when you broke your arm you couldn't lick us for two months.—Life.

New Year's Day in Far Off Japan.
 Simple and characteristic outdoor decorations make a Japanese city or village beautiful at the New Year season. One of the most common is the straw rope. A rope with many wisps of straw and strips of white paper hanging therefrom, and other objects, such as seaweeds, ferns, a lemon (orange?), a red lobster shell, dried persimmons, charcoal, and dried sardines attached thereto, will be stretched either between the pine trees or above the doorway. Each of the articles just mentioned represents an idea—pine, bamboo, seaweeds and ferns, being evergreens, are emblems of constancy; the straw fringes, according to a legend often related, are supposed to exclude evil agencies; the lobster by its bent form is indicative of old age or long life; the lemon (or orange?) is called daidai, which word may also mean "generation [after] generation;" the dried persimmons are sweets long and well preserved; the sardines, from their always swimming in a swarm, denote the wish for a large family; and the charcoal is "an imperishable substance."—Chicago Tribune.

The Scottish Hogmanay.
 A satisfactory explanation of the term "hogmanay," used by the Scots to designate the last day of the old year, has never yet been given, but there are two suppositions which are quite plausible. One is that the term "hogmanay" is derived from "hogenot" or "hogg night," the Scandinavian name for the night preceding the feast of yule, when animals were sacrificed, the word "hogg" meaning to kill. The other derivation is from the French, "au gue menez," "to the mistletoe go," referring to the Druids' custom on New Year's eve of collecting the mistletoe from the oaks, and after consecrating it distributing it among the people of the Gauls, by whom it was prized because of the many virtues ascribed to it.—Exchange.

Decline of a Pretty Custom.
 The practice of having a ladies' calling day upon the second day of the year is going out of fashion, if indeed it has not already gone. Some years ago the fair sex had literally the right of way in every direction, and it was by tolerance alone that the sterner sex was enabled to travel by car or stage. It is a pity that "ladies' day" has declined, for there was a perfect panorama of beauty to be seen when the fair creatures, cardcases in hand and dressed in their handsomest and most becoming costumes, and generally traveling in groups of two, three and four, abounded everywhere. The air was filled with their pleasant small talk, and they looked very animated and interesting.—Selected.

A Curious Japanese Ceremony.
 It is "after nightfall on the last night of the old year" that a curious ceremony called on horai, or "devil expulsion," is performed. The head of the family with a box of roasted beans goes into every room in the house, and scattering the beans about the room and into every corner cries out: "Faku wa achi, oni wa soto!"—"Happiness within, the devil without."

COULD WE BUT glance the New Year o'er,
 Its hideous depths unveiled;
 Look on the merciless safe in store,
 Whose blessings never fail,
 Could we but see the happiness
 The New Year seeks to give,
 Our daily lives to cheer and bless,
 How gladly would we live.

Life's Mirror.
WEPT BY THE winter's fiercest storm,
 The winter's wind and rain,
 The angry ocean howls with rage
 And shakes his tawny mane,
 And leaps against the beetling rocks
 With energy insane—
 Leaps and falls back on ragged reefs
 That gash him on again
 To burrow in the circling sands
 That his wild course restrain.

The Air We Breathe.
 A new and novel instrument is the konicope, or dust-testing apparatus. It is not a complicated scientific machine, being solely intended for estimating in an easy and simple manner the amount of pollution and number of dust particles in the atmosphere. The action of the instrument is based on certain color phenomena associated with what is called "cloudy condensation of air" and which can be produced by steam jets, high or low temperature of the air, the increased number of dust nuclei, etc. In working the konicope the air is drawn into the apparatus by means of a common air pump, and quickly passes to the test tubes, which are fitted with glass at both ends. When the tube thus charged is held toward the light various colors from pure white to nearly black-blue (according to the purity or impurity of the sample under test) are indicated. The dust particles also form an important factor in these tests, the variation in their number causing the mirror to throw all the colors of the rainbow.

Yawning as a Remedy.
 Yawning, though contrary to the canons of good society, is undoubtedly very beneficial to the individual. Muscles are brought into play during a good yawn which otherwise never obtain any exercise at all, and its value as a sort of natural massage is considerable. The muscles which move the lower jaw and the breathing muscles of the chest are the first ones used during the process of yawning, then the tongue is rounded and arched, the palate tightly stretched, and the uvula raised. The eyes generally close tightly toward the termination of the yawn, the ears are raised slightly and the nostrils dilated. The crack some times heard in the ear proves that the aural membrane are also stretched and exercised, something impossible by any process but a yawn. It has recently been recommended by some doctors that sufferers from nasal catarrh should make a practice of yawning six or seven times a day, and good results will follow. It is also considered valuable in inflammation of the palate, sore throat and earache.

Better Every Year.
 Time was when the "glorious climate of California" did not attract tourists. But year after year the tide of travelers is stronger and stronger every fall and winter toward this favored region. There is no climate like it on this continent for a winter resort, and the usual fine service on the Union Pacific System has this season been brought to a degree of perfection which leaves nothing to be desired.

Providing for the Unemployed.
 The people of Cincinnati proposed to raise $30,000, to be used buying several hills near that city, and digging them away, expecting to be reimbursed by the sale of the stone, gravel and sand they contain. Possibly it may be a success, but the unemployed for whom the hope to provide labor by this scheme would not go out to dig gravel for a farmer at any fair wages. If they do it for a committee of the citizens, but a small part of them would stick to it a week before they would give up, if made to fairly earn their wages. Nor would many of them accept such work if offered to them. They would have to go around the corner to see a man about a job they had the promise of, and they would not get back until the agent who wanted them was far away. With the unemployed in some of our cities clamoring for labor, "bread or blood," a farmer near by cannot hire men to harvest his wheat crop unless at prices in excess of the value of the crop.

Albino Animals in Japan.
 Albino animals are regarded by the Japanese in a superstitious light. The appearance of one is considered a good omen for the reigning Mikado, and occasionally signals a reign. For example, one reign is called "the period of the white pheasant," another "the period of the white phoenix." A white fox is often mentioned in their fables, and a white serpent appears in their pictures of the goddess of fortune. Among the Japanese as among the ancient Greeks, white horses were dedicated to the gods, and are still attached to the larger temples of the country. The milk and butter of white cows were formerly prized a medicine.

No Substitutes

For Royal Baking Powder. The "Royal" is shown by all tests, official, scientific, and practical, stronger, purer, and better in every way than all other Baking Powders. Its superiority is privately acknowledged by other manufacturers, and well known by all dealers.

If some grocers try to sell another baking powder in place of the "Royal," it is because of the greater profit. This of itself is good evidence of the superiority of the "Royal." To give greater profit the other must be a lower cost powder, and to cost less it must be made with cheaper and inferior materials, and thus, though selling for the same, give less value to the consumer.

LOOK with suspicion upon every attempt to palm off upon you any baking powder in place of the "Royal." There is no substitute for the "Royal."

Rugs vs. Carpets.
 One of the best sanitary reasons for using rugs instead of carpets fastened to the floor is that the dust loosened in cleansing them is gotten rid of outside our houses instead of in. But it should be borne in mind that in crowded city neighborhoods this dust on one side and the other becomes a nuisance, perhaps a danger, in the season of open windows, and one longs for an invention whereby each family can consume its own dust, similar to that used for the disposal of smoke. In getting rid of the dust of our carpets inside an English scientific writer reminds us that the dry sweeping only stirs up the dust to resettle again and be held more firmly by the roughest surfaces. The wet tea leaves, damp sawdust, coarse salt or moistened sand cause the dust dislodged by the broom to cling to their moisture, but the matter used must not be too wet, nor of a nature that will stain the carpet, so finely grained as to sink into the fabric, nor so clinging as to resist easy removal by the broom.

Bullet Proof Shields.
 Hardware: The invention of bullet proof shields is enlarging, and the patent office will soon, if it goes on at the present rate, be compelled to establish a special sub-department for the exposition of devices in this direction. A point is laid down by a New York engineer, which is that the outer surface of such material should be of a soft yielding material. This breaks the blow, and then the resisting material is apt to ward off effectually the force of the projectile. If the outer surface is hard and unyielding, the blow is sometimes so great as to overpower the recipient of the shot, and instances are on record that men on the battlefield have actually been killed by this shock. The whole subject is an intricate one and the progress made in it is not such as to deter the inventor from thinking out new devices.
