ATTAN TOWNSHIP.

"What's the matter, Gerald?" exclaimed his horrified wife.
"The matter?" shouted the young doctor, turning a handspring on the parlor carpet, dancing a jig, throwing his hat violently against the ceiling, and stamping on it as it came down.

"The matter?" he repeated, catching her round the waist and whirling her UPERVISORS.

Wages in Southern Florida.

Remarkable stories are current of wages in Southern Florida, and it is true that a skilled orange packer, boy or man, can earn $1.50 a day, but the employment is not permanent. It is true, too, that $150 an acre has been made in a single winter from toma-toes, but here again a little capital and considerable knowledge are required. It is unsafe to seek employment in Southern Florida without some sort of guarantee.

Musical South America.

Handel's "Messiah" was recently performed at Buenos Ayres, for the first time in South America, with a chorus of 300 and an orchestra of fifty performers. Special trains were the house was sold out an hour run, and a half after the opening of the box office and the proceeds were $7,500.

satisfied.

The form of the king shook slightly as he received the courier in the anti-chamber. "And what says she?" he demanded, anxiously. The cour-ier prostrated himself. "She says, your majesty, that she can cook, but she's no laundress." The cloud on the royal brow lifted as he waved his hand to the secretary. "Engage her," he commanded, "and I'll have my collars and cuffs sent out."

"Does Slopeigh get angry when you call on him with that bill?" asked the merchant of his collector. "No, indeed," was the disconsolate reply. "He's as polite and crafty as he can be. has taken to me, and he's afraid that if he pays me I'll stop coming to see him.'

QUICK RESCUE.

Saving a Man Overboard in Seven

The story of the prompt rescue of "man overboard" at sea, in which a prominent seafaring man of Philadelphia figured, is told by a correspondent as follows: Nearly a quarter of a century ago, the steamship Yazoo, under the command of Captain L. D.
Barrett, of Philadelphia, was slowly feeling her way down the harbor of Havana. Lighters were towing alongside, and sailors and stevedores and lightermen were hustling to get the last package on board and still get past the 'Morro' before sundown. The quartermaster was in the act of striking eight bells when a shrill shrick from aloft, followed by a bounding body and a splash in the bounding body and a splash in the sea, gave notice of a man overboard. The captain promptly signaled the engineer to reverse the engines. A big white life buoy, always ready, was well thrown by the long Purser Metcalfe, and a rush was made for the purser's gig. which was still hanging by her falls, the gripes not having been secured. As the drop of the ing been secured. As the drop of the boat from her falls was heard, a shrill whistle came over the waters, and the men buckled to their oars, shouting encouragingly to the swim-mer. By this time the powerful en-gines had overcome the headway and the ship was backing as fast as the boat pulled, so that when the man and buoy were picked up they were almost alongside, and the boat and crew were lifted to the rail by the "Oh! I am all broke to pieces," were the first words from the sea-soaked man. "Well, we've got the pieces, go ahead with the ship," was the captain's answer. "Seven minutes, sir," was reported by the quartermaster. "Seven minutes, sir," from the engine room, and the crew went back to their duty after seven minutes of the sharpest work ever done under the circumstances.

HIS NAME IS "O."

Another Frenchman's Surname Is "E. F. G.," Nothing More.

A young soldier in the French army, who lately volunteered in the service, rejoices in the distinction of having what would appear to be one of the oddest names on record. The unlucky lad is named Adolph Maximilien E. F. G., these three letters of the alphabet being all he can boast of as a surname.

The recruiting sergeant severely reprimanded the young volunteer for disrespectful joking when he spelled out his abbreviated patronymic, and was only convinced that the appellation was bona fide when the lad showed him his papers.

It seems, however, that there are queerer names than E. F. G. For instance, a wine merchant living in the suburbs of Paris is called Monsieur O.

The name, by the way, is met with in Normandy, where a family was once known who bore the name d'O, with the title of marquis. A member of the family, Francis d'O, was super intendent of finance under Henry III of France.

One-letter patronymics, however, are not so uncommon as might be supposed. There are said to be five per sons in Paris whose names are of this abbreviated type.

SHE WOULD NOT TALK.

After Eighteen Months the Lawyers to Give Mrs. Meyer Up.

Mrs. Henry C. F. Meyer, who was discharged from the tombs in New York recently, is a living contradiction of the theory that "women will talk." She would not talk. Able lawyers and sharp men whose business in life is to trip up the guilty or the innocent with equal facility, have tried to get her to make disclosures with equally discouraging results. Her husband is in Sing Sing on a life sentence for poison-ing Ludwig Brandt, and she has spent eighteen months in jail in the hope that evidence could be procured to prove her an accessory to the crime, but through it all Mrs. Meyer has been as stolid and as impassive as if she had never heard of the case. She has not even defended herself. During her imprisonment her 4-year-old boy was brought to see her at regular intervals. She was ever ready to talk about him and expatiate on his beauty and his wonderful knowledge of French, but on anything else evenly remotely connected with her husband's imprisonment and her own custody or the causes which led up to them she was as stoical as a Japanese idol.

A Hint Not Well Taken,

A precocious and talkative boy ir Tioga, who always places himself in: evidence, no matter in whose company, received a motto from his father, which bore the legend:"Little children should be seen and notheard." The boy was not particularly pleased with the gift, but finally consented to have it hung on the wall of his room. Recently his father had occasion to visit the room and the motto was missing. The youngster was carefully interrogated, and with an air of conscious well doing, he answered: "I gave it to the deaf and. dumb children in the asylum at Mount Airy."

Thirty-Six Tons of Caterpillars. Thirty-six tons of caterpillars and a targe number of cocoons were destroyed in the effort to drive the pestfrom the young plantations of trees on Heng Kong island. They appeared on the pine trees with which. the government is strying to re-forest-the island, and lasted for two months. Stations were established where the caterpillars were received and paid for by weight. This method seems to have been successful. It is estimated. that 35,000,000 insects were killed.

HAS A HARD HEAD

The Giraffe's Dome of Thought Is Like a Sledge Hammer. "Speaking of knockers," said Ed Coyne, who for the last ten years has been keeper of Daisy, the giant giraffe at the Cincinnati zoo, "do you know that the giraffe is the original and natural knocker? Look at that long, slender neck, and the lumpy, bony head at the end of it. It reminds you of a sledge-hammer, and that is what it is in fact. When Daisy gets excited she begins knocking; that is, she throws her head from side to side, using it like a hammer and dealing fearful blows with certain aim. If any other person beside myself should enter her stall he would get a blow from her head that would knock him senseless, and then she would trample and kick him to death. The animal has but a small brain and can not be reasoned with. The only way to get along with her is to be quiet and not get her excited. I can do about as I please with her. I enter the stall at all times, feed her, and brush her off every day. She is a clean beast, and gives but little trouble. A new keeper would have a hard time with her, as she knows me and will not let a stranger do anything for her."

The observant beast was standing at the other end of the stall, looking out of the window at a man who was walking on the hotel porch, but on hearing her name called out, she came over and stuck her head out of the wire lattice and looked at the keeper with a bright look in her face. Daisy is the largest giraffe in captivity. She and her departed partner were bought by the zoo fourteen years ago. There was one offspring, but it died a few days after birth.

IT WAS AN AWFUL SHOCK. Not so Much the Coincidence as the Actual Return of the Fifteen Dollars. "Here is one of the odd coincidences of this life," said Williams. "Some time ago an acquaintance came to me and told me he was in great need of $15, and at considerable trouble to myself I let him have it. He promised to return it in a few days.

"When three weeks had elapsed I mentioned the matter to him casually and he was profusely apologetic—would send it to me the following day sure. It didn't come, though, nor did I get any word from him. About two weeks after I met him in Broadway. He declared it was a shame I hadn't got my money and vowed he wouldn't let another day pass without paying

It went along, then, for a week or ten days, and as my expenses were very heavy, I was considerably embarrassed and needed the money badly. One night, when I was feeling particularly discouraged, I sat down and wrote him a note. I said: 'My dear sir—About six weeks ago I loaned you $15. Lest the paying of it should occasion you any inconvenience allow me to hereby make you a present of the money.'
"That will bring it if anything will, thought I. Judge my surprise when by the next morning's mail I received a letter from the man inclosing the $15. By the same mail exactly he must have received mine making him a present of it, and by the dates both letters were evidently written at about the same hour."

A Case of Spontaneous Ignition.

The fact is well known that petro leum spirit, or benzine, is largely used in the silk and wool industries and in chemical cleaning works as a solvent for greasy impurities. It is extremely volatile and inflammable, and has often been suspected of being the cause of those mysterious fires which occasionally break out in works and factories where it is much used. One who has studied this phenomenon declares that the ignition of this spirit is spontaneous, and is caused by electrical excitation—that is, in certain states of the atmosphere. particularly when it is cold and dry, the spirit becomes excited and exhibits sparks and flashes of light, to the accompaniment of crackling sounds, and the ignition of the spirit may take place at any moment.

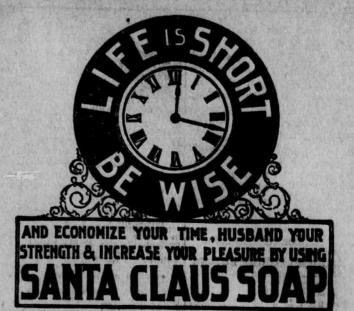

He Loved Dogs. Monsieur X called the other day at a house where the love of dogs was carried almost to a mania. He was immediately surrounded by half a dozen of these animals, whose caresses, too demonstrative altogether, he repelled vigorously. "Ah, monsieur," said the lady of the mansion, in a tone of displeasure, "one can see very well that you don't love dogs." "Not love dogs indeed!" he returned, indignantly. "Why, I ate more than twenty dogs during the slege of
