Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "and have since been free from all pain." He now recommends it to persons similarly afflicted. For sale by

If you are married, don't fancy that it is your expensive family that is keeping you down.

P. C. CORRIGAN, Druggist.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of the diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Cyrus Edson. "It is such a simple thnig and so common that very few people, unless it was a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. There are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglet of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one, get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by P. C. CORRRIGAN, Druggist.

Optimistic View.

Many of the Florida orange groves serious damage from the escaped freeze and the trees that were killed back will soon be in bearing again, as the roots are uninjured. The talk of overproduction of oranges in Florida is nonsense. The only difficulty is the cost of transportation to the millions of consumers. Italy exports 2,500,000,000 oranges annually and Florida but 50,000,000. The America: orange industry is just beginning.

Characteristic.

The late George M. Stearns, during a recent Vermont state campaign, received this telegram from a prominent Democrat in Montpelier: "Will you address the Democracy of Vermont at this place?" His characteristic reply was: "To save car-fare, send the Democracy of Vermont to my backyard, and I'll address them there."

THE DREAM OF CHEMISTRY.

pes in Time to Produce Palatable Beef Steaks Out of the Elements. The electrician has one dream and the social philosopher has another. But the chemist has also a vision of the alchemist of the dark ages. This is how he would solve the problems of comfort and happiness which have been put to the human race:

"The chemist hopes for a synthetic beefsteak, for a chemical loaf, for a cup of coffee made, like his soda-water extracts, out of inorganic matter. He wants to see the day when a synthe-tic climate shall hold the string to the unruly bags of Aeolus."

"In that day the food and raiment of mankind will be produced in the crucibles of the chemist. Once more verdure will clothe the fields now defaced by human toil, and the shaggy woods will spring anew on the de-spoiled slopes of the hills. There will be no tilling or harvest, no slaughtering of tame beasts. Out of the original elements chemistry will compound chops and cutlets, knead the dough, and brew ale. "The battle has already been partly won in the case of medicines and drugs. The wine at the table d'hote never saw the vineyard. The 'prize fruit flowers' of the drug store are innocent of the orchard and garden. Synthetic chemistry is yet young. It has made great advances in the production of glycerine and sugar. It has 4,000 devotees in this country who hope to make the dream a reality."

VICTIM OF LACING. Another Instance of Its Pernicious Re sults.

The latest victim of tight lacing is the unfortunate actress who died in the midst of the performance at the Elephant and Castle theater, London. She seems to have been gripped, as in a vice, by the stays of her stage costume, and this, aggravating a natural weakness of the heart, brought on her death. She had just finished a song and danced off to the wings, when she collapsed, with all the signs of fatal illness. Her husband, who was in the house, was called to her side, and her agonized cry for him to unlace her dress seems to have been the last that left her lips. She was dead in her dressing room before the doctor came. The circumstances were such as to constitute every possible aggravation of her danger. Her lacing had paralyzed every vital function at a moment when it needed most freedom and play. A dance in loose costume would have been trying enough, amid all the excitement of a first night. An added song, and both in a garment that fitted like the torture boots of the Middle Ages, proved too much for the patience of outraged nature. "Fairies, beware," is not the only moral of this poor creature's fate. Yet she has probably died in vain for any purpose of salutary warning to her sisters, whether behind the curtain or before.

A BUMP OF LOCALITY.

The Lansing Small Boy Had a Well-Developed Une. A small boy from Lansing was in Detroit not long ago with his mother for the first time. It was also her first visit to the city, and she was almost as much interested in the A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well-known druggist of Des Moines. looking out of the window with un abated delight.

"Say, mamma," he said, after some time, "if I should go down the street seven squares, and up the next one three squares and out the next one six squares, then go shead five squares, where would I be?"

"Really, Frank," she replied, "it's more than I can tell you. You'd better ask your father." "I don't have to," said the boy, proudly. "I know."

"Oh, I guess you don't," she smiled."

"Oh are the persisted." She was a little curious to learn if the boy had picked up any idea of the city, and so she humored him.

"Where would you be?" she in-"I'd be lost," and she believed him thoroughly.

Queer Custom at Southampton. Of the many quaint and picturesque survivals of old English customs sureone of the oldest and most delightfully suggestive is the engrossment and presentation on the 9th day of November every year, at Southampton, of gravely worded certificates vouching for the fact that no carracks of Genoa or galleys of Venice have arrived at the port. Poetry is not to be looked for in official documents, but if this voucher be read between the lines, is it not veritably a threecenturied sea song of the freshest and breeziest, full of brilliant color and strange circumstances of old world shipping?
