

THE DECAYED MUSIC TEACHER.

She Has the Bread Taken Out of Her Mouth.

The ordinary parent or guardian of a girl with a "turn for music" will probably make his choice of a teacher from those to whom he listens with the greatest pleasure...

UNIVERSITY SETTLEMENTS.

Work Comes Nearer than Anything Else to Solving the Problem.

In a recent sermon Dr. Parkhurst proposed that rich women should have the names of poor women on their calling lists, and should formulate a system by which they could convey to their less fortunate sisters the methods that hold in every well-regulated home...

EVOLUTION EVEN HERE.

The Dog's Bark Has Become More Expressive as His Culture Advances.

The most curious imitation which we find in dogs is as to the measure of expression to which they have attained. Among the savage forefathers of all modern dogs the characteristic of all their utterance was, to a great extent, involuntary...

Results Not Encouraging.

In 1830 a sailing car was tried on the South Carolina railroad. Its trial trip was made with fifteen gentlemen on board. When going at the rate of twelve miles an hour the mast went overboard with several of the crew, and the result was general discouragement.

ADVENTURES OF A BELL.

In a Church-Steeple, Buried in River. Now in Mormondom.

There is a bell now hanging over a private schoolhouse of a Mormon prophet in Salt Lake City which has a curious and somewhat amusing history. It was the first church bell that ever rang out over the plains of Iowa...

TORTURED BY THE SIOUX.

A Scout Tells How He Was Initiated Into Sitting Bull's Tribe.

Frank Ground, the Indian scout, who is now living in St. Joseph, Mo., has recovered from the surgical operation in which an arrow head was removed from his groin after having been imbedded there for nearly a dozen years. He was captured, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, by Sitting Bull and a small band of followers when 19 years old, and remained with the Indians during the next six years...

Secrets of Their Lives.

Every man's life, no matter how humble, would furnish an interesting book if cleverly written. You can't always tell by a glance at a man what his past has been. There is a humble carpenter in town who was the prize orator at an eastern college, says the Atchison Globe. Not far from the home of the writer of this there lives an ugly, decrepit old woman who was considered in her youth the handsomest girl in Kentucky. Poems were written about her, men went crazy over her and duels were fought by jealous admirers...

Rosebush Over a Thousand Years Old.

The famous rose bush of Hildesheim, on the River Innerste in Germany, is said to be over 1,000 years of age. The great King Charles is said to have planted this rose bush in the year 800 A. D. About 100 years ago this rose bush died down to the ground, but it has since grown from the same root to a height of thirty feet.

MONTE CARLO'S PATRONS.

The Ladies Are the Most Profitable Customers at Gaming.

The English, the Americans and the French are probably the most remunerative patrons of Monte Carlo, and it is to Switzerland and not to the frontier of Italy that the vast majority of pleasure-seekers repair in summer, says the London Telegraph. Again, at the very period when the Casino people wish to allure English visitors to the Riviera the London season is at its height and the parliamentary session has as yet shown no sign of waning. The Atlantic steamships are bringing to Europe every week shoals of American tourists, but our transatlantic visitors usually pass the summer in London or Paris, or at English or French watering places, and await cooler weather before they journey down south. Another suggestion made to the perplexed administration is that a club for the use of gentlemen visitors should be established in connection with the Casino, it being proposed to utilize for the purpose the premises of the Hotel Monte Carlo, but it is difficult to see that the financial property of the Casino company would be increased by supplementing the existing tripot with a club. Visitors who really belong to cosmopolitan clubland can easily become members of the Cercle de la Mediterranee at Nice, and after all, it is not the serious players, the scientific operators at rouge et noir, who despise the merry but frivolous game of roulette, that are the most lucrative customers at the Casino. At trente-et-quarante it is really possible to win very large sums of money, not, indeed, to break the bank—since Napoleon's dictum of the big battalions eventually winning still holds and always will hold good—but enough to cause the administration to close a particular table for a few hours. At roulette, however, for the winner of any considerable amount there are possibly 100 who, sooner or later, will be utterly and hopelessly decays, or "cleaned out." Moreover, in modern times it has been the lady punters who, in the aggregate, bring the greatest amount of grist to the mill of the Casino company. It is not that the ladies often go to the maximum of stakes to be realized—they are in general too timorous for that—but they play recklessly and they continue to play until they have lost their last 5-franc piece on the tapis vert, and a club from which ladies were excluded would be bereft of the contributions of the sex who are, as gamblers, not less adventurous and perhaps a little more incorrigible than men.

BOGUS BEER AND SMOKE.

A Worldly Criticism of Two Great Reformatory Agencies of the Age.

It is said that the non-alcoholic imitation of beer which Bishop Fallows is selling in his Chicago church saloon looks like beer, tastes like beer, foams like beer, and has so many of the other qualities of beer that it is calculated to deceive Hans Breitman himself. This being the case, is it moral? When Mulberry Sellers strove to produce the sensation of warmth and cheerfulness by putting a lighted candle in the stove, was he truthful and heroic or mendacious and cowardly? The question is not a light one. It goes deep. In addition to Bishop Fallows' imitation beer we have thrust upon us an alleged agency of reform a patent pipe which can be loaded with tobacco and smoked in the ordinary way, except that the smoker, who seems to be drawing deep draughts of consolation and philosophy from it, is not getting a single whiff of the reality. He is merely deceiving himself with a delusive dream of comfort. Is this reform? If it is there is reason for believing that hades will be the most thoroughly reformed place in the universe, for there, according to the version of a sacred poet whose scriptures have the authority of venerable antiquity, men and shadows will indulge the shadows of their unmastered habits, drinking church reform beer and smoking patent reform pipes forever and ever without the possibility either of satisfaction or satiety. And after having tried this for only a short time one of the greatest dignitaries of the place declared that he would rather be a tramp or a Chicago broker on earth than the most respected and honored potentate in all sheek. The mocking reality of such pipe-becoming imitations of alluring vice as the patent pipe has something infernal about it. Homer was not mistaken on that point. There can be no virtue in pretending to be delightfully vicious. The way to reform is to reform. There is no other way.

A PECULIAR RUNAWAY.

Tried to Swim the Monongahela Hitched to a Sleigh.

It was the experience of only a horse but it was such as to raise the hair of all who witnessed it, says the McKeesport Times. The animal belonged to Jacob Kell of Market street and, after running off and swimming half way across the river, it was returned to its owner uninjured. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Kell left his home in this city in a sleigh and went to the residence of John Sinn in Lincoln township. He tied his horse in a large coal shed near the house. Shortly afterward Mr. Sinn's hired man drove up with a load of coal and, not knowing of the presence of the animal on the inside, commenced pitching the coal through a window in the shed. Mr. Kell's horse frightened, broke loose and started for home. Up hill and down hill it dashed at a reckless pace, frightening numerous pedestrians along the way. The horse finally reached the Monongahela river and, nothing daunted, started in to swim to the other side, dragging the sleigh with it. The river was full of ice, but the animal swam out into the current and had succeeded in getting about half way across, when it became chilled by the icy water and turned back. It reached the shore in safety and was caught and returned to its owner. A peculiar feature of the runaway was that the sleigh and harness were not damaged to any great extent and the horse escaped injury, although exhausted by its wild and furious chase.

One Hundred Years of Lawsuits.

The first real estate entry of record in Kanawha county, West Virginia, was made Jan. 2, 1795, and is of 150,000 acres of land to Phineas Taylor of Waterbury Conn., who was the grandfather of Phineas T. Barnum, the great showman. The property has been in litigation almost ever since.

Cost the Lives of Nearly Twenty Thousand and Young Swans Every Year.

A new count in the indictment against women in the matter of her craving for plumage ornamentation is found in the way in which it is said the needs of her dressing table are supplied.

An English journal warns the London ladies that their powder puffs, those airy necessities of the toilet, are heavy with the blood of slaughtered innocents.

It is stated that as many as 20,000 young swans—cygnets, as they are called—are killed every year to supply the dainty puff, to say nothing of innumerable young birds of the elder duck and wild goose variety. The bulk of these are imported—the swan and geese from the islands of the Baltic and from Norway and Sweden, and the eiders from the northern and more icebound seas.

One cygnet will make nearly a dozen average-sized "puffs," which show how many women must be, to a greater or less extent, addicted to the use of powder.

The puff trade is highly profitable, as may be judged from the fact that the down of a cygnet costs a little more than twenty five cents, the poor creature often being plucked alive so that it may bear another crop, while the puffs are sold at from seventy-five cents upward, nicely mounted in bone and blue or pink satin, which amounts to comparatively nothing.

The ladies of Paris and Vienna are the largest consumers of puffs, owing chiefly to their fastidiousness in casting aside puff as soon as they lose their pristine delicacy.

What Is Nerve?

"I used to think," said Mr. Gratebar, "when I read of generals calmly dictating dispatches amid the carnage and uproar of battle, what nerve! But now as I try to write a letter here at home with the two older children in the parlor playing the piano and singing with the vigor and voice of youth, the two younger children in the dining-room learning their lesson for the morrow: 'One times one is one; two times two is two; three times three is three,' and 'Did the cat catch the rat?' No, the cat did not catch the rat; why did not the cat catch the rat?' with a carpet sweeper obligate by Mrs. Gratebar, and an occasional variation by the two younger children racing through the hall, coupled with a grand instrumental vocal staccato in the parlor, why I say to myself, 'No, no; the true test of nerve comes not in the stormier scenes of life, but amid the delightful repose of home.'"

Imperial Gifts.

Catalani, like most prima donnas, had a great weakness for showing off her jewelry. "You see dis brooch?" she would say; "de emperer of Austria gave me dis. You see dese earrings? De emperer of Russia gave me dese. You see dis ring? De Emperor Napoleon gave me dis," and so on. Braham, the tenor, in imitation of his umbrella, "You see dis? De emperor of China gave me dis." Then, pointing to his teeth, "de emperor of Tuscany gave me dese."

Maintained by Stamps.

At least one collection of postage stamps has found a practical result. There is a Christian village on the bank of the Congo, in South Africa, which was inaugurated and has been maintained by stamp money. Over 40,000,000 used stamps were collected in Brussels, from the sales of which the money needed was obtained. The Congo state gave the land.

The Razor-Back.

A Nebraska farmer who entered some fine Berkshire hogs at an agricultural fair in a primitive corner of Alabama not long ago was surprised to find all the prizes awarded to native razor-backs. He asked for an explanation and was informed that nobody but the owner can ever catch a razor-back.
