Republican National Convention Will Bring a Fight.

Washington, June 8 .- At the Repub lican national convention in Minneapolis in 1892 a resolution was adopted instructing the executive committee to reduce, if in their judgment proper, the representation from the South in the national convention of 1896. The South is now entitled to 204 votes out of a total of 906, and the northern and east-ern Republicans want the southern influence weakened, as that section does nothing toward the election of a Republican president. Senator Elkins of West Virginia proposes to prevent if possible the reduction of southern representation, and will call to his assistance Richard C. Kerens of Missouri, who is a member of the executive committee. The members of the committee from the southern states will be a unit in opposition to the proposed change, and Mr. Kerens is expected to control the members from the silver states of the West and thus defeat the resolution.

CONDITION OF KANSAS WHEAT

Southern and Western Portions of the State Badly Damaged. Wichita, Kan., June 8.-Conservative estimates of the probable wheat crop in ley County, one-fourth crop; Sedgewick County, one-half crop; Sumner County, one-fourth crop; Reno County, not to exceed one-fourth of a crop. In the territory visited by the recent heavy rains the wheat is filling out much better than was anticipated. SHOCKING STORY.

SERIOUS CHARGES AGAINST PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP CO.

San Francisco, Cal., June 10.-Gustav Rowan, one of the survivors of the Colima, has sent a communication to a local paper in which he says:

"I want to make a statement. Some of the survivors will not dare to tell the truth as they have been promised money to keep still. The Colima was lost because she was badly handled by officers without capacity and by bad men when the gale struck us. When I that the ship was going to sink I went after the life preservers and commenced to give them out to the passengers. The steward told me to let them alone and ordered me forward. I was saved because I got a life preserver and if the others had been allowed to get them; too, many would have been saved with me.

"The passengers were kept penned up until the last moment and then made to go down in the ocean like a pack of If some of the passengers had killed the steward who kept them from getting safety it would have been to the others. In spite of what he told me I kept on giving out life preservers and by this saved some of the from death.

FATAL FLOOD IN HUNGARY.

Is Feared the Town of Koberdsdorf Swept Away.

London, June 10 .- A dispatch to the Standard from Vienna gives additional particulars of the flooding of Koberdsdorf, the Hungarian summer resort. So sudden was the rise of the freshet that it was not realized until the bodies of the dead peasantry, pieces of buildings and furniture from the cottages came floating into the lower part of the town.

One of the remarkable incidents of the flood was related by some of the persons who escaped to the mountains. It was the story of the manner in which a cradle containing a sleeping child was forced down the gorges by the rushing waters. The child was rescued with difficulty by those in the lower part of the village. Owing to the damage to the wires, it is impossible to ascertain the exact loss of life, but it is feared that the whole town has been destroyed. It is, however, known that twelve bodies of the inhabitants of this one village have been recovered.

Chief Justice Fuller Holds That It

Went Into Effect on Aug. 28. Washington, June 10 .- Chief Justice Fuller's opinion in the Eurr and Hardwick case, involving the date when the present tariff law went into effect, which was announced on Monday last. but not read, was made public to-day. Discussing the contention that the law should have taken effect on August 1 instead of on August 28, 1894, the Chief Justice says:

"Upon the threshold we are met with the fact that the act of 1890 was not repealed in terms until August 28, 1894, and that the repealing section of the latter act kept in force every right and liability of the government, or of every person, which has been incurred or ac crued prior to the passage thereof and thereby every right or liability was excepted out of the effect sought to be given to the first section. The right of the government to duties under the tariff law which existed between August 1 and August 28 was a right accruing prior to the passage of the act of 1894, and the obligation of the importers between August 1 and August 28 to pay the duties on their goods on the existing tariff law was a liability under that law arising prior to the passage of the law of 1894; and if congress intended that section A should revert back to August 1, still the intention is quite as apparent that the act of 1890 should remain in full force and effect until the passage of the new act on August 28 and that all acts done, rights accrued and liabilities incurred under the earlier act prior to the repeal should be saved from the effect thereof as to all parties interested, the United States included.

"A higher rate was imposed on many articles by the act of 1894 than by the prior act, and a lower rate on others, while some that were free were made dutiable, as, for instance, the article of sugar. Must duties paid between August 1 and August 28 be refunded where the rate was lowered, and assessed where the rate was raised, or a duty imposed where none existed? Clearly Summing up, the Chief Justice says 'As the act of 1890 was not repealed by the act of 1894 until the latter act became a law, when inconsistent laws were declared thereby repealed, we think it cannot be doubted that congress intended the rates of duty prescribed by the act of 1894 to be levied on the first day of August, if the bill should then be a law, and if not, then as soon after that date as it should be come a law. On the first day of August the duties prescribed by the first section of the act of 1894 could not be lawfully levied, and so far as the importa tions in this case are concerned and others similarly situated, the law quired exaction of the duties prescribed by the act of 1890. As to such importations, the first section of the act of 1894 could not be literally carried out unless by holding it to operate as a clause, and this we consider altogether indispensable. The language of section 1 was "that on and after August 1 there be levied," and of the second section, "that on and after August 1" certain enumerated articles shall be exempt from duty. In our judgment the word "shall" spoke for the future and was not intended to apply to transactions completed when the act became a law."
