It has come to be a common thing to hear the tariff spoken of as a dead issue. Democrats generally recognize the fact that their party has made such a miserable failure of its efforts at reform that they would gladly see the subject relegated to the rear until their folly is forgotten. But it is still a live subject and one that will have to be given attention by congress, and it will be present in the coming national campaign, no matter who may be the candidates of the respective parties. In a recent number of the American Economist there is given the opinions of 101 senators and representatives in congress, and of a large number of the editors of prominent newspapers in all parts of the country, all of whom believe in the necessity for tariff revision along the line of protection to American industries. There are letters from three congressmen from Kentucky who declare themselves to be protectionists, and they are joined by three from Tennessee, four from Missouri, one from Texas, two from West Virginia and a senator from Delaware. Of the newspaper opinions there are letters from the west and south quite as pronounced in favor of the protection idea as any from New England. If anybody can read these letters and still hold to the belief that the miserable failure made by the last congress to better the condition of the country's trade and industries will be allowed to stand unchanged he will read to little purpose. The lesson set by Grover Cleveland and his party has been a dear one, but it was a lesson that will never be forgotten. The people have had time to do a deal of thinking and they have thought to good purpose. If there is any one subject on which the public mind has lingered more than on another it is the destruction of the purchasing power of the wage-earner and the transfer of a great part of the manufacturing industry of the coun-try to foreign shores. The only remedy to be found is in a restoration of the policy of protection. And it will be done.

Too Big a Job. Mr. Cleveland has undertaken some pretty big jobs in his time, in some of which he has succeeded and in more of which he has failed. His most conspicuous success is the disintegration of the democratic party. His most signal failure is his failure to redeem the promises of the platform on which he was elected. But his last undertaking, the suppression of the silver movement, is the most Herculean attempt he has yet made. It is an effort which is a foreordained failure and only a man of the pernicious enthusiasm which Mr. Cleveland possesses would think of making the effort. Mr. Cleveland wants the democratic national committee to get together and endeavor to stem the advancing tide of free silver sentiment, which has swept over the south and west, nearly inundated the central states and broken on the

The free traders are at last coming around to face the situation. As the Express pointed out months ago, the tariff must be revised in order to produce more revenue. If the idea of restoring protective duties is put aside, the only thing left is to reimpose duties on non-competing products, which are now free. The treasury department is said to be considering with much favor a proposition to put a duty on tea. It is argued with beautiful inconsistency that a duty could not raise the price. Only protective duties do that! Furthermore, it is said the duty would greatly improve the quality of the tea sold to Americans. What a blessing duties are, to be sure, provided they do not tend to encourage any American industry! Let the free traders keep right on thinking in that line. It is the logic of the situation from their view point. If they had recognzed it at first they would have framed a law which would. at least, not have been the humiliating failure that the Wilson law is proving. But let the free traders not overlook the fact that a duty on tea would be inadequate to meet the enormous deficit that is now piling up. There must be a duty on coffee, too, and a good sized one at that. Let them speak up boldly and say so. It will help greatly the efforts of the republican congress to restore a protective tariff which raises revenue by taxing competing products.-Express, Buffalo, N. Y.

WOMEN IN SCIENCE.

What Some Artists Have Done in Tha Direction.

In reply to inquiries as to what women have done for science in recent years, the following information has been given:

"Miss Margaret Whiting has painted many living, growing plants with scientific accuracy. Her studies delight the botanist by the unmistakable way that she portrays the facts of growth. The eye of the artist is satisfied with the selection of the beautiful specimens, boldly executed. Women want wall hangings, and Miss Whiting has painted with oil colors on gray linen gay blossoms, on bud-bearing stems, with their own leaves. They are restful, because the spaces left between follage and flower are graceful. She has learned from the Greeks and the Japanese not to jumble different forms together. Scientific men have a horror generally of the 'pretty' paintings by women. 'We need the truth. Mere prettiness is no use to us,' they say politely; but they take pains to steer clear of 'feminine fancy work,' as they call the flower pieces that appear at picture galleries. Women too often think that scientific truth cannot be observed without ugliness. Miss Whiting's paintings show that her botanical knowledge has helped her to see the important distinctions in the plant world. Artistic training gives the power of expressing scientific truth gracefully."

"Ah," said an art critic, "I once went through the National Academy of Design with a scientific draughtsman and his half-smothered contempt at the unnatural 'flower pieces' signed by women was both comical and pathetic. The American public loves color, and brilliant painting sells the canvas. This German artist used to help Agassiz, and though he tried not to hurt my feelings as a woman, I saw through his eyes how science regards woman's work in art."

FOR USERS OF "SPECS."

Hints Which Wearers of Eye-Glassos Will Find Valuable.

The "sizzling season" brings to the man who wears glasses, either "pinchers" or "specs," a double burden of woe, and as it is the Recorder's mission to mitigate the sufferings of humanity, no matter in what form it comes, these hints are offered for the benefit of all quadroculars. If you wear spectacles, and they are of steel, the nose-piece will certainly rust and discolor the skin in addition to making it sore. To remedy this have your optician put a tiny bit of cork under the bridge. You will probably take your spectacles off twenty times a day in the next three months to wipe them. Lfttle by little they will get entirely out of focus, but so gradually that you will not know what the matter is when your eyes hurt you. Take your glasses to an optician. They make no charge for the job, and it takes only a minute or two to set them right. Never use chamois skin to cleanse your lenses. A drop or two of ammonia and a clean bit of linen is simplest and best for the purpose. Do not fold your spectacles up. The threads of the little screws thereby become loosened and give great annoyance. If you are going to be at the seaside much, get gold frames. Salt water rusts steel ones in a day or two. Don't use a string or chain if you wear eyeglasses. You will

The Iron Industry.

The statistics of iron production tell a sad story of the damage inflicted on home industry by the free trade agitation that attended the election of President Cleveland and a free trade tariff. congress in 1892, and culminated in the passing of the Gorman bill in 1894.

In 1890 the United States produced 9,202,703 gross tons of pig iron. In 1894 the production fell to 6,657,388 gross tons.

Under protection the production of iron had increased with steady strides until it attained the high figure named in 1890, benefiting the whole country, south as well as north. All this was in accordance with the general development of our industries under which progress was the normal condition. Hence it might have been expected that the production of pig iron would have gone on satisfacturily, and that it would have passed the 10,000,000 tons mark by this time. Instead, the figures quoted show that our furnaces produced 2,545,315 gross tons less in 1894 than they did in 1890.

What did this shrinkage mean? It meant less wages for the workmen; less money for the shopkeeper and farmer; less demand for iron ore and coal. It meant less dividends for the capital invested; smaller inducements to develop iron lands, and a heavy decrease in the general wealth of the country.

In the south, where iron ore is so abundant, these facts, which concern shows that she wants comfort herself. 2.545,315 gross tons to the iron smelled reception. the whole country, should meet with special consideration. # WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN CANAD.

Nearly Half of the Members of the Commons Favor It.

A significant vote on woman suffrage occurred last week in the Commons, at Ottawa. It was the first time the question ever came to a vote in that body. On May 8 the Commons member for Assiniboin, Mr. N. F. Davin, moved the following resolution:

That, in the opinion of this house, the privilege of voting for candidates for membership thereof should be extended to women possessing the qualifications which nowentitie men to the electoral franchise.

Dr. Davin, who is one of the most widely read and eloquent men in the house, followed up his motion with a forcible address. The Hon. Mr. Laurier, leader of the opposition, moved in amendment:

That the question of woman's suffrage is one which, like all other questions concerning suffrage, more properly belongs to provincial legislation.

This squarely challenged a party vote, as the amendment attacked the Dominion franchise. One of the notable features of the debate which followed was the emphatic pronouncement of the leader of the Commons, the Hon. Mr. Foster, in personal favor of the resolution.

The debate was continued at intervals during the intervening weeks, and a division took place on last Thursday. The amendment was lost, by a majority of 54. Mr. Davin's resolution was then voted upon and defeated by 105 to 47. The woman suffragists of Canada have now the advantage of the recorded vote to work upon in their future efforts to advance the movement. It shows that nearly fifty per cent of the house of commons is in favor of woman suffrage. Fashions in Mourning.

Of late years English mourning, which is by the best dressmakers conceded to be in the best taste, is heavier than before, but is worn a shorter time. A widow will wear her crape, Henrietta cloth, bombazine, and widow's cap for a year. After that time she will assume all black without crape. and discard even this at the end of another year, putting on whatever colors she may fancy. A daughter wears what is known as "crape mourning" for six months, all black for six more, and then if she wishes puts on colors. The same rule applies to a sister, while "complimentary mourning," which is simply all black assumed for a distant relative or a dear friend, is in order for three months.-Ladies' Home Journal.
