O'NEILL BASE BALL

Randolph, played on the home grounds last Thursday afternoon, was the best seen in O'Neill since the days when old Tex and Wilson occupied the pitcher's and catcher's boxes respectively.

The grounds were filled with spectators and the enthusiasm was something wonderful to see and deafening to hear.

Nothing happened to mar the pleasure of the game, except the awful umpiring of Frank Dorsey, who had his money staked on the Randolph team and did his best to win it. He missed no opportunity to give the Randolph all that our team won out by a score of

O'NEILL BASE BALL The game of ball between O'Neill and GEN. O'NEILL MONUMENT

Now Rises Above His Grave in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

TRIBUTE OF NUMEROUS FRIENDS

His Career as a Union Soldier and Fenian Leader- Founder of O'Neill.

Omaha Bee: For over seventeen years the grave of General John O'Neill in boys the better of the decisions, but for Holy Sepulcher cemetery in Omaha remained unmarked. By many this was regarded as a reflection on the patriotism of surviving friends, admirers and assoclates in the movement for the betterment of his countrymen. But his memory was not torgotten, nor was his grave neglected. Some time ago friends of the deceased in Omaha inaugurated a fund to procure a monument in all respects worthy of his memory, and with the assistance of outside admirers their efforts were recently crowned with suc-

> The monument stands at the head of the grave on the northern crest of the cemetery hill. The location is a sightly one. To the east and north miles of the city's suburbs are within range of the vision. South and west the eye may sweep the Pappio valley and the valleys and upland. The monument is a square column of polished granite, fifteen feet high, resting on two terraced blocks of granite, and beneath is a four-foot foundation of cemented stone. The capstone is cruciform. On the four squares are emblematic designs-the open hand, the Irish harp, the American eagle and stars. Around these shamrocks twine. On the main base the name "O'Neill" is carved in raised letters, and on the front of the monument is the following in-

GENERAL JOHN O'NEILL. Hero of Ridgeway. Born in Ireland. March 9, 1834. Died in Omaha, January 8, 1878. By Nature a Brave Man, By Principle a Soldier of Liberty.

He Fought with Distinction for His Adopted Country, and Was Ever Ready to Draw His Sword for His Native Land. To Perpetuate His Memory This Monument was Krected by the Irish Nationalists.

GOD SAVE IRELAND. The lot is surrounded with a granite coping.

General O'Neill achieved distinction in the union army during the war. At the breaking out of the rebellion he was sergeant major of the First cavalry, havng joined the army in 1857. He served with McCellan in the Peninsula camwhile attempting a slide at second. It paign, and had a horse shot under him although he finished the game he was joined the Fifth Indian cavalry, serving confined to his room for a couple of in Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio, and for gallantry in the famous Morgan raid was commissioned first lieutenant, and later rose to the rank of captain. Troublesome wounds forced him to retire from the army in 1864.

> After the war, ---, with thousands of his countrymen who had just laid down their arms, General O'Neill railied around the Fenian standard, and was chosen of the leaders of the projected raid on Canada. The movement crystalized in the early summer of 1866, and rendezvoused on the American border from Buffalo to Ogdensburg. General O'Neill commanded the first detachment of the raiders to set foot on Canadian soil. They crossed Niagara river near Buffalo, to the number of 600, and captured Fort Erie on June 1. The day following they met the British troops near Ridgeway, a dozen miles north of Fort Erie. There were three Britishers to one Fenian, but the desparity in numbers did not prevent them coming together. Some sharp fighting was had. culminating in the rout of the British. O'Neill did not receive the support expected, in fact the movement was without a governing head on the American side, and was forced to retire in a few days from Canada. Arrest followed and the raid collapsed.

General O'Neill is best remembered in Nebraska for his efforts in colonizing the state. More enduring than granite is the prosperous and progressive city in Holt county which he founded and which bears his name. The best efforts of his later years were in the interest of the peace and prosperity of his countrymen. He labored zealously to draw them from the crowded cities to fertile lands, then to be had for the asking. Many acted on his advice and struggled through the hardships incident to pioneer farming. Scores of those pioneers are today rich in the world's goods, the ripened fruit of their energies directed

ANOTHER JAIL DELIVERY.

Ed Tierney escaped from the Holt county jail last Friday evening about 8 o'clock. His rush for liberty was well planned and boldly executed. Ball, the old man confined on the charge of rape, was the only prisoner besides Tierney and Jailor Gibbons did not keep them confined in the cells all of the time, but allowed them the liberty of the jall when he was there to watch them: Ball is subject to fainting spells and it was while suffering from an attack of that kind that the prisoner made his escape. Ball fell over in a faint and while the jailor was administering to his comfort Tierney made a rush for the door. Gibbons realized in a moment what was up and followed hot on his trail and would have overtaken him had he not been attacked by a vicious dog urged on by Mrs. Tierney. Young Tierney ran across the back yard of his own home -which is next door to the fail-and over to his father's blacksmith shop where two horses, belonging to Martin Gallagher, were standing. He sprang upon one of them and accompanied by another young fellow, known as "Reckless" Chisholm, upon the other horse, put spurs to the steed and was off like a rocket.

The alarm was spread and pursuit given but it was of no avail. They made good their escape.

The plans for the flight were well made and carried out without a hitch. for sweets. Chisholm, the man who aided in the escape, had been staying at the Tierney residence for a couple of days getting everything in readiness and waiting until such time as fortune might find it Journal. convenient to favor the brave.

Tierney was being held to answer to the charge of petty larceny, and possibly counterfeiting.

IN THE TOILS.

United States Attorney A. J. Sawyer and Deputy United States Marshal Hubbard, were in O'Neill Wednesday on what transpired to be important business, especially to J. W. McLaughln, of O'Neill, who was arrested by the marshal and taken before County Judge Mc-Cutcheon upon the following complaint:

United States of America, } s.s.

DISTRICT OF NEBRASKA. S.S.

Before me L. W. Billingsley, United States Commissioner to take bail:

On this 10th day of August, 1895, at the city of Lincoln, in the district of Nebraska, before me L. W. Billingsley, commissioner of the circuit court of the United States of America, for the said district, comes Donald J. Sinclair, and upon his oath complains and says, that he has good cause to believe and does believe, that James W. McLaughlin, late of O'Neill, in the county of Holt, in the state of Nebraska, on the first day of May, 1895, at O'Neill aforesaid, in the said district then and there with the design to abstract the correspondence, and pry into the business and secrets of another. awfully did take a certain letter, which then lately before had been in the postoffice of the said United States there, and had not been delivered to the person to whom the same was directed, that is to say a certain letter directed to one J. A. McLaughlin, at O'Neill aforesaid, contrary to the form of the statute in such cases made and provided.

The above is the first count of the complaint, which cites four more similar infractions of law, covering the same dates. One of the letters is said to have contained a valuable package.

Mr. McLaughlin was bound over in the sum of $500 to appear before the United States circuit corut.

The defendant is a young man who has resided near O'Neill for a good many years and has numerous friends. The trouble in this case arose over the similarity of names, his name being J. W. McLaughlin, and the name on the letter being J. A. McLaughlin.

One of the letters contained notice that a suit of clothes had been shipped by express to J. A. McLaughlin. It is said that the defendant in this action took the letter to the express agent, paid the charges and took the clothes.

It may be a little early for you to think about ordering a suit but some good salesman representing an eastern firm will drop in on you soon, and probably get an order; so we wish to remind you that we have our fail samples from two of the best custom tailoring houses in Chicago, ranging from $15.00 up, and guarantee as good satisfaction in fit and price as can possibly be obtained from any traveling agent. The same will apply to our white shirts, underwear, collars, hosiery etc., and we hope you will inspect our stock before sending out of town.

Yours respectfully, J. P. MANN.

"It is the best patent medicine in the world" is what Mr. E. M. Hartman, of Marquam, Oregou, says of Chomberlain's Colic, Cholera and Dlarrhoea Remedy.
