Prick a vigilanter and hear a pop howl.

The township ticket nominated by the republicans last Saturday is a good one and well worthy the support it will receive.

"Yes, my old comrades, they call upon us!" dramatically exclaims Mike the Forger, and the public is convulsed with laughter.

MAXWELL'S non-partisan play is not cutting much ice, although there are foibles upon the shoulder the public has turned towards him.

CANADIAN MIKE evinces unusual interest in the people's money. If he would interest himself as greatly in the financial affairs of the defunct Holt county bank the unfortunate depositors would no doubt be greatly obliged to him.

OUR esteemed contempts, who have always been pleased to quote the sayings of that "sterling populist," J. P. Cavanaugh, of Sioux City, are respectfully and respectfully requested to read the story of his flop, published on our local page this week.

It is not the reporting of vigilance outlawry that works injury to Holt county, it is the acts of lawlessness themselves. If people want to preserve the good name of the county it would be a first-rate idea to make it so warm for violators of law that there would be no occasion for reporting incidents of the Binkerd kind.

A SHAKESPEAREAN society of New York is about to pay $5,000 for the Poe cottage. And so runs the world away. When the poor devil was on earth, cold, shivering, and dead broke he couldn't pawn his choicest lines for the price of a meal. Literary gentlemen are like the noble redmen: they are both more highly esteemed after death.

WHEN any man takes the political stump, be he layman or clergyman, he thereby invites criticism and he has no kick coming when he receives it. Rev. Lowrie, Rev. Hayes nor any other man has license to think that he can stump Holt county in this year of our Lord and make all kinds of ridiculous statements without being called to account for them.

THE populist state central committee has been having one great time to get some man to accept its chairmanship. Stark and McKeighan both flatly refused to have anything to do with it, so it was handed over to Joe Egerton. Joe always takes anything that is offered to him and asks no questions. In his lexicon there is no such word as "no."

Beware of the man who writes anonymous articles for publication, and beware of the paper that publishes them. The man whose cause is just has no fear to attach his signature to anything he may wish to say through the public press. Usually it is only the liar, the libeler and the demagogue who fear to father his own productions. They generally come from such a source that the name of the author would punch the gills out of the articles.

THE pops of Holt are making wry faces at the republicans and democrats for fusing, but we take particular notice that they say nothing about the state pop ticket being headed by a man who claims to be nothing but a republican. And, too, they omit mention of the numerous fusions made by pops and democrats in various counties of the state.

GOV. CULBERTSON, of Texas, has convened the state legislature in extra session for the purpose of enacting laws that will stop the Corbett-Fizsimmons go. Mrs. Culbertson said recently in a Chicago interview that nine out of every ten men in Texas wanted the fight to go on. If that is true the legislators will hardly do more than meet, make arrangements for front seats and adjourn.

THE Advocate so far has had no chance to support a nominee for Judge upon the bench, nor does it believe that a democrat can wear the ermine of Judge of the Fifteenth judicial district. We know that we are hopelessly in the minority, and our high regard for Judge Kinkaid will almost compel us to support him in the judicial field, because of his competency.—Spencer Advocate.

A PETITION is in circulation this week asking the school board to submit a proposition to bond this school district for a sum sufficient to pay outstanding warrants and place the district on a cash basis. The way matters now stand the district is compelled to pay two prices for everything that is bought. At the present rate it will not take long to swamp the schools, and this paper believes the best thing to do is to bond and do business in a business way.

MULLEN F. HARRINGTON contributed a long old soldier article to the last issue of the Sun. The signature to the diatribe was "Long Roll," but we will stake our reputation as a true prophet that Canadian Mike is the author. The leopard cannot change its spots, neither can Mike disguise himself. A man who will address the old soldiers from behind a nom de plume is unworthy their consideration. Such an one would hire a substitute should he be called to his country's defense.

THE outstanding indebtedness of this school district is $7,500. These warrants are drawing interest at the rate of 7 per cent. Bonds bearing 6 per cent. interest can be voted and a saving of 1 per cent. made there. The district now pays two prices for everything purchased. For instance: If a ton of $5 coal is wanted it is necessary to draw a warrant for $10 or go without the coal. It does not require much of a mathematician to figure out that the district cannot stand that kind of work very long. It behooves the people who are interested in the common weal to take an interest in this matter.

SAMUEL MAXWELL, of Fremont, who has accepted the pop nomination for supreme judge, is a young man of seventy-eight years who has a great future behind him. He held down one corner of the supreme bench for twenty-one years, during which time a great many people reached their majority; he was placed there by the republican party, and naturally enough, while he occupied his high office he held and maintained that the republican party was a grand old party in very truth. When he repaired to his hermitage at Fremont, however, and found that the grand old party wouldn't put him back on the bench for twenty-one years more, he became disgusted with it. He saw at a glance that the party had outlived its usefulness, and was in its dotage, and he wisely decided to cut loose from it and give his support to the people's party, an organization that is young and vigorous, like himself. He is now a full-fledged candidate, and is calling on the b'hoys in various towns, telling cute stories, and distributing cigars bought at Wolcott's cauliflower aquarium in Fremont. It is pleasing in the extreme to see this gay and festive cavalier cavorting over the state telling why the republican party is no good, and why the party of billgrene and gannegre is the proper goods.—Walt Mason.

It is a fact known particularly well by those who deal with criminals that a murderer cannot refrain from revivifying the scene of his crime. There seems to be a fascination about the awful spot that draws upon the blood-stained soil and impels the guilty one to approach with nervous tread the fatal place and there re-enact in his feverish imagination every detail of the butchery. See again the death struggles of the victim; hear the dull and sickening thud of the lifeless body, and look once more into the glassy eyes of the dead. It is a further truth that those who have burdened their lives with the innocent blood of their kind become at once changed men. They are never the same again. In an attempt to disguise the fear that is in their hearts they become boisterous with a false boldness and appear always to be looking for something to materialize in thin air. They start and shudder when the wind shrieks in a wilder strain, and a dark night and a lonely spot is for them filled with horrors. In truth they are haunted. There is for them no such thing as rest or peace of mind or tranquil life. The remainder of their days is spent in one wild effort to escape from the memory of themselves and their dead. The subject is always uppermost in their minds, and to bring succor of remorse for the time being they delight to talk and write about it.
