WANTED TO BUY 'EM.

A gentleman living in Atkinson visited in O'Neill last Sunday and in a converfeet as soon as the prison doors opened sation with a FRONTIER representative

"By the way, I saw Elmer Williams in Atkinson the other day."

The reporter always interested in Elmer's movements, said "le that so. what was he doing?"

The gentleman from Atkinson then chuckled to himself and remarked: "He had been up west hunting geese, and when the train stopped at our station he alighted from his car and hurriedly summoned our nimrods to assemble. When they had gathered about him, in a voice that harmonized with his look of despair he said, 'for God's sake, boys, tell me where I can buy a dozen wild geese. I have spent a week in the blanked sand hills of Sheridan and haven't seen a feather. I dare not go to O'Neill empty handed; can't you help me?' But the boys told him they couldn't; the train whistled and Williams grabbed the rear car in a manner that indicated he didn't care a darn whether he caught it or not."

The gentleman of Atkinson swore us to secrecy in regard to the matter, but as "THE FRONTIER has no circulation" anywa, we violate no confidence by printing it for our own amusement.

ANOTHER JAIL DELIVERY.

Old man Ball, held on the charge of rape, made his escape last Thursday. The old man was in poor health and was kept at the Odgen instead of at the jail. The court refused to liberate him on his own recognizance and he was remanded to the custody of the sheriff who located south side of Prospect hill. The dirt him at the hotel and did not so much as provide a guard for his safe-keeping.

A deputy called on him at his hotel last Wednesday and informed him that on the following day he would again take him to jail, advising him to arrange for incarceration. When the deputy called for him at the appointed time he was gone and at the present writing he hasn't come back. He won't come back. The case against him was a strong one and conviction seemed inevitable. He was accused of seducing a 14-year old step-daughter.

Jail deliveries under Sheriff Hamilton's administration are becoming so numerous as to excite but little comment. People seem to look upon that as a matter of course and say nothing.

While it is a fact that we have a poor excuse for a jail and it is a shame to keep even suspected criminals locked up in it, more care should be exercised by the authorities. ## "THE BEAUTIFUL."

Sunday ushered in a snow storm that lasted during the entire day and most of the night. It was accompanied by no wind, but was one of those large flaked, holiday goods. The merchant who has lazy affairs which reminds every one of bargains to offer should not be averse to childhood days in the "old home back east," where blizzards were at that time

About six inches fell and the sleighing is now very good. It's coming was prothe plow would thrive, himself must the nights beautiful; not too dark nor too light, but just dark enough-so that added: He who by trade his fortune the couple in the cutter behind cannot just make out whether the fellow ahead is driving with one hand or two.

Such a storm at this season is unusual but we ascribe it to the fact that Doc Mathews is no more among us. Several years ago Mathews wrote a poem on "Beautiful Snow," and since that untoward event the county has been enshrouded in one almost continual blizzard. His runic rhyme seemed to offend the gods and Mathews was a Jonah to the people. It snowed all of the time. For a few weeks in July it would pause for breath, only to come along in August rejuvenated and invigorated like a man having taken the Keeley treatment; it would freeze men while plowing their corn and kill whole herds of cattle as they nipped the budding blossoms of a season they thought summer. But Mathews has gone; the whale got him and spat him out in the back-water of Arkansas, a victim for the malaria microbes and booming bacteria. We look for better things from this time on.

ROWELESS OHILDREN

Rev. E. P. Quivy, of Omaha, the state superintendent of the NebraskaChildrens Home Society, who spoke in the Methoin the interest of the little ones was in pleted the organization of a local advisory board to co-operate with the state board in providing homes for homeless children. The object of this society is to gather up homeless children in Nebrasks and place them in christian homes in different parts of the state. This time has received 149 children, 185 of whom are now in good homes where they become members of the families and are now fitted for lives of usefulness instead of growing up in ignorance, or subjects for the reform school and other institutions of like nature.

When we realize that it costs $75 to keep a child in a poor house one year. and $188,30 in an orphanage, one can readily see the benefit of this society to the public from a financial as well as from a moral, educational and religious standpoint.

The state board consists of the following well known Nebrasks citizens: President, Chas. F. Manderson, vice president, L. D. Holmes; secretary, Rev. E. P. Ludden; treasurer, G. S. Benawa.

The local borrd here consists of the following persons from the various churches: Mr. Potter, president; O. O. Snyder, vice-president; Alberta Uttley, secretary, Laura Cress, treasurer. Mrs. A. U. Morris, Mrs. Rose Kinch, Mrs. Jennie Harnish, Mrs. F. B. Cole and Mrs. O. M. Collins.

Anyone knowing of any children in Holt county needing homes, or any person who may desire to take a homeless child will please report to any member of this board whose duty it will be to have the matter attended to at once.

"Nebraska Homes for Nebraska Children," is the motto of the society. The national society is organized in sixteen states and over 5,000 children have been placed in good homes by the society in eighteen years.

They think they have the best system in the world for caring for homeles children and to prove that they are not alone in the thought the Worlds Fair awarded them the medal for the best plan of work, which is surely a recommendation.

We note also that the O'Neill people have a desire to be at the front in this as well as all other measures for advance ment, as forty persons subscribed what they could for the carrying on of this work when Mr. Quivy was here, and we trust that the community at large will give the society its support and thus help along a charitable and christian work.

Homes are now wanted for the following children: One girl 14 years of age; One girl 12 years of age; one girl 9 years ot age; one girl 8 years of age; one babe O'Neill public schools for the month two months old; one boy 12 years of age; one boy 8 years of age; one boy 7 years of age; one boy two years of age, and two brothers 4 and 6 years old, all good

We ask all who have good homes and children to look over this list carefully and prayerfully.
